AS TIME GOES BY

As freshmen, we were no longer able to sit back and watch somebody else do things for us. Rather, we had to act with the confidence and maturity expected from today's young adults.

As Time Goes By

Though many of us at times may have felt a haunting shiver run up our spine, we subscribed to Seton Hall's motto, "Hazard Zet Forward" (Advance Despite Difficulties).

AS TIME GOES BY

As it is now our time to exit the warm embrace offered to us during our time spent here, we have gained the knowledge and established the social bonds needed to function in the "real world."

AS TIME GOES BY

We leave these hallowed halls with confidence in the principles that guided St. Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton.

As time went by, we learned to take advantage of all life has to offer. We grew mentally, physically, emotionally and spiritually. We have much to be proud of. After all, it takes courage to grow as time goes by.

We learned from each other.
We influenced each other.
We will help each other.
We will remember each other.

Reaffiriming Seton Hall's

Catholic Tradition

The Mass of the Holy Spirit Marked the Opening of the Fall Semester

One of the greatest aspects of Seton Hall is the spiritual enlightenment one receives when attending this University. This is especially apparent every September, when the community here at Seton Hall assembles for the Mass of The Holy Spirit.

The Mass of the Holy Spirit took place on Wednesday, September 9, at noon, in the Bishop Dougherty Student Center. The students and faculty who attended the Mass, witnessed not only the familiar people and rites which marked the uniqueness of the parish masses, but also a man whom Seton Hall is proud to include in our spiritual celebration. This man is none other than Most Reverend Charles J. McDonnel, D.D. Auxiliary Bishop of Newark. University Chancellor and President Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., and Bishop McDonnel celebrated the Eucharist marking the beginning of a new academic year. Bishop McDonnel delivered the Homily and welcomed everyone back to Seton Hall. Bishop McDonnel, a graduate of Seton Hall himself, stressed the fact that Seton Hall is special because it is not only a place of learning, but also a place where one can attain an ethical foundation.

The most memorable part of his speech dealt with the Holy Spirit itself. Bishop McDonnel explained that the Holy Spirit gives each individual a gift or talent. That gift or talent is not for an individual's own personal gain, but for mankind. The reward for this service to mankind is happiness, in the this world and the next. His speech also included the fact that one can never attain true happiness until they find God. Further, pleasure and wealth is not the key to true happiness.

The Holy Spirit gave mankind the gift of many tongues, rather, many languages. Seton Hall celebrates this gift from the Holy Spirit through the General Intercessions. The General Intercessions were read in various languages, such as Spanish, Italian, French, Portuguese, Japanese, Russian, Chinese, Vietnamese, Korean, and Indian. Diversity in Catholicism was at its apex when the members of the Seton Hall family sang together in prayer and happiness. This Mass allowed for everyone to assemble together and celebrate as one community. It is amazing what the power of God can do for us all.

Walsh Library Is Dedicated On University Day

Rain did not cancel the celebration for the 10th Annual University Day featuring the dedication of the Walsh Library held on October 1. However, certain arrangements were made to accommodate for the weather. The Farinalla 5K run, which usually starts the day, had to be cancelled.

The highlight of the day, the dedication of Walsh Library, began the day. Friends, family, and alumni stood in line across campus for the traditional last book pass from McLaughlin Library to the new Walsh Library. Even though the rain came down harder as time went by, the crowd stood by to watch Reverend Theodore McCarrick, Archbishop of Newark, bless the library. Archbishop McCarrick conveyed the importance of education and the new library as a symbol of Seton Hall's commitment to education.

Throughout the day, some of the activities were moved indoors. The electronic golf driving range, speed pitch, spin art frisbees, a moon walk, and virtual reality booth were all moved inside Walsh Gymnasium.

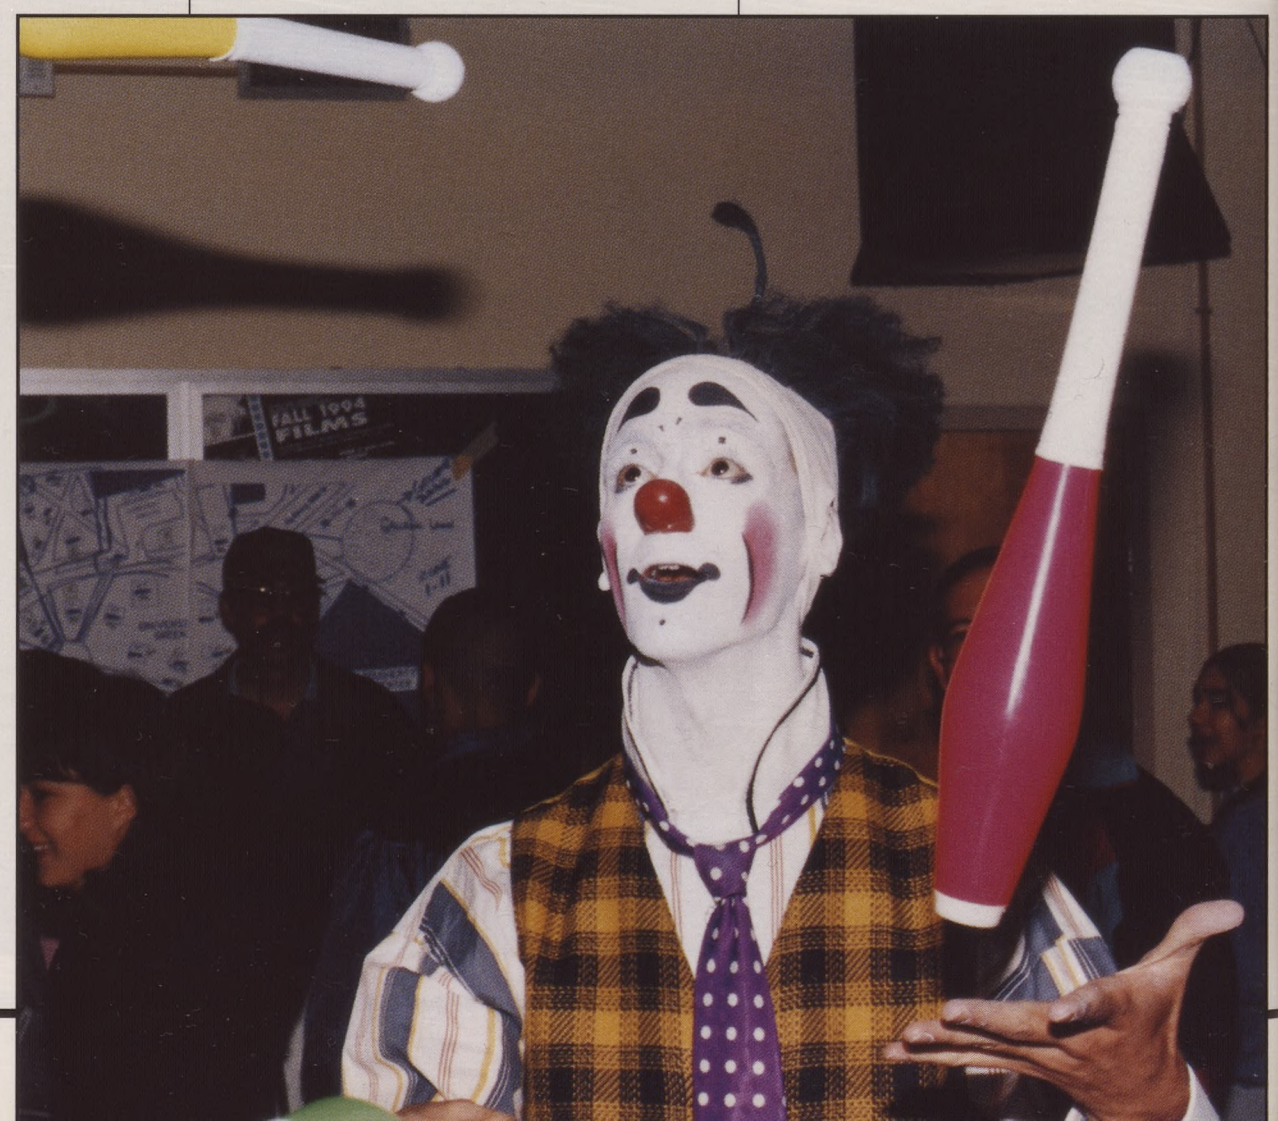

Other activities did not succumb to the weather, as they were shielded by various canopies. Painting pumpkins and T-shirts seemed to be enjoyed by all of the participants.

University Day 1994 concluded in the early evening with a mass at 4 p.m. and a concert at 6 p.m. The mass was held in Walsh Gym and the concert was held in the Rec Center Field House. The concert featured the sounds of St. Peter's by the Sea orchestra.

"Anything is Possible!" according to Heather Whitestone MISS AMERICA 1995

Heather Whitestone, Miss America 1995, delivered a speech to the Seton Hall community on Monday, November 7. Whitestone's appearance was one of the highlights of Seton Hall's Human Relations Week as she not only displayed her crown, but also provided a presentation entitled "Anything is Possible."

Miss Whitestone, who is 95 percent deaf, urged students to follow their dreams in the face of adversity, by not allowing obstacles to stand in the way.

Miss Whitestone's deafness occurred as a result of a reaction to a diptheria-pertussis tetanus shot she received when she was 18 months old. She recalled that it took many years of speech therapy before she could even pronounce her last name correctly.

Despite this obstacle, Whitestone lived with the condition for 21 years, she has become a gifted ballerina. By feeling the beat of the music, Whitestone performed a brilliant ballet routine that won her the first place position in the talent competition at the Miss America pageant.

From MIDNIGHT MADNESS to Halloween

The annual activities associated with Halloween came to Seton Hall earlier than usual this year. Though Midnight Madness is usually the perfect end to a wonderfully exciting Halloween, this year, it kicked off the "Madness" at the Hall at midnight on Friday, October 14.

The festivities of Midnight Madness began at 10:00 p.m. as the cheers from Pirate fans shook the rafters of Walsh Gymnasium. The evening began with great prize giveaways, including tickets to see the New Jersey Nets, the New Jersey Devils and the New York Yankees, and pairs of Reebok sneakers. There was also a raffle of season tickets for the basketball games at the Meadowlands. Students who purchased season tickets would have the chance to win the best seat locations at the Meadowlands without having to wait on line. The first five rows under both baskets were raffled off.

For the first time ever, a laser light show was shown before the countdown to midnight. The Saturn Five Laser Light Show incorporated state of the art laser technology with foot-stomping rock music. Just when fans thought the volume couldn't possibly get any higher, it did, as new Head Coach George Blaney took center court with microphone in hand. He addressed the crowd soon after his team hit the court at midnight. The men's basketball team played two fast and furious five-minute "halves."

As the night's activities drew to a close, Seton Hall students anticipated Halloween.

On October 29, 48 children from St. Anne's and St. Rocco's Family Shelters of Newark came to Seton Hall for a Halloween party sponsored by the Division of Volunteer Efforts (DOVE). The eager children were first met with a pizza party and pumpkin painting. As the time went on, the children were taken trick-or-treating to residence halls by various student volunteers. The day could best be explained by John Prescott, director of the DOVE program: "The Halloween celebration offered the children an opportunity to enjoy a holiday in a safe environment and took them away from an unfortunate situation for a little while."

Phi Kappa Theta Crowns The

QUEEN OF THE HALL

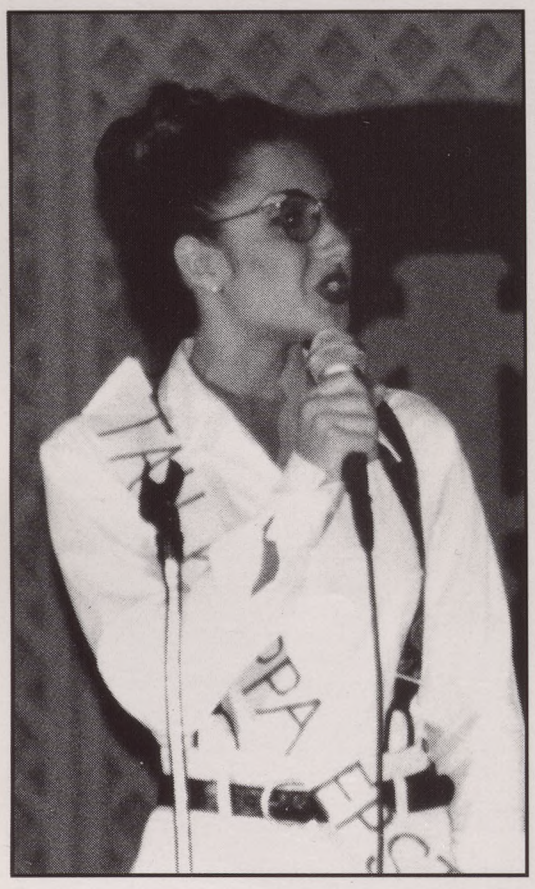

On October 20, the Sixth Annual Pirate Queen contest was held in the Main Lounge of the Bishop Dougherty Student Center. The competition was organized by the brothers of Phi Kappa Theta fraternity. Departments, clubs, and organizations sponsored a total of 29 women students who were judged on the basis of beauty, poise and personality before eight were chosen as semi-finalists.

At the end of the evening, the winner was Holly Sigworth, a sophomore sponsored by the women's soccer team. Sigworth is a member of Delta Phi Epsilon sorority and the team's physical trainer. Her crowning won her a trip for two to the Bahamas. First runner-up, Laurianne Brunetti, represented Freshman Studies, and second runner-up Betty McCormack, represented the Student Ambassador Society. The money raised by the event was given to the American Cancer Society, the fraternity's national philanthropy.

The judges for this year's Pirate Queen were Vanessa LoPresti, director of Judicial Affairs; Cheryl Ann Notari, assistant dean of Freshman Studies; Kristy McCann, assistant director of Student Activities; Father Bob Meyer, assistant director of Campus Ministry; Mike McMahon, director of Public Safety; and Richard Sheardy, professor of chemistry.

Delta Phi Epsilon Crowns The KING OF THE HALL

On February 22, 1995, the most dapper young men of Seton Hall came forth to represent University departments, clubs and organizations. All the men were winners, but in the end, only three could stand on top. The men of Seton Hall modeled business, casual and swimwear as they were judged on poise, presentation and demeanor. Imagine 27 young men competing for the title of Pirate King, performing routines that included chainsaws, karate and disco -- all of the components for an interesting evening, to say the least.

Second runner-up Thomas Smith represented the dignity and strength of the Student Senate. Phil Dolcemascolo, who represented the Pub and was named first runner-up, told tales about the excitement of the Pub, and Blair Jordan, representing Freshman Studies, had the audience on their feet with his usual cool, gregarious, and fun-loving personality as he was crowned the man among men.

The People's Choice Award, voted on by students who donated a dollar a vote to the Delta Phi Epsilon cystic fibrosis philanthropy, went to Darren Rydberg, representing Order of Omega.

This year's judges for the competition were Greek Life Advisor and Assistant Director of Student Activities Cindy Watkins, English Department Secretary Rebecca Warren, Graduate Assistant for Academic Services Joe Laganza, and Graduate Assistant for Career Services and Delta Phi Epsilon alumnus Annie Wong.

Deck the Hall

"Oh Christmas Tree, Oh Christmas Tree..." On Saturday, December 10, 1994, 1,100 children from the Boys and Girls Club of Newark visited Seton Hall University for the much anticipated, sixth annual "Deck The Hall." Three hundred Seton Hall students, decorated in red and green shirts, volunteered to reach out to the community and celebrate the season.

The Galleon Room and Main Lounge were transformed into a Winter Wonderland, decorated with Christmas trees, wreaths, ornaments, snowflakes, candy canes and a big screen T.V. that showed classic kids cartoons.

There were Disney characters with big smiles, clowns with loony talents, and magicians with unique tricks entertaining the children as they awaited on line to meet Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus.

Kevin Zupp, a student volunteer, said "This whole day was a vicarious experience for me in giving to those less fortunate and showing that I really care." He continued, "The children ate good food, sang Christmas carols, and played games....it was Christmas in all of its splendor."

Television has come to be regarded as one of the most relied upon forms of entertainment among college students at Seton Hall. Whether the show is Seinfeld, Friends, Melrose Place, Jeopardy or the ever popular game shows, students can't seem to keep themselves from tuning in. So what happens when a gameshow, with US currency as the prize to be obtained comes to Seton Hall? Students flock like birds in the Student Center game room to become apart of the event.

"What would you do for money?" became the phrase of the evening on September 30, 1995, as Blizzard of Bucks, which echoed the classic game show, "Let's Make A Deal," got underway. Over 50 students came out to see if they could be the big winner of the evening, taking home all of the cool cash their little pirate fingers could hold.

Sudents were soon put to the test as they sat at the edge of their seats in anticipation that they may be the next contestant to have possession of a bobby pin or be wearing red underwear in return for a dollar or so.

The game grew more complicated as students were asked to be more physical. As the money incentives increased, events became more challenging and at the same time humorous. Students did everything from stuffing balloons down their pants to wedging marshmallows into their mouths. While reciting tongue-twisting phrases, one lucky student had the chance to spend a full minute in a money machine. The lucky winner walked away with a cool hand of cash and evidence of the power of money.

BLOOD DRIVE

Seton Hall has often been described as a great big family. There are continuous efforts made be faculty, administration, staff, and students to help people who are in need. The biannual blood drive exemplifies just such a giving nature.

On October 3 and 4, the members of Alpha Kappa Psi co-ed business fraternity hosted the ever successful event which was held in the Main Lounge of the Student Center. With the growing concerns over the spread of AIDS, there is an increasing need for an ample blood supply for the New York and New Jersey area. Alpha Kappa Psi's desire to assist in this worthy cause is not new .

For over 20 years the organization has sponsored a blood drive every semester. This year, Sophomore member of Alpha Kappa Psi Carol Reyes was in charge of the blood drive. Reyes boasted that this year's event was particularly successful with 92 blood donors coming to support the cause. The members Alpha Kappa Psi were also on hand to help the donors register.

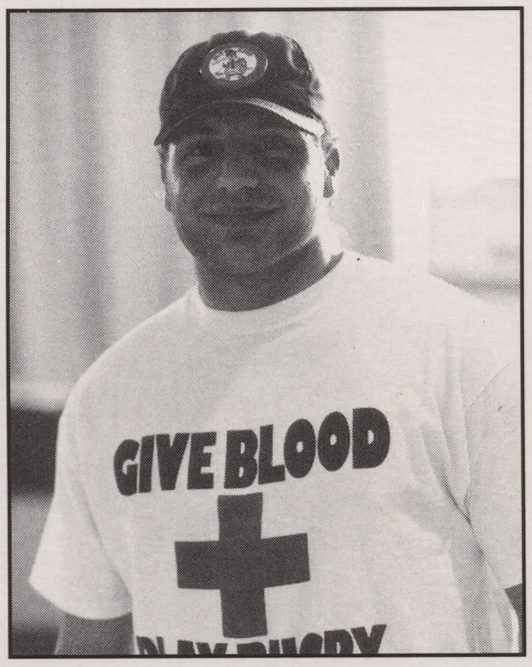

There are certain requirements for giving blood. The prospective donor must weigh at least 110 pounds and be 18 years of age or older. It is also required that the prospective donors have eaten prior to their donation. As a result, over 20 people were turned away due to ineligibility to donate.

The blood was then sent to the headquarters of North Jersey Blood Services in New Brunswick, where it awaited testing and possible disbursement among local medical facilities.

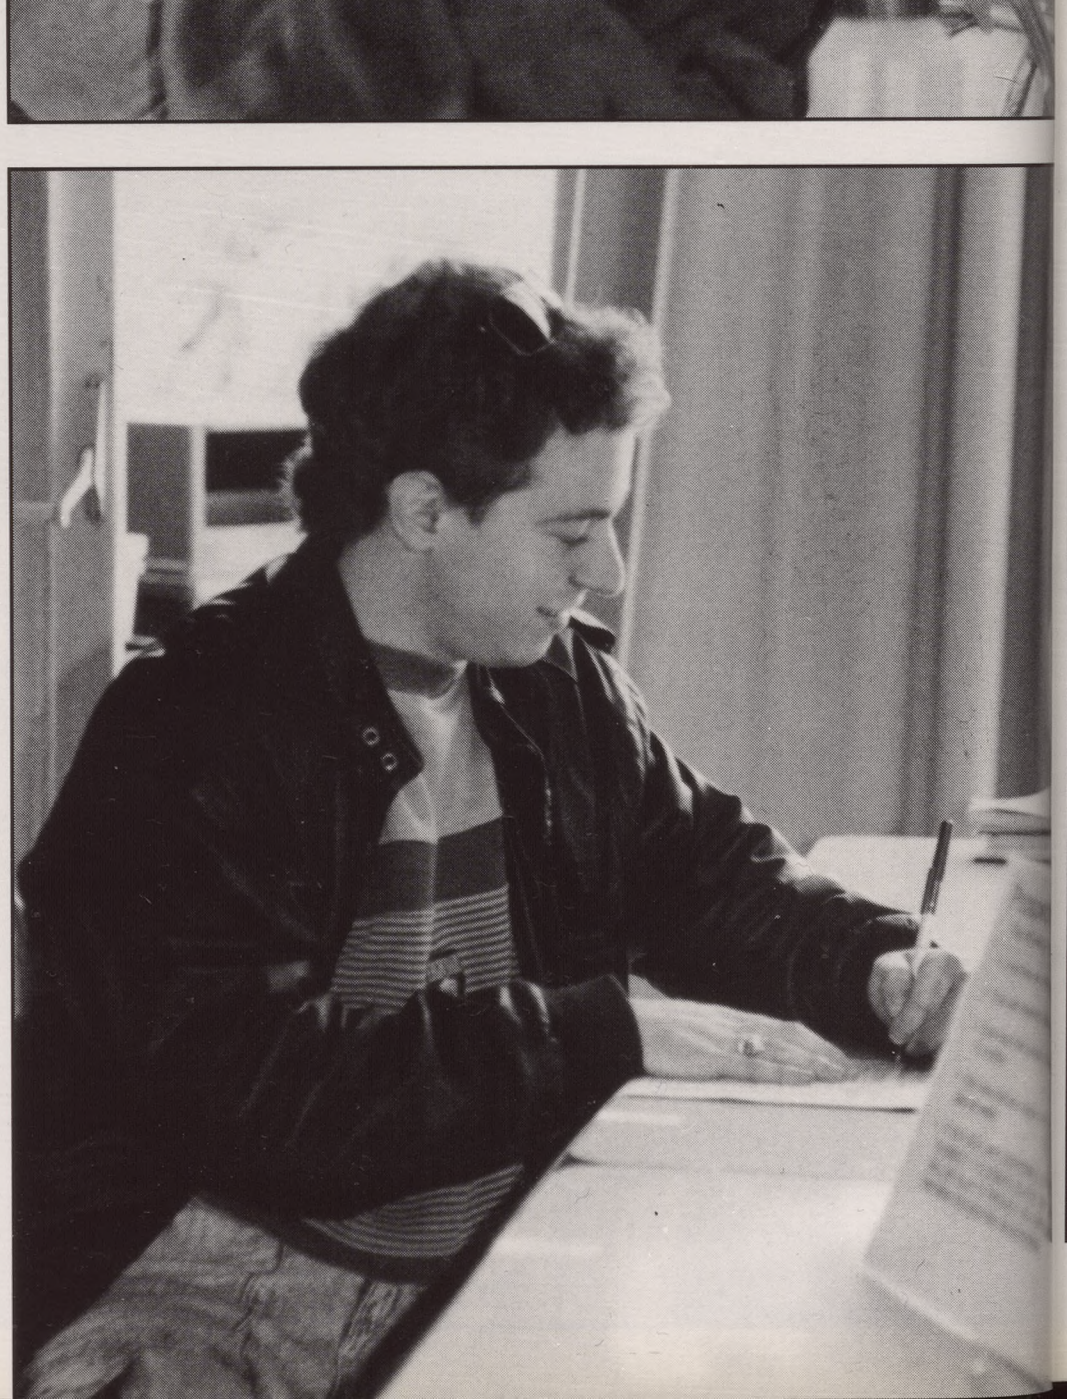

All in all, the event was a success with the Seton Hall community teaming up to save approximately 450 lives. Great job Seton Hall!

SPRING Carnival

The Spring proved to be the focus of the Student Activities Board as they hosted the annual "Spring Fling" carnival. Z100's two-story tall gorilla and the music of a deejay sent 300 students flocking to the University Green for an afernoon of food, music, and fun.

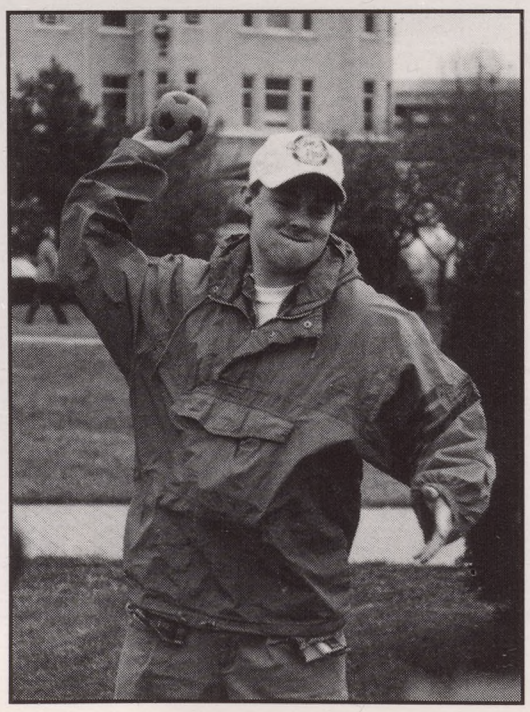

The Spring Fling carnival kicked off on March 31 at 1 p.m. providing students with the opportunity to participate in various events. The day's highlights included air twister, the moonwalk, a recording booth, sand art, old time photos, a grafitti artist, and the ever-popular gyro. Students often made their way to the food tent for hot dogs, hamburgers, ice cream, pop corn, and assorted drinks.

Kristy McCann, assistant director of Student Activities, explained the event was held on a Friday in an effort to meet the need for weekend programming. Melissa Fornarotto, sophomore, summed the day up best when she stated it was a definite stress relief from the wind down of the spring semester. The carnival allowed student to relax out on the Green an have a good time with the friends before the end of th semester.

PRESENTATION OF THE MCQUAID AND RAMON RAMOS MEDALS MARKED ST. ELIZABETH ANN SETON CHARTER DAY

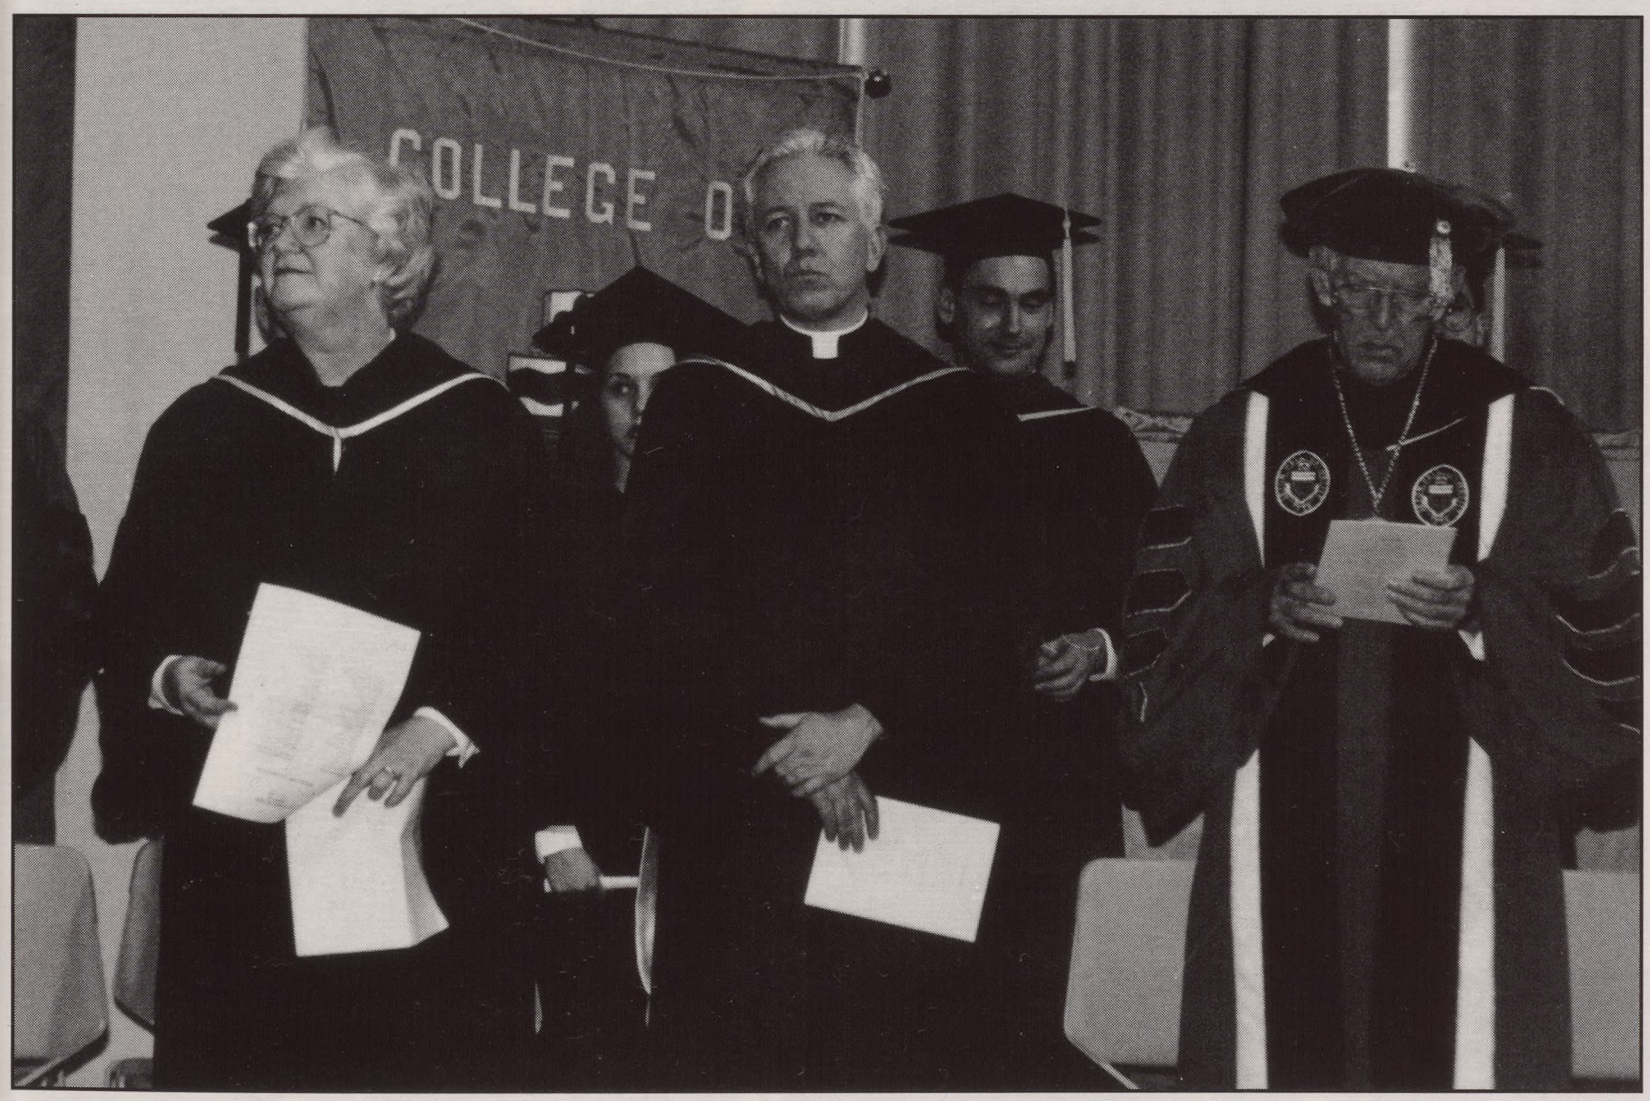

On March 8, 1995, three members of the University community received the McQuaid Medal, which cites individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the University.

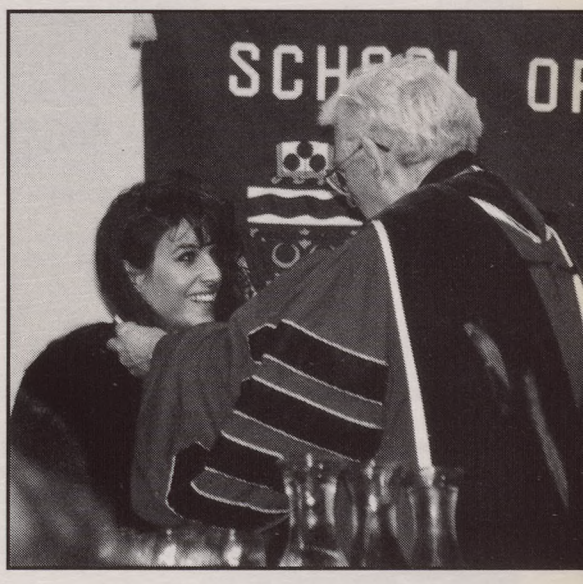

The McQuaid Medalists included Dean of Freshman Studies Peter G. Ahr, Ph.D.; University Budget Director Tony Citarelli; and Associate Professor of Psychology Reverend Peter F. Lennon, Ph.D., S.T.L. The McQuaid Medalist recipients were all recognized for their many years of service to the Seton Hall community.

The Ramon Ramos Medal of Courage was awarded to Seton Hall law student Hope Tuber. In November, Ms. Tuber was hit by a motorist on her way to the law school in Newark. Her injuries included neurological damage, broken ribs, a concussion, and loss of memory. Through intensive therapy, she returned to school in little over a week.

The ceremony's keynote address was given by Alice Bourke Hayes, president-elect of the University of San Diego. Titled "Mirror of Justice: The Church's Teaching on Justice and the Lives of Women," her speech stressed the progress women, including Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton, have made as time goes by.

The Galleon Room

The fall of 1994 brought many new changes to the Seton Hall community. With the closing of Aiello's Pizzeria, the Galleon Room opened its doors to several new food stations and franchises including: Taco Bell, a Mexican fast-food franchise; Fill My Bagel, featuring several kinds of bagels and toppings; Healthy Choice, offering a wide variety of deli items; and Carvel Ice Cream.

The renovated cafeteria offers something to satisfy everyone's taste.

The new franchises gained immediate popularity among students, faculty, administration and staff. The widespread approval of the renovations to the cafeteria was evident as patrons waited on line to get tacos, burritos, flying saucers, chocolate shakes, submarines and salads. Melissa Fornarotto, a sophomore, expressed her enthusiasm over the new offerings in the cafeteria by explaining, "The new choices to select from are a welcome change. It's nice to have a variety of choice in the Galleon Room." She continued, "I hope this trend of expanding the menu continues."

Gourmet Dining Services enthusiasm over the franchises on campus was conveyed by Al Frungillo, president of the food service. The comments on food surveys showed a definite need for both franchising and healthier eating, and he wanted to address both of those concerns. Frungillo noted, "The success and popularity of the franchises has opened the University to other options and the possibility exists to add more franchises." Nathan's is expected to open its doors to Seton Hall patrons by the start of the fall 1995 semester.

With its wondrous variety, Seton Hall's cafeteria has served as a model not only for other schools in New Jersey but also other neighboring states as well.

CAREER DAY

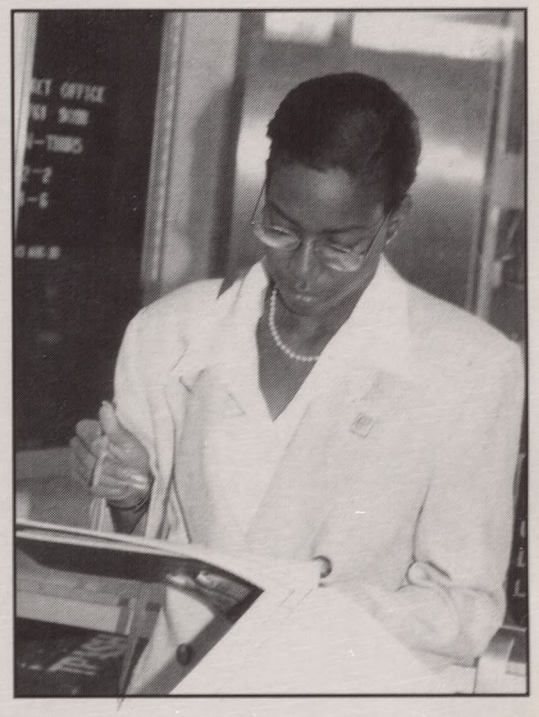

The Student Center Main Lounge was once again filled with students and alumni searching for an opportunity to network with some of the best employers in New Jersey. Career Day , which was a co-sponsored event between Career Services and Alpha Kappa Psi. Companies such as Prudential Securities, IBM, Blue Cross & Blue Shield, and the Secret Service came to Seton Hall to talk with Seton Hall's finest. Representatives from graduate programs, such as Seton Hall, Rutgers, and New York University were also on hand to answer questions.

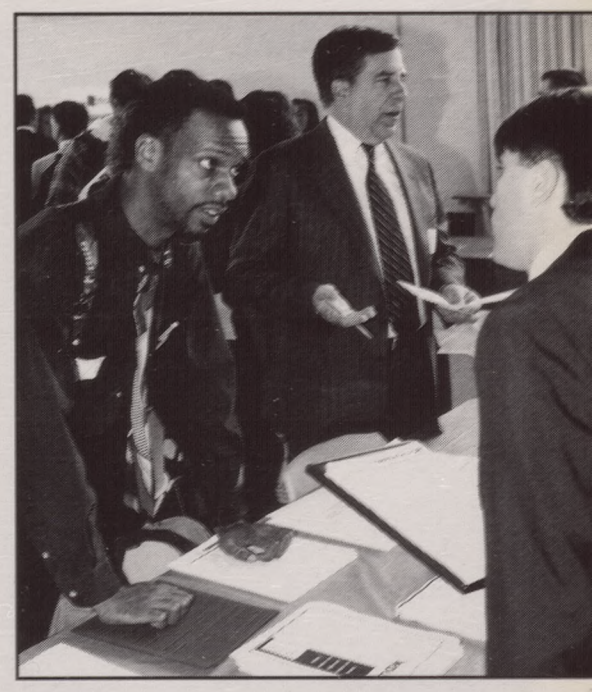

With resumés in hand, eager students dressed in their finest business wear ventured to the Main Lounge to try to get an interview with the companies of their choice. The event was just the thing many students needed to get the edge over the many job applicants currently flooding the job market. Many who attended were given the opportunity of being called back by various organizations for interviews.

Though many who attended had a clear goal in mind, others were not so certain. Therefore, companies were also equipped to answer the not so unusual question, "What should I do with my life?" Whether students had a particular target in mind,or were just there to browse, the event seemed to surpass everyone's expectations.

PIRATE'S COVE

Coffee House

In December, a tradition was revisited on Seton Hall's campus with the grand opening of the coffeehouse, fondly named "Pirate's Cove." Held in the darkened Gameroom, the event was the biggest craze to hit Seton Hall.

Upon entering the Coffeehouse, one was bound to notice the plethora of free food and giveaways. The coffee house became a regular event, held primarily on Wednesday nights with a few Saturday dates highlighted. It hosted various forms of entertainment, such as, an a capella group, a hypnotist, a jazz band and many guitarists. The year-end coffeehouse on May 3, featured the comedy and music of Mike Rayburn, the National Campus Entertainer of the Year.

The Pirate's Cove will be remembered by all who attended as one of the biggest hits of Seton Hall's social scene. In one night, one could expect between 150-200 people to stop by to grab a cup of coffee, chat with friends, and enjoy the entertainment. The Pirate's Cove Coffeehouse is definitely a change for Seton Hall students, and it could be expected to be a regular occurrence in the years to come.

If It's Thursday, This Must Be Pub Night

The pub at Seton Hall was the local spot most Seton Hall students seemed to find themselves at on Thursday nights. Though the doors opened at 9 p.m., SHU students did not make their appearance until at least 10:30.

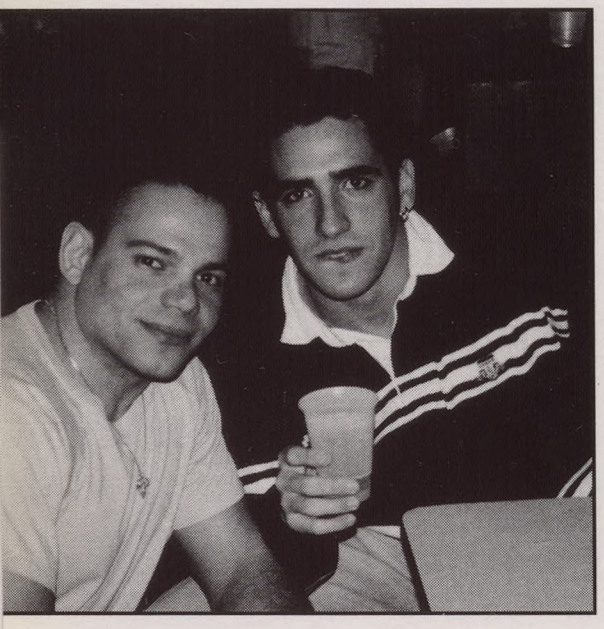

Early fall marked the first Senior Pub Night. Seniors were called to come out particularly on Senior Pub Nights for their official Senior souvenir cups and to begin the countdown to Commencement 1995.

Weekly themes and drink specials attracted the 21-and-over crowd. Some themes included Halloween, "Winter Wonderland," St. Patrick's Day, "Dress Your 70's Best" and the evermost popular, "100 Days Until Graduation." Whatever the theme, the pub was certain to sell out early, so students soon realized they needed to get their tickets early.

As academic demands became more rigorous and the Spring semester wound to a close, the Pub became more invaluable. Seniors realized their times spent at the Pub would soon be precious memories. The last celebration taking place at Senior Pub Night. This year, the Senior Class of 1995 celebrated their Senior Pub Night ritual in a slightly different manner. Instead of the usual congregation in the Main Lounge, students met at Calandrillo's, formerly known as the much adored Ryan's.

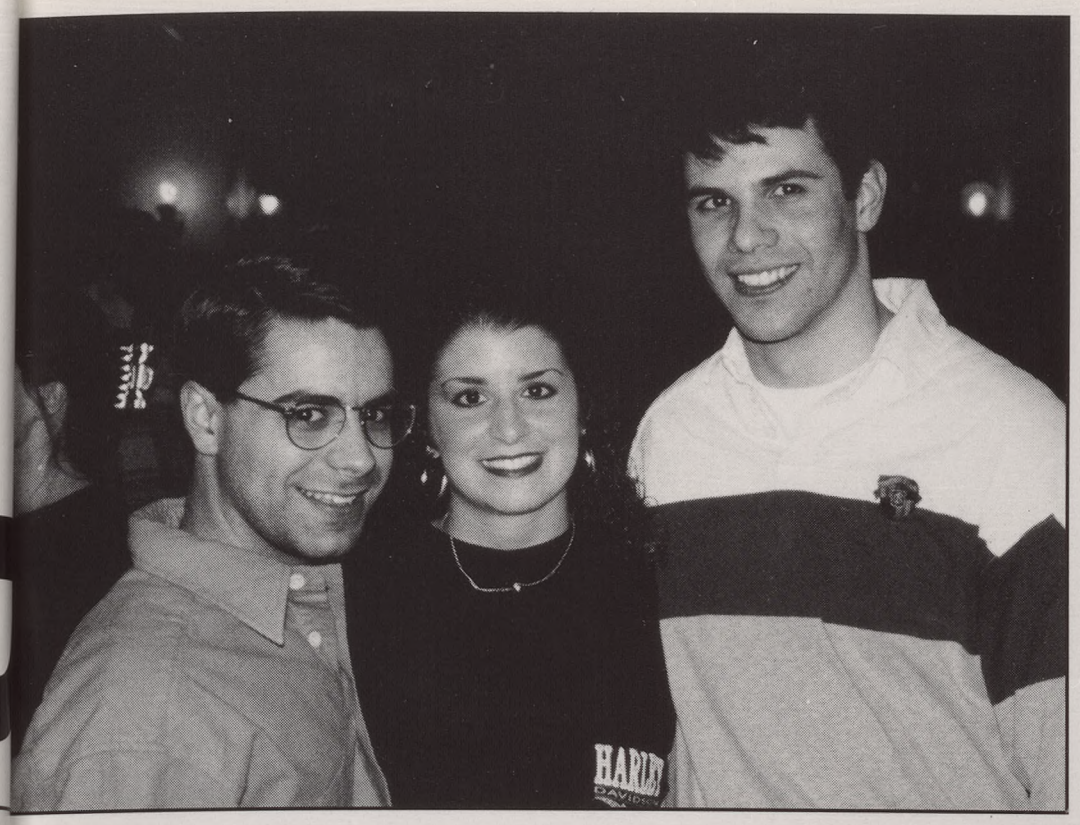

Although it was a change, it was still Senior Pub Night . The dancing and camaraderie was just what was expecting from students who were about to graduate the next day. The night was filled with laughter and tears as all who attended tried to remember every precious moment of their final Senior Pub Night.

Student Leaders Are Honored For Their

HARD WORK AND DEDICATION

On May 5, 1995, the Department of Student Activities held the 14th Annual Student Leadership Awards Ceremony in the Main Lounge of the Bishop Dougherty Student Center. Student leaders from various areas of the Seton Hall community were present to cheer for their friends, and to be recognized for their dedication and hard work.

Acting Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Greg Mikalauskas extended the welcome to the student leaders, their families, and the University administration and staff. He explained that the candles, certificates and plaques offered in recognition for the dedication and service of the student leaders will become more cherished "as time goes by." Further, student leaders who give this precious gift of time are truly appreciated.

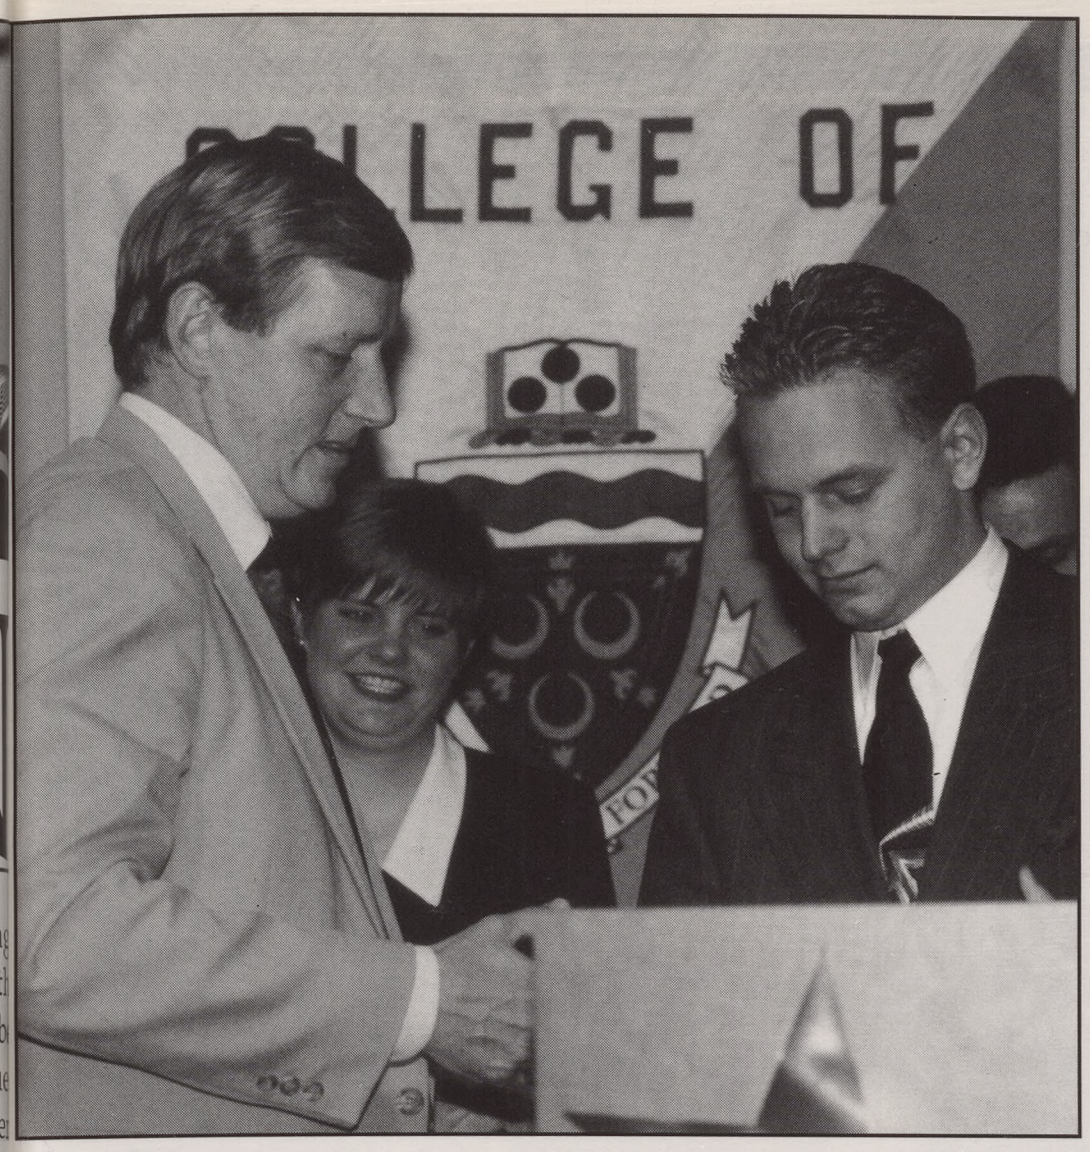

University Chancellor and President, Very Reverand Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., recalled the address he made during Freshman orientation four years before. "I said your next four years will be years of sharing—our sharing knowledge with you to be successful, sharing experiences of others before you, and a time for you to share your thought, ideas, and concerns with us," Father Peterson said. "Consequently, Seton Hall has become a better place because of you."

Awards were distributed to student government officials and club presidents. The Global Awareness Award was distributed to the Environmental Club. The prestigious University Service Award was presented to both Myika Gray and Darren Rydberg. Civil War in Bosnia
Civil war continued to rack Bosnia-Herzegovina despite the efforts of a United Nations peacekeeping force. The conflict, as complicated as it was savage, began in 1992 when Bosnia's Serbian minority rebelled against a decision by Yugoslavia's Muslims and Croats to secede. After two-and-a-half years of fighting, more than 200,000 people were dead or missing. The war was notorious for "ethnic cleansing" - - the successful Serbian campaign to drive Muslims from northern and eastern Bosnia. Of about two million people uprooted by the war, 750,000 were non-Serbs from those areas. Bosnian Serbs had to contend with NATO air strikes. Also, United Nations sanctions and diplomacy appeared to put some distance between the Bosnian Serbs, who rejected an international peace plan, and their allies in Serbian Yugoslavia. In October, in recognition of increased cooperation from Belgrade, the U.N. lifted some of the sanctions imposed on Yugoslavia. But U.S. Defense Secretary William Perry asserted that the Bosnian Serbs were still getting war supplies from across the border.

Late in life, he became an advisor on world affairs to both Republican and Democratic administrations.

SETON HALL
UNDERGRADUATE BULLETIN

It is likely that May 22 will be the most memorable day of our academic lives here at Seton Hall. As graduates, we were praised by loved ones and rewarded professors for the successful completion of our studies.

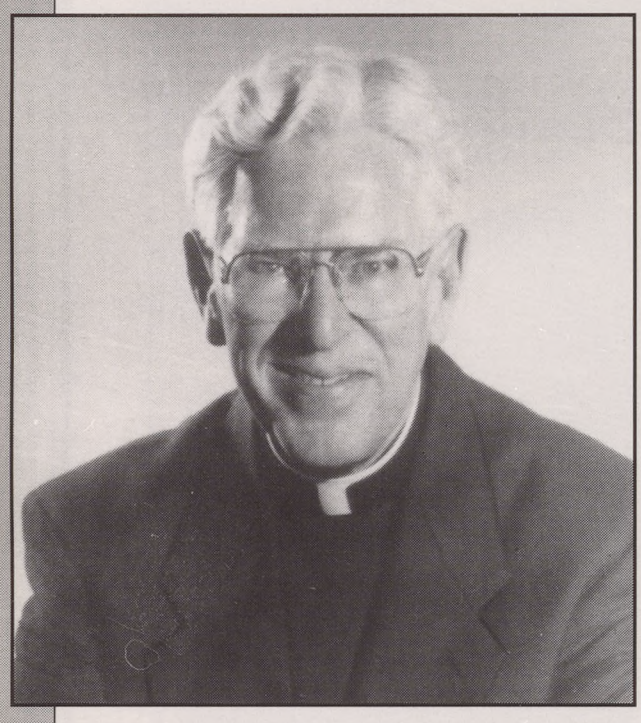

We are the product of a challenging university whose objective was to mold us into moral and ethical leaders. Our professors taught us to be creative and articulate, wise and persuasive, open and respectful toward the beliefs of others. Their demand for scholastic excellence enabled us to taste the fruit of our own labor, and for this we are eternally indebted. Our relationships with our mentors grew from that of professor and student to friendship and mutual admiration.

Many of our educational experiences extended beyond the classroom. We learned about the "real world" through co-ops and internships. We studied in foreign countries and gained insight into various cultures. Exceptional debates were held in the Chancellor's Suite. The official dedication of the Walsh Library symbolized the superb resources afforded to us. Yet no investment is more important than the one made in us, and no responsibility is more significant than the one we bear of making this world a better place for the future.

AS TIME GOES BY

CHANCELLOR & PRESIDENT

Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P.
Chancellor and President

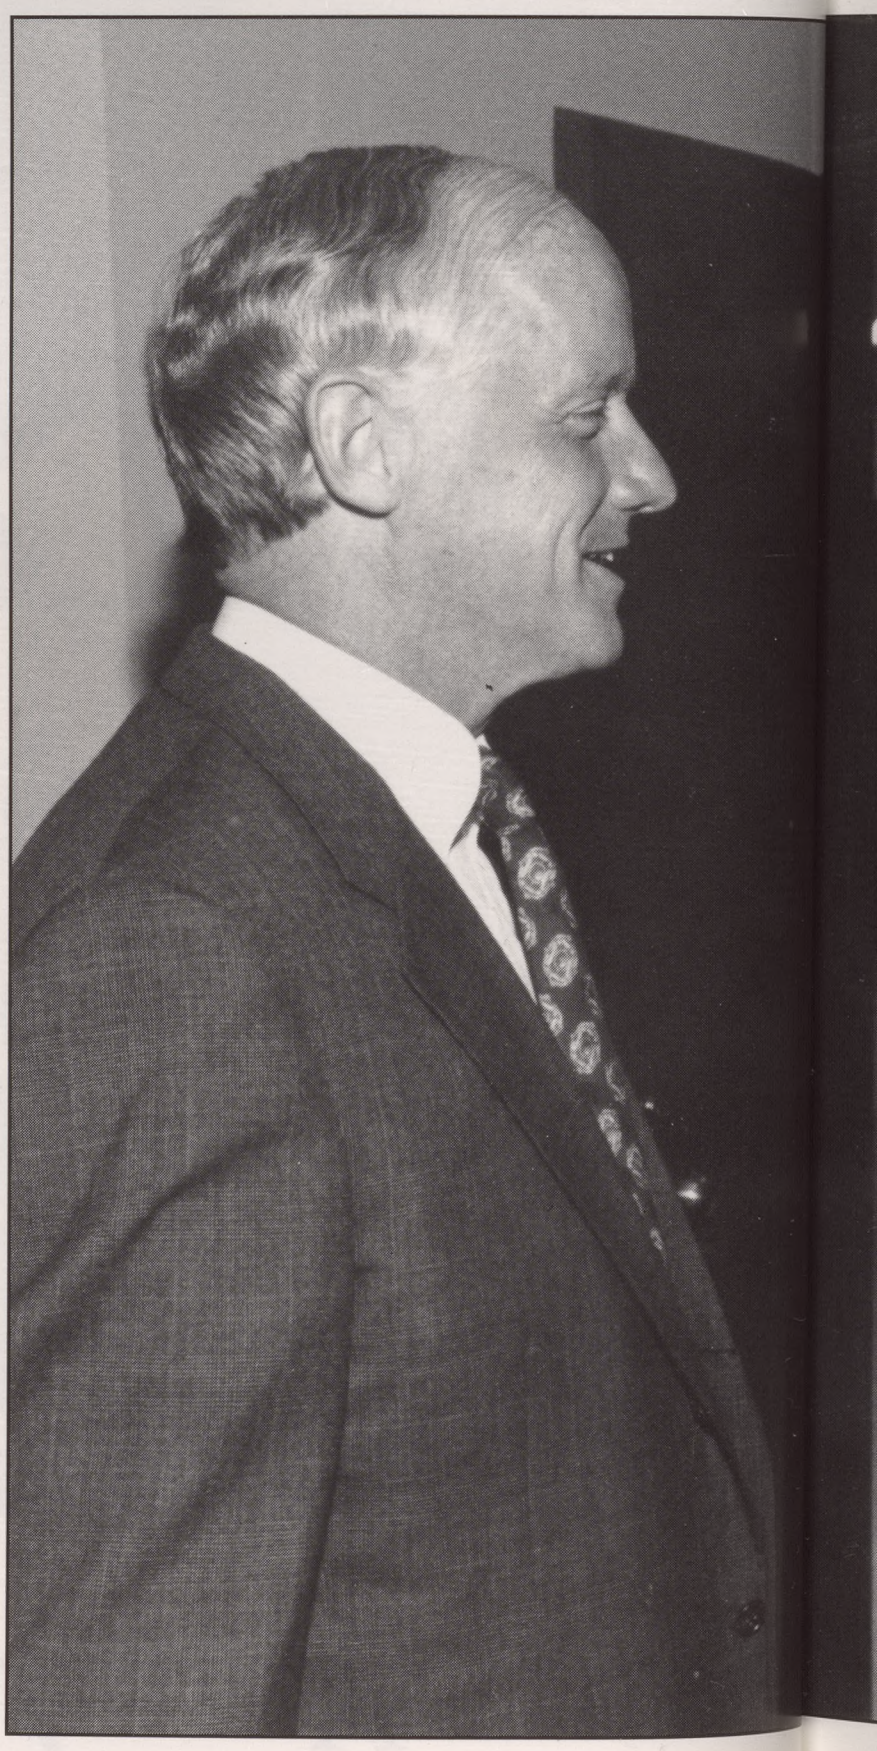

Trying to define time is like clutching at a cloud. Time is nebulous. It is fleeting. Sometimes it moves too rapidly. Often it seems just to drag on. There are good times and bad times. Like clouds, time can have about it the beauty of a rainbow or the terror of a tornado.

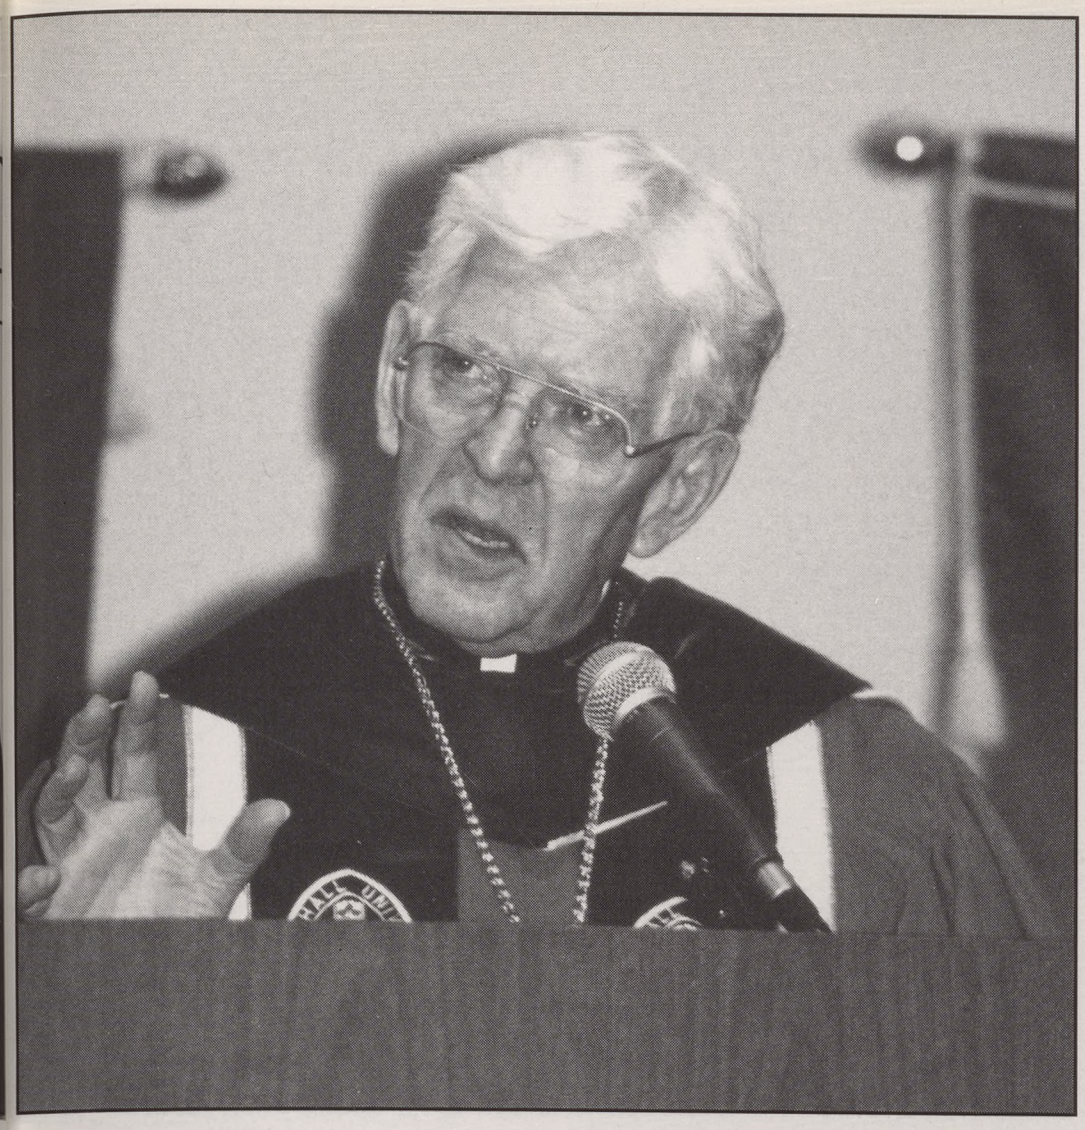

One of the best descriptions of time is one of the oldest. Aristotle, centuries ago, defined time as, "the measure of motion." You have chosen "As Time Goes By" as the theme of your yearbook. This seems very appropriate for a class that has seen many new and exciting things set in motion during your years here. You have also helped us to look to the future of your alma mater and plan those ways in which even greater greatness can be achieved.

You have seen many new academic programs put into place, particularly in the School of Business, but also throughout the whole curriculum. You have witnessed the University intensify its interest in multiculturalism. While you were student here, the University expanded its ability to bring the world of high technology to its educational endeavors, and a new multi-million dollar library has risen out of a parking lot to become the jewel of the campus. You can certainly attest to the fact that as time goes by, "the times, they were a-changing."

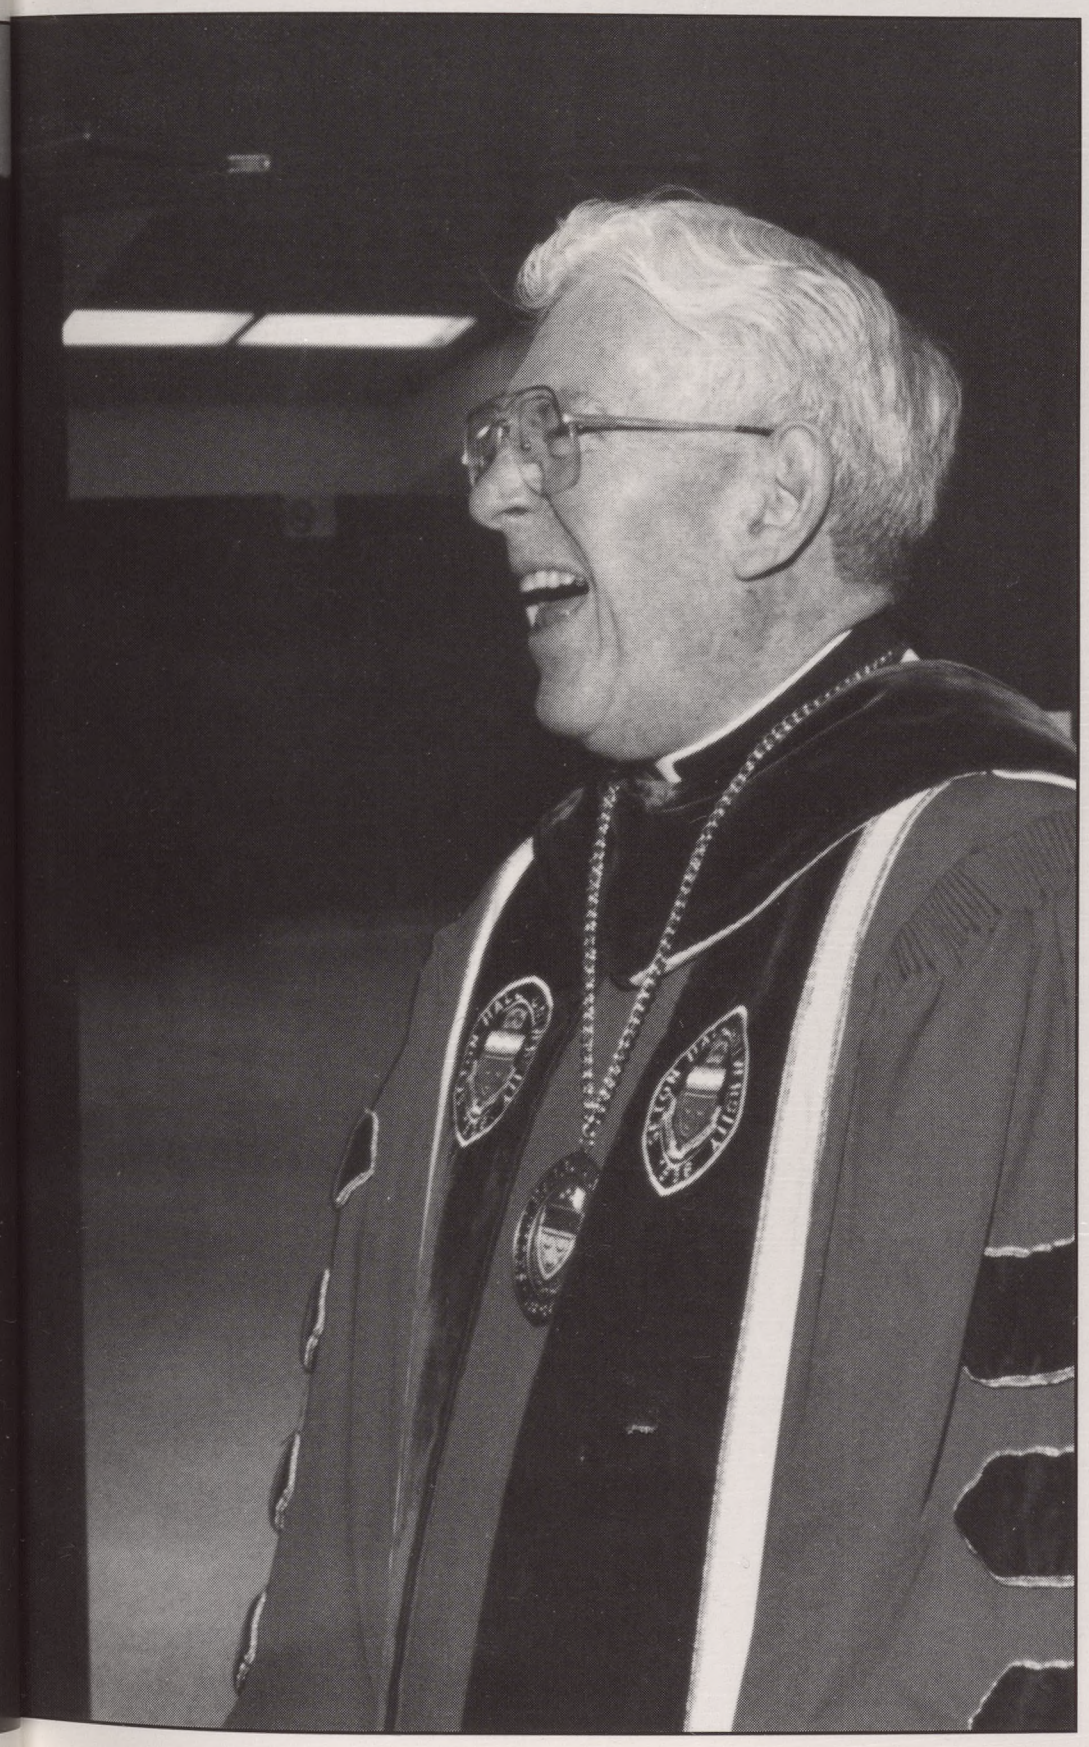

As the semesters passed during your undergraduate years, you yourself changed in so many ways. The timid, frightened freshman gained self-confidence, made new friends and took on new challenges in attempting to blend the need for individuality with the benefits of new maturity and independence. You took a hard look at your values and examined the divine dimensions of human living. You learned the great truth that a difficult balance must be struck between time and eternity. You were urged to accept the truth of the great principle that as time goes by, time and eternity meet.

Enough time has gone by to make it necessary for you to move on to even greater challenges as you enter the real world of business or the professions or the arts. You will continue to measure your motion toward new goals with firm steps and undaunted determination. May you have great success in all that you do and, as time goes by, may each day give greater evidence of the presence of the God in your life and in the life of the University we all love. Your time in the future will still be like a cloud, but may your tornadoes be few and your rainbows be many.

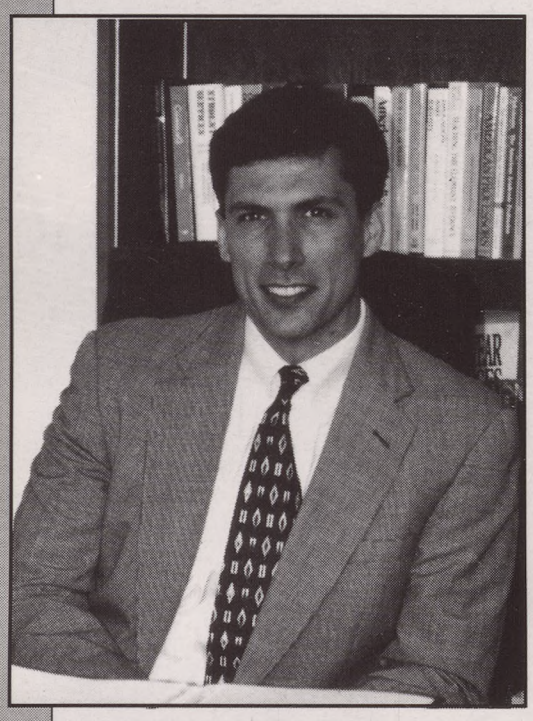

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Dr. David M. Yozzi, Ed.D.
Director of Student Activities

Dear Seniors,

Congratulations! I am sure you are very proud of all you accomplished while you attended Seton Hall. You have completed a rigorous academic program, started a new chapter in your life, and I have had the real pleasure of watching you grow during your years at Seton Hall.

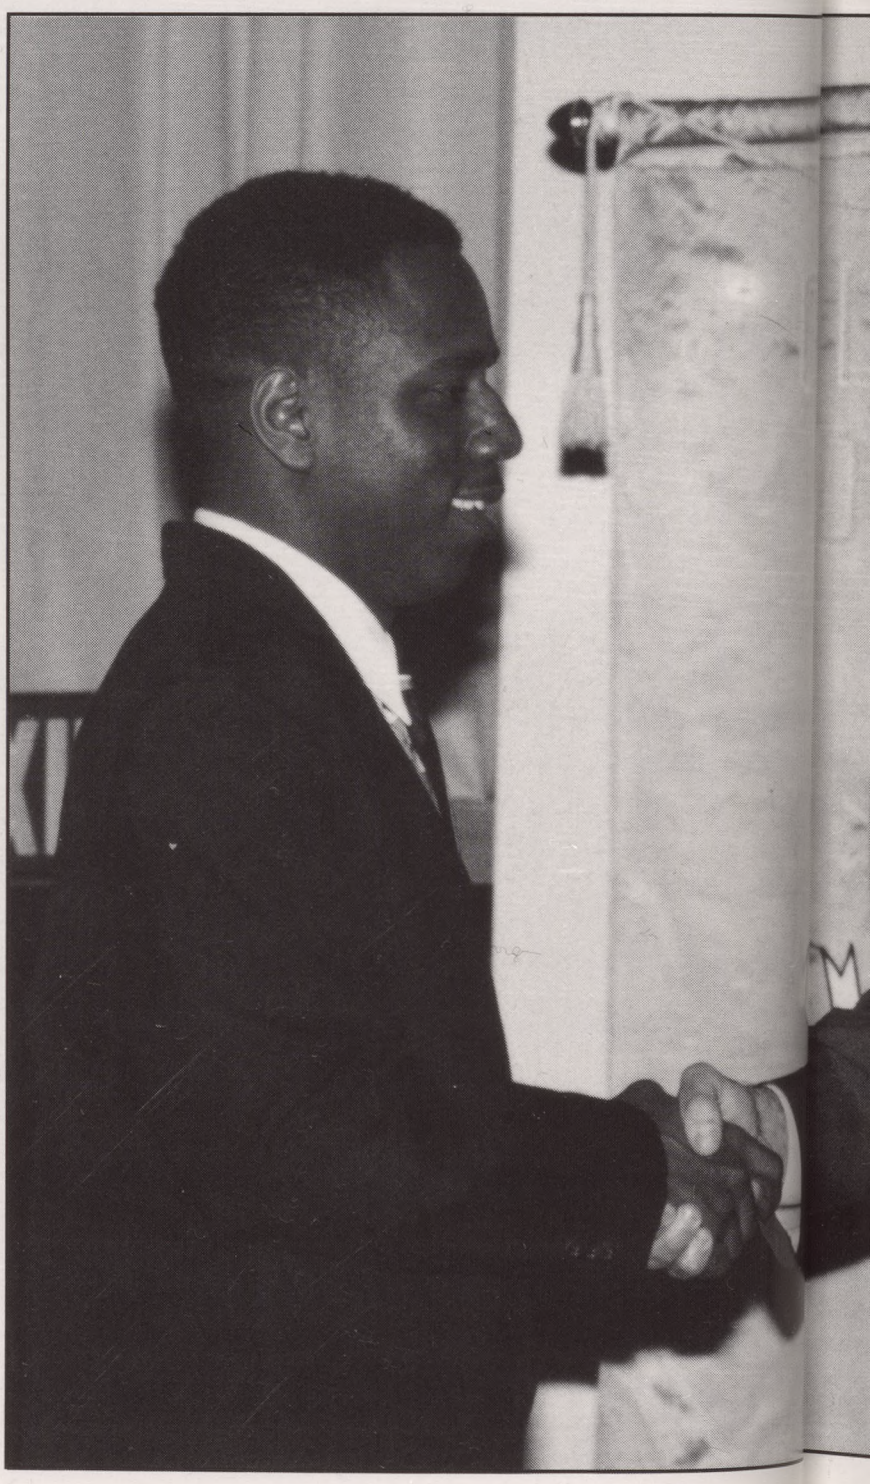

While you enjoyed your short stay at the University, you created life both inside and outside the classroom. The parties, the late night study groups, the road trips, the organizations you created or joined, and the friendships you formed are all part of the experience that has made you who you are today.

You might have heard at one time or another that what you learn outside the classroom can be just as important as what went on in your classes. So, while we hope you remember what you learned in that oral communication class, you will certainly remember having that discussion with your professor after class, or meeting in the Galleon Room to prepare for that exam later that day.

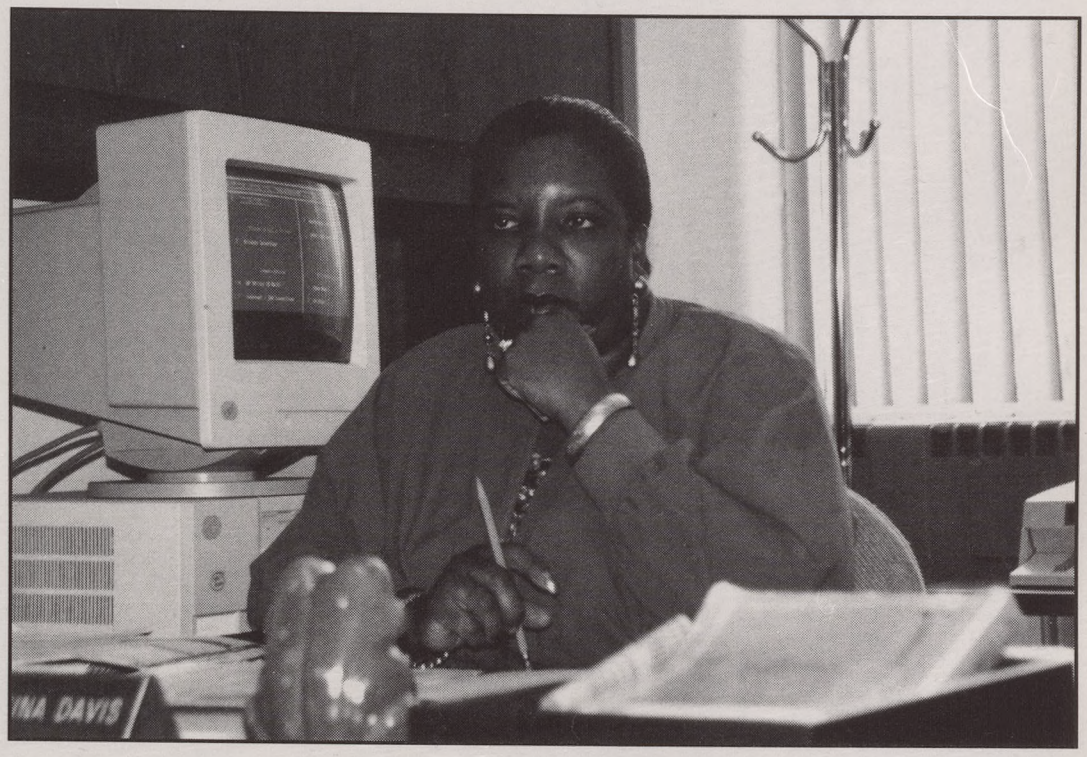

Some of these experiences were spontaneous and unplanned, others were intentionally created and well-thought out. In both situations the University attempted to assist you in becoming a member of a global community. Encouraging you to learn about issues of culture and to provide service to your community, we sought to furnish you with tools to be a meaningful member of your society. As I am sure you have learned, having received a value-laden education is providing you with the essential skills to create your own path through life.

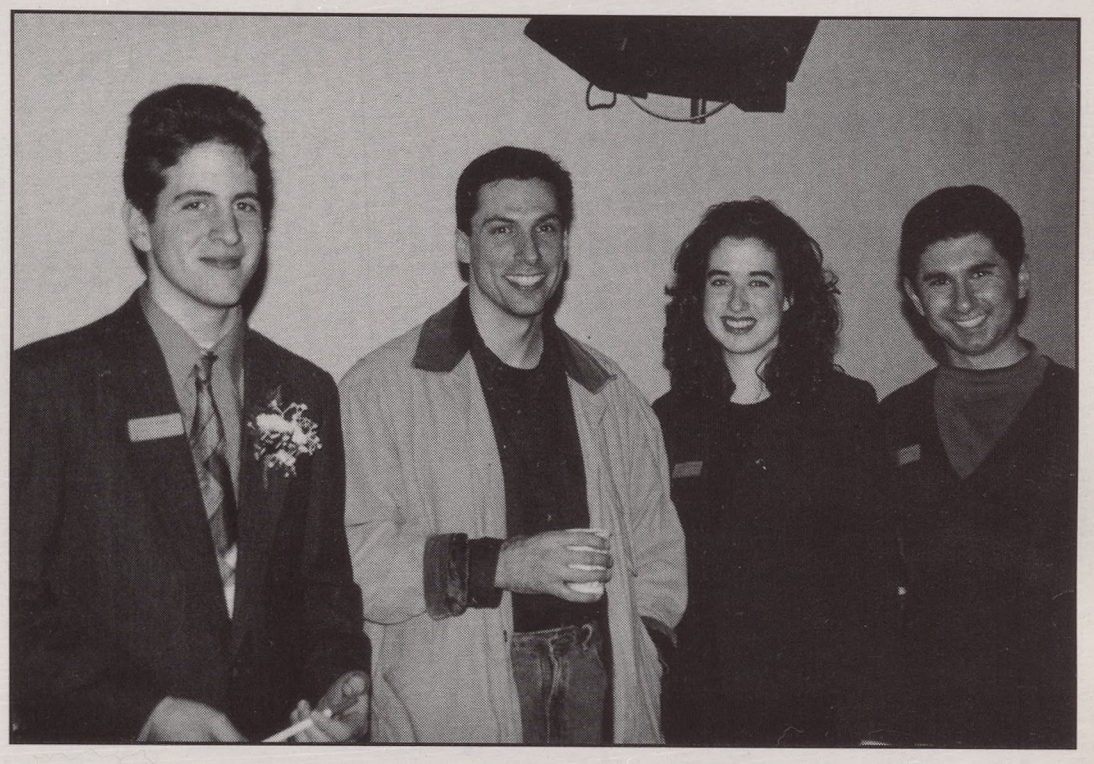

Seton Hall was fortunate to have been part of your journey. Hopefully, we helped you learn a little more about yourself, and more importantly, inspired you to continue that process for the rest your lives.

You truly are a special group and the mark you left will remain with the Seton Hall community for generations to follow. We wish you the best in all your endeavors. As a wise friend said to me once, "Go well".

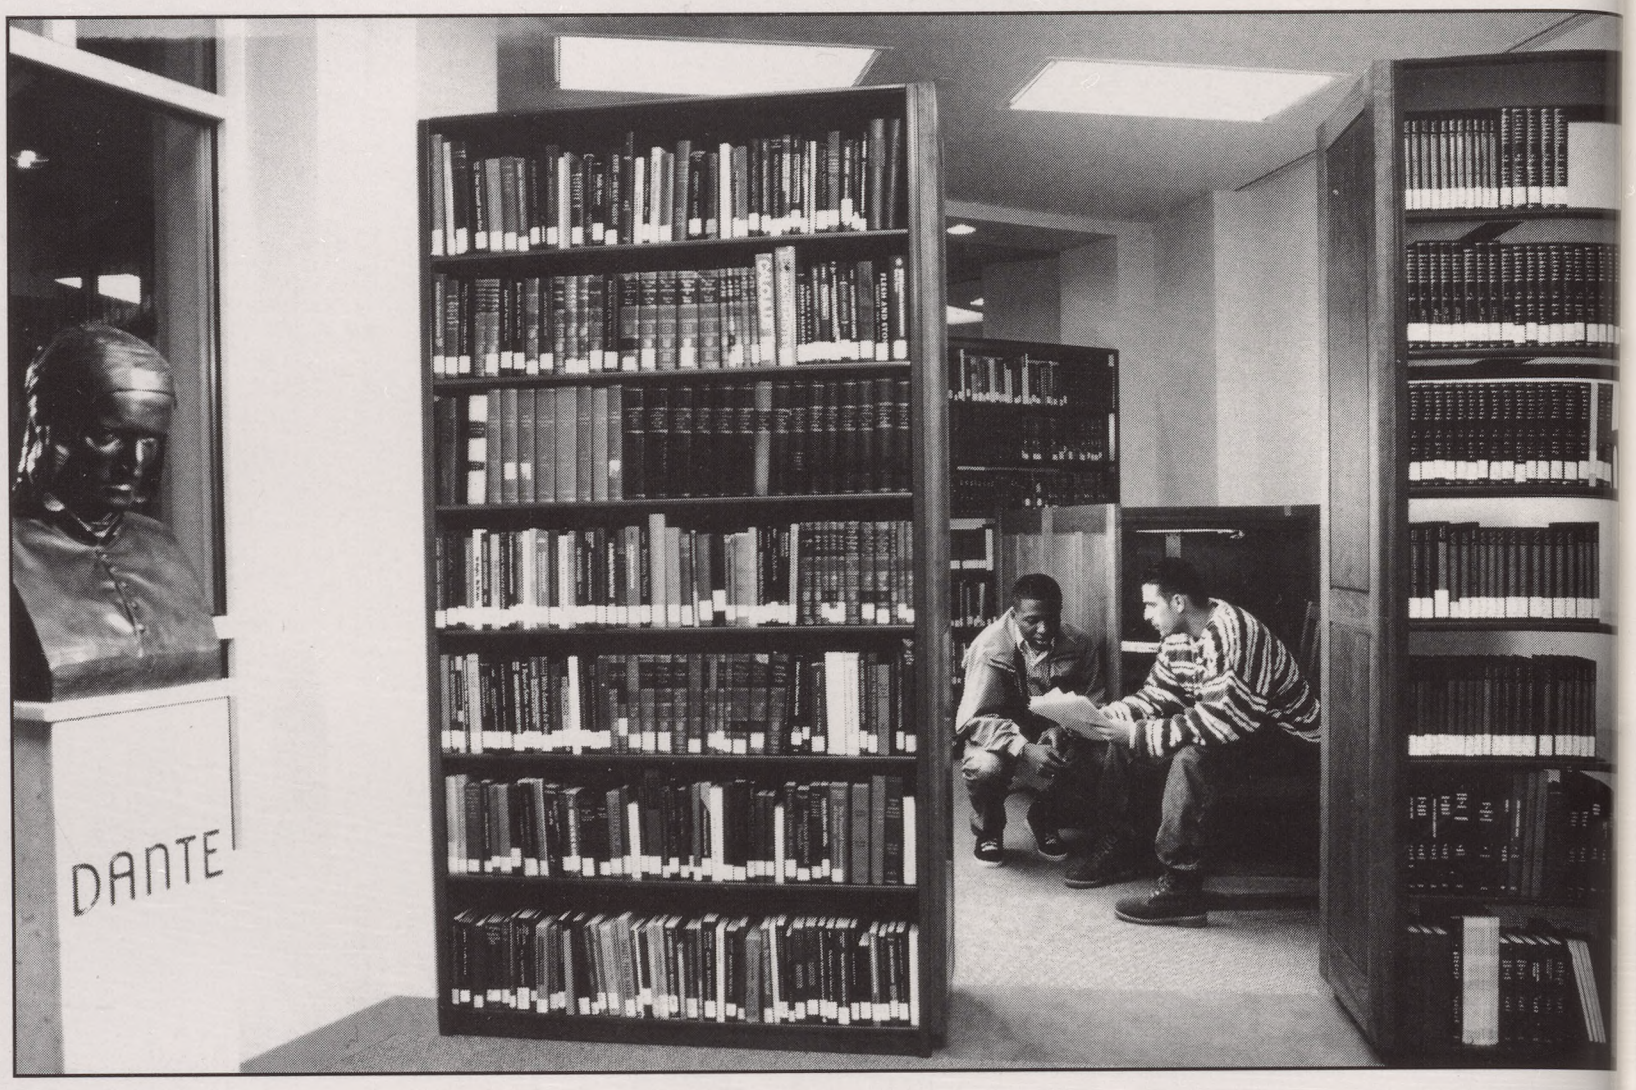

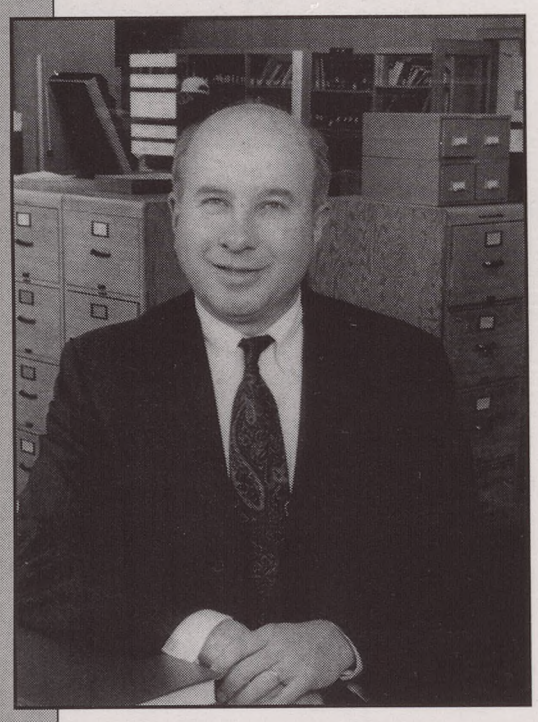

WALSH LIBRARY

Dr. Robert A. Jones, dean of University Libraries, welcomes Jonathan Plattel, the first student to enter Walsh Library at 8:59 am on Opening Day, August 29, 1994.

Robert A. Jones, Ed.D.
Dean, University Libraries

Dear Class of 1995:

You had the uniquely challenging and rewarding opportunity to lead the transition from the University's 40-year-old central library building, McLaughlin Library, to the magnificent new Walsh Library!

You endured the difficult final, crowded years in the old library, but benefited significantly from major advances in library service that the University made during your undergraduate years:

* Substantially increased collection development encompassing books, periodicals, and CD-ROM databases.
* Initiation of a $3 million endowment fund to acquire library resources in the humanities, the result of a successful effort to raise $2.25 million to match a $750,000 National Endowment for the Humanities Challenge Grant.
* Installation of an on-line catalog of library holdings on the South Orange campus.
* Expansion and enhancement of the already extensive CD-ROM systems, both bibliographic and full-text, that you had available here from your freshmen year on.
* Provision of an electronic visual aid/scanner-reader for visually-impaired students.

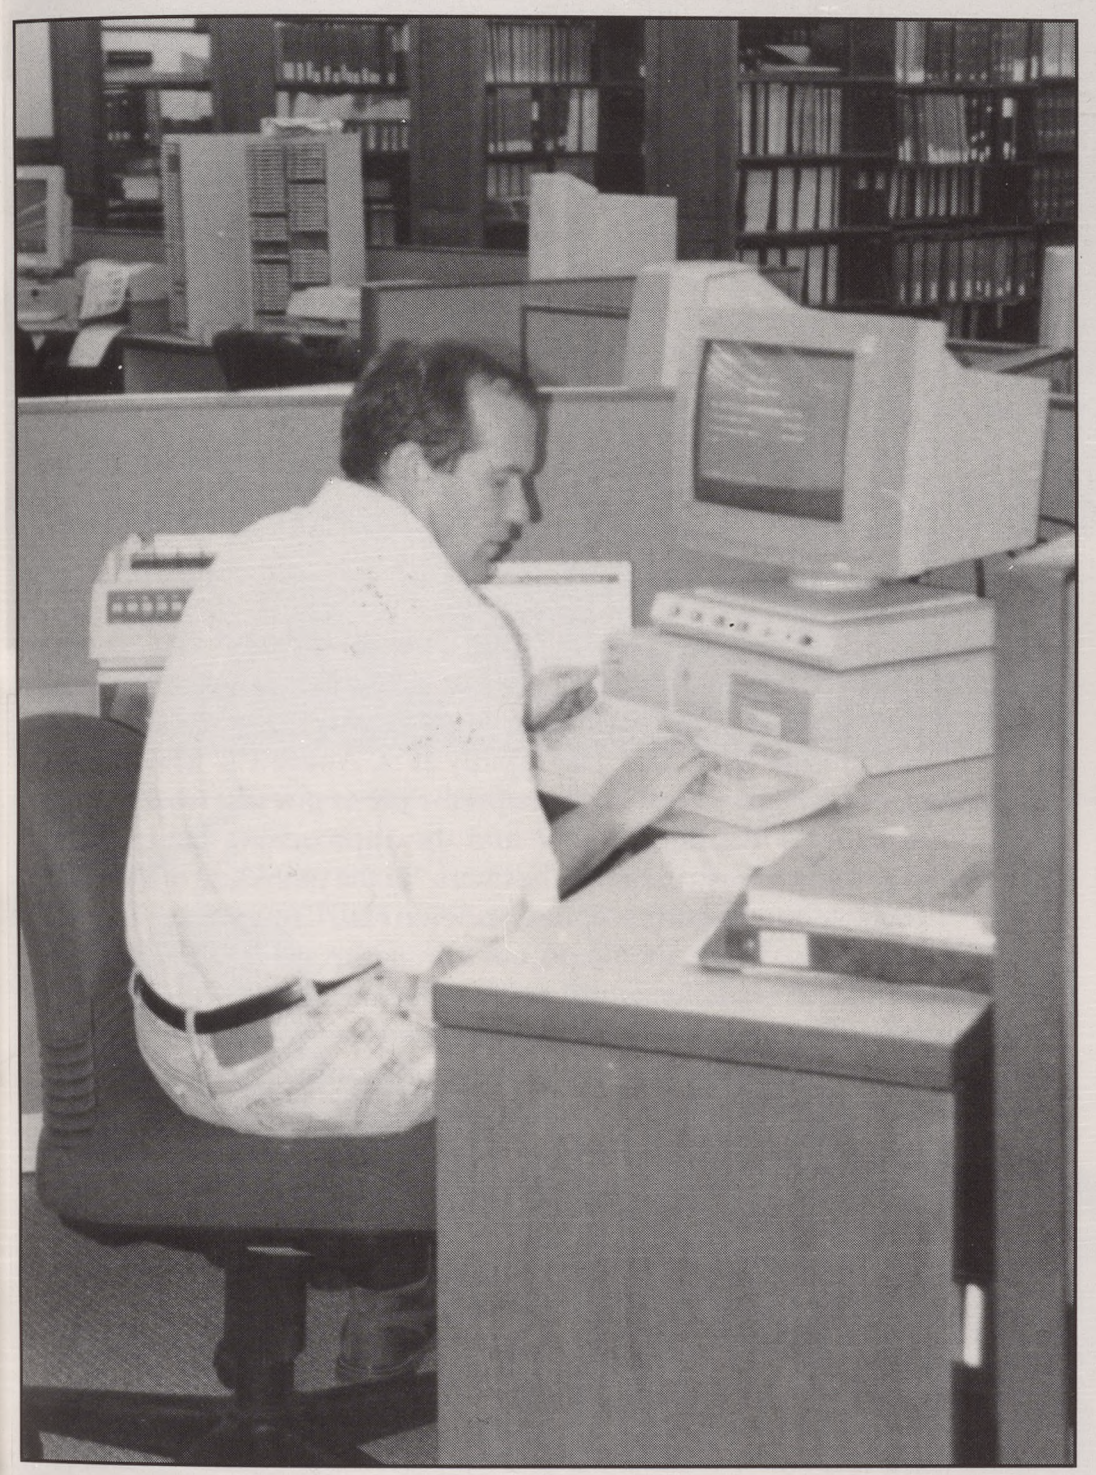

When Walsh Library opened at 8:00 a.m. on August 29, 1994, you inaugurated a promising new era in library service at Seton Hall. Indeed, one of you was the first to use the new building, which was officially dedicated October 1, 1994, in a splendid ceremony involving students as well as the Archbishop of Newark, key donors and University officials. Aptly termed "jewel of the campus" by Very Reverend Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., our chancellor and president, this 155,000 square foot, $20 million facility includes:

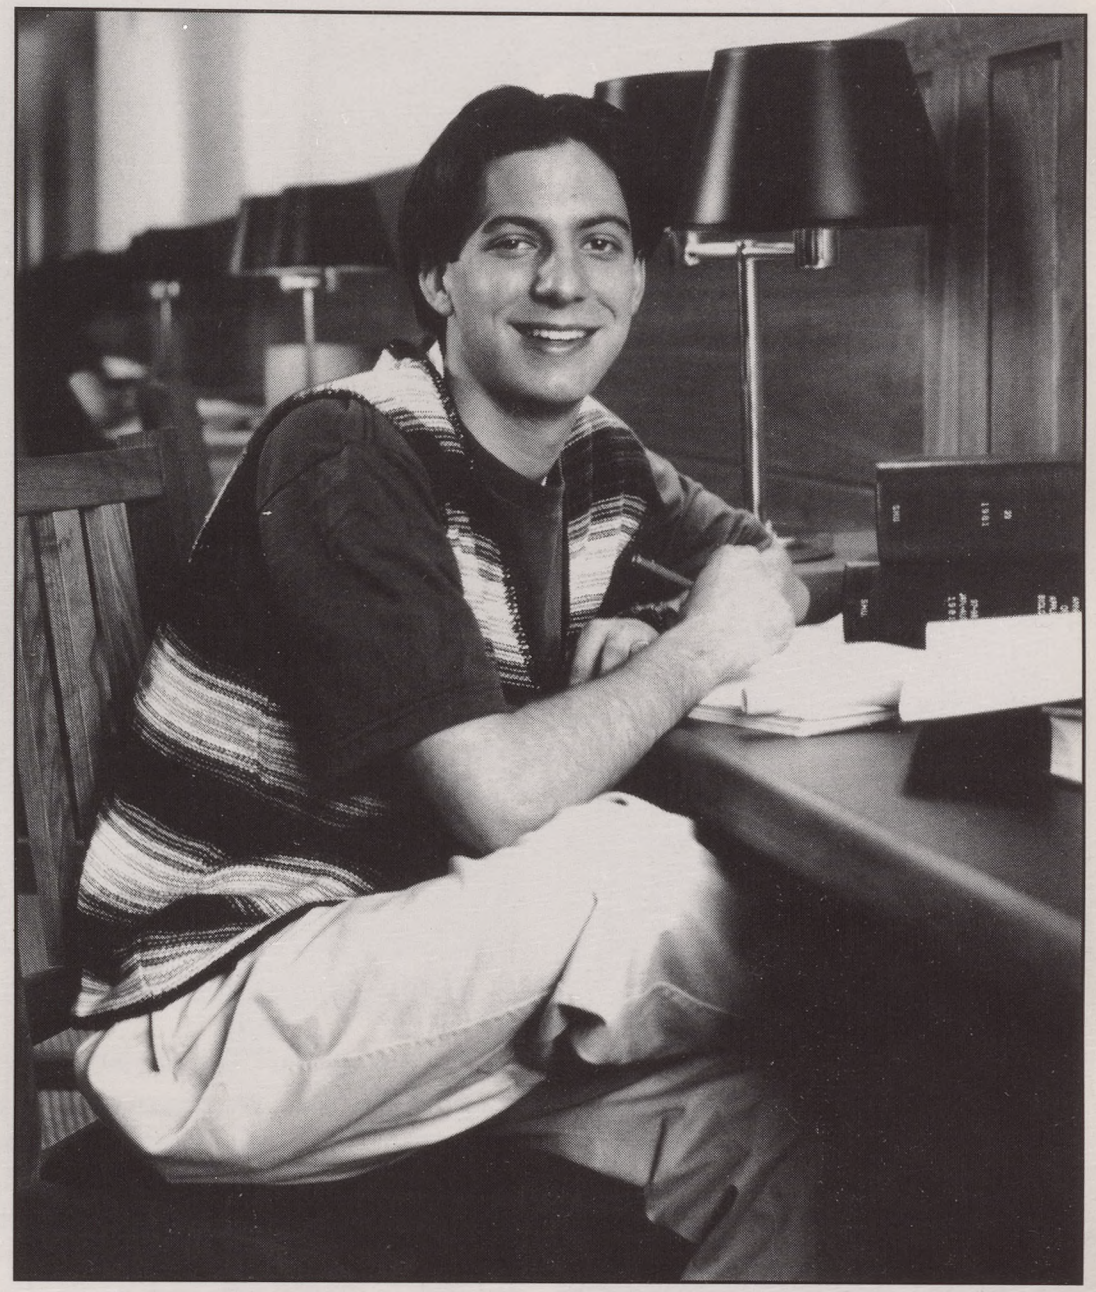

* Seating for 1,100 in a variety of study facilities conducive to study, including 400 open study carrels, 42 group-study rooms, and 64 scholars' studies.
* Space for up to one million volumes.
* Extensive information technology for both individual and group use.
* A comprehensive Special Collections Center bringing together, in an optimal environment, archives, rare books, and other restricted resources.
* A computerized, multimedia Bibliographic Instruction Center to further teaching and learning about resources, libraries, and networks.
* Enlarged housing for the University Media Center with facilities for production and use of instructional media.
* Full compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

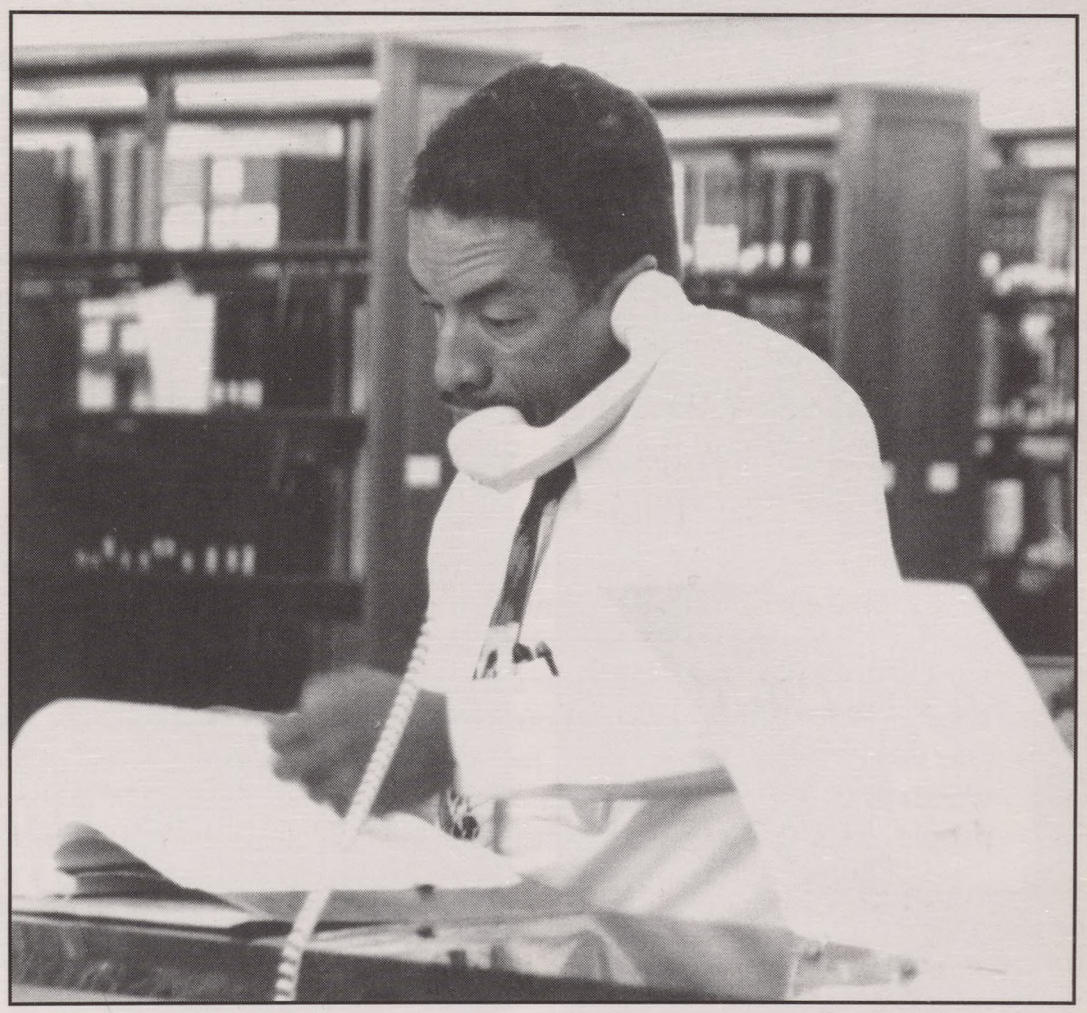

Use of the new building greatly exceeded former library activity from the outset. Walsh Library immediately became central to your life at Seton Hall. It also attracted considerable attention beyond the campus as an outstanding new academic library building.

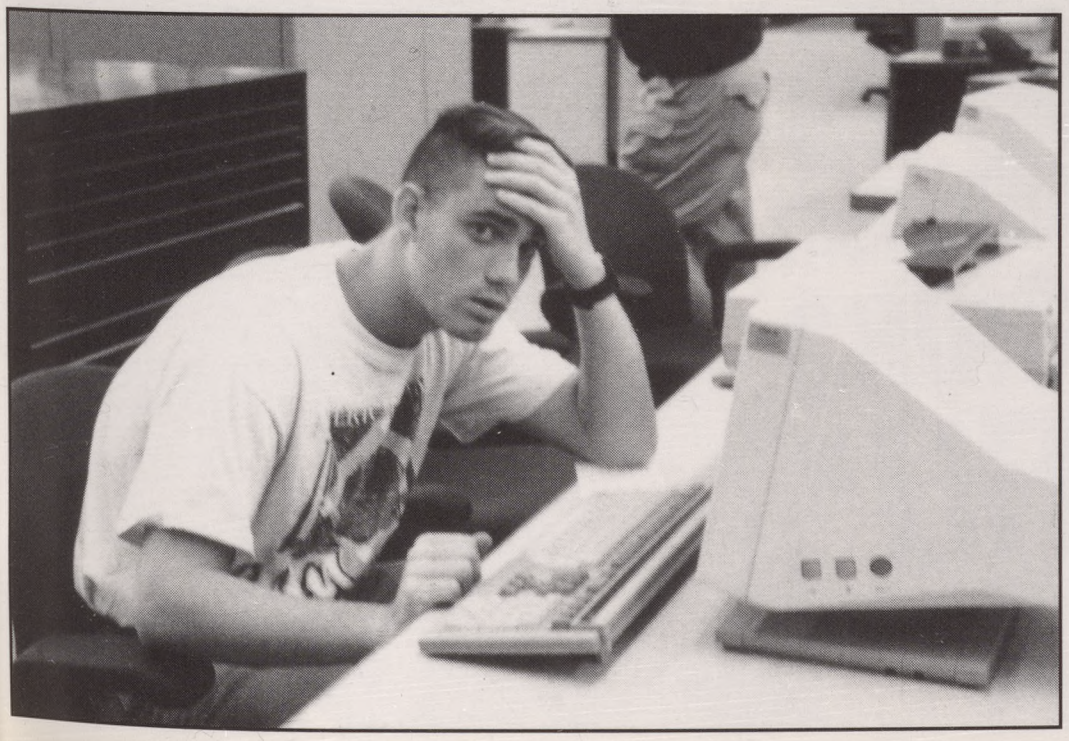

I am especially pleased that the Class of 1995 was able to inaugurate Walsh Library. Please consider it yours always and feel welcome here at any time.

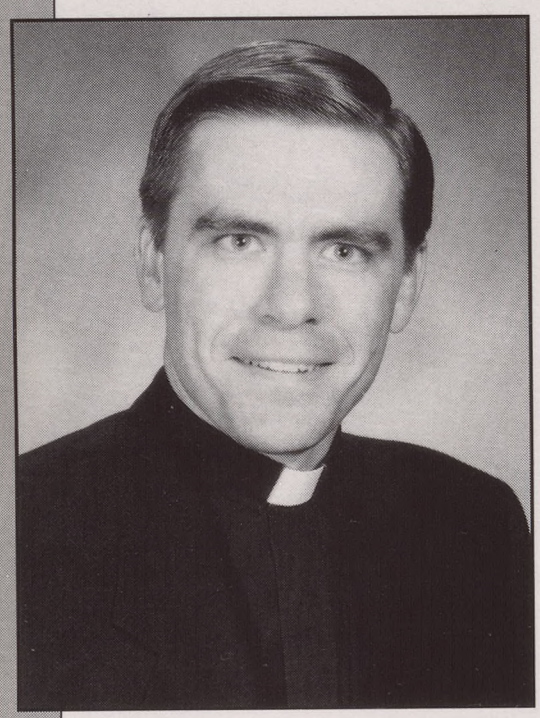

ST. ANDREW'S SEMINARY

Father Robert J. Fuhrman
Rector, College Seminary

To the Graduation Class of 1995:

Time, as you have discovered, is a deceptive thing. You can attest to this, as your academic and personal experiences at Seton Hall, both happy and sad, condense in a retrospective glance. Every day is God's gift, and every day matters.

As I work with young men at the College Seminary of Seton Hall, we try to remain quite conscious of the gift and mystery of time. The College Seminary is an integral part of the University, and has been so for many generations. Our task is to make good use of every day, as the Holy Scriptures put it, "from the rising of the sun to its setting." Thus, our Lord and our Church will be better served in a society that is experiencing its share of turmoil and religious hunger.

At the College Seminary we strive to develop in our students the skills of spiritual discernment, intellectual growth, and social and pastoral interaction. Many of these young men will one day be ordained to the holy priesthood. Others will discover that their vocation is something else. Their formation at the undergraduate level is very important for their overall journey of faith and their response to God. Our house of formation, named for St. Andrew the Apostle, is one of the wonderful features of New Jersey's Catholic university. It is a place where people care about each other, where priests and people alike all share the same goal of holiness and service to God. Upon graduation, our college seminarians are prepared to enter a major seminary, where they will continue their priestly formation for several years before they are ordained.

The months and years pass rapidly at St. Andrew's. The college seminarians soon begin to realize the supreme joy of priestly work. They begin to experience the flight of time and the approaching gift of Holy Orders and priestly ministry, soon to be theirs "in the twinkling of an eye."

I believe our programs represents Seton Hall University at its best. Like all Seton Hall students should do, our seminaries strive to be aware of the "real world." It is a fallen world and a redeemed world. It is a planet where two-thirds of the inhabitants live in severe poverty, a place where only one person in a hundred receives a college education, and in which the expected life span of hundreds of millions of people is about half of what we might expect to live.

Seton Hall graduates should be aware of these realities and be motivated to be "givers" among those who share our world. The pulse of Seton Hall beats from the sanctuary of the University chapel, from which Jesus Christ challenges all Setonians to be like Him.

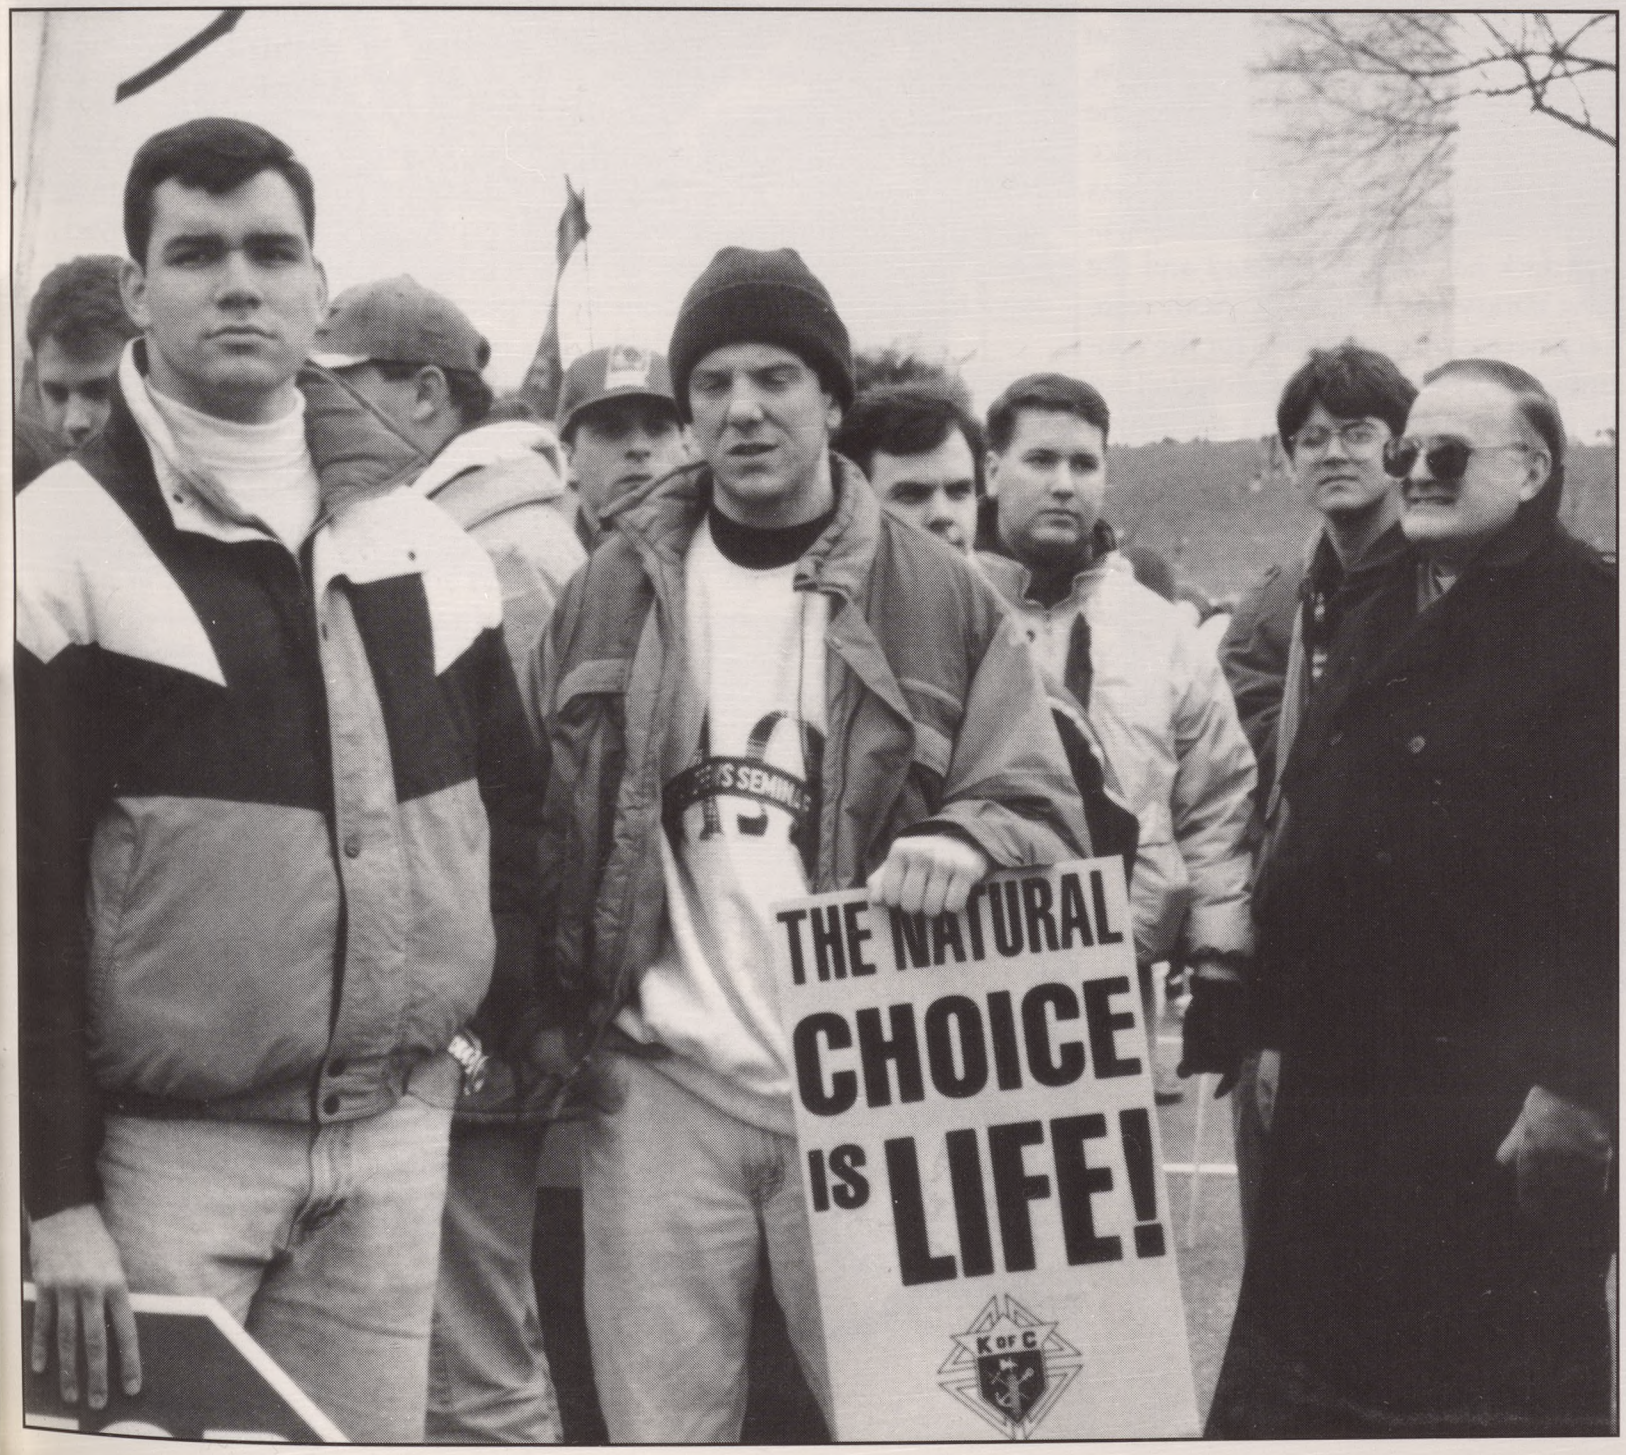

The mystery of time is indeed a precious gift. Make every day worth a lot. "Know what is out there," and, employing your wisdom from your work at Seton Hall, improve things. The mission of the College Seminary and that of Seton Hall are mutually dependent. We rely on the University community for a wonderful, healthy experience of college life for these future priests. The wider university relies on us for the witness of young men called to lives of faith and prayer, to the great privilege and duties of becoming good priests.

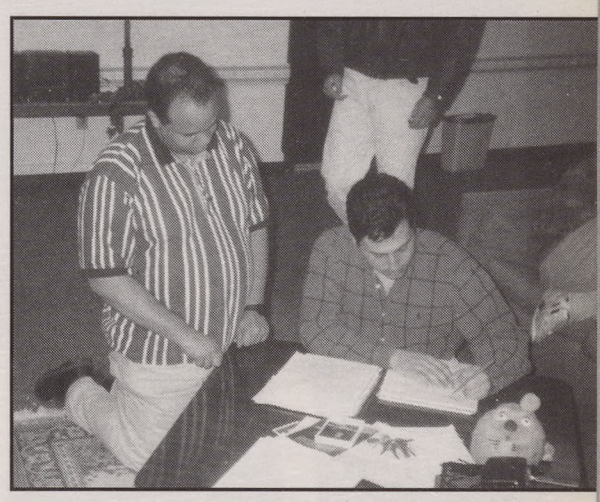

The Seton Hall experience is but a moment in a lifetime. Let it be a moment frequently re-lived, a moment which in the mystery of time need not really end.

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Dr. Jerry A. Hirsch
Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Dear Class of 1995:

College is a time of growth and development. Over the past four or so years, you, the graduating Class of 1996, have done just that. At the same time the University has also been growing. Since you have been here the University has been enhanced in many ways. The parking deck has been completed and the new library has been built. Both were very necessary expansions for the continued success of not only Seton Hall but its students, and we won't ask which was more important. With these expansions our community is given an even better chance to grow and develop.

Development and change is an ongoing life process. Don't ever stop growing and learning. Not only do you help yourself, but you are helping society as a whole to stop the violence and bring peace and acceptance of diversity to those around you. Part of our responsibility as adults is to take an interest in our world and our environment. Use your experience and knowledge to help others and to better society as a whole.

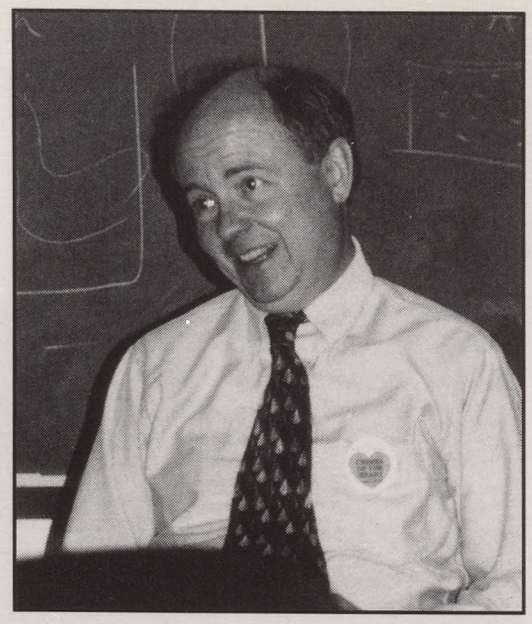

The world is going through a strenuous growth and development stage right now, and it is our responsibility as citizens to continue this growth of peace and unity. With the background you have acquired during your tenure at Seton Hall, much good can be accomplished if you all apply yourselves. It is important that all of us give back to our communities. Volunteer your services to a worthy cause of your choice. Even a little bit of time can help a lot. Not only are you then helping others, but you are also helping yourself to grow and learn. Education is not just gained in the classroom; it also comes from personal experiences. You have received a good foundation of knowledge; now it is time to go and apply what you have learned. This can be done by helping others through volunteering.

Change is unavoidable. It is better to approach it with an open mind and heart. See each experience as a chance to learn and grow. With all that you have acquired, the world is a big exciting place to explore. Be adventurous, do the unthinkable, and be the unstoppable. Set your goals high and strive high to achieve them.

As recent world history has shown, anything can be accomplished if one puts his or her heart and soul into the project at hand. Everything one does can be directly or indirectly done for the benefit of all. The wall coming down in Germany, Communism falling, abolishment of Apartheid, treaties in the East, none of this happened over night. All of these important world-shaking events on the part of many people helped make these big things happen. So no effort put forth, no matter how small, is insignificant. If we all keep trying, then possibly this world will be a better place for our children.

Congratulations on achieving the milestone of graduating from college. May the Lord be with you in all your future endeavors.

BUSINESS

John H. Shannon
Dean, W. Paul Stillman
School of Business

I greatly appreciate this opportunity to wish you my best. Exciting things are happening at the School of Business and I hope that you continue to participate as active Seton Hall alumni and honorary ambassadors.

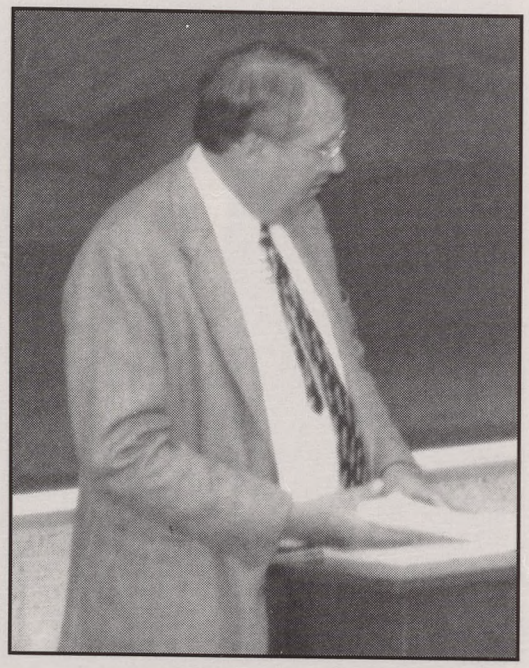

To note a few newsworthy items... During the past few years, we earned reaccreditation through AACSB, the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. Just this year, we received a $1,000,000 grant to endow the Institute of International Business. This coming fall, we are adding six new Master of Science Programs to our MBA, MS/Taxation and joint program offerings. I hope that some of you will choose to stay on or return to participate in the opportunities for graduate studies. In another year, we'll be housed in our new state-of-the art building. This is just the "tip of the iceberg," and there's much more to come!

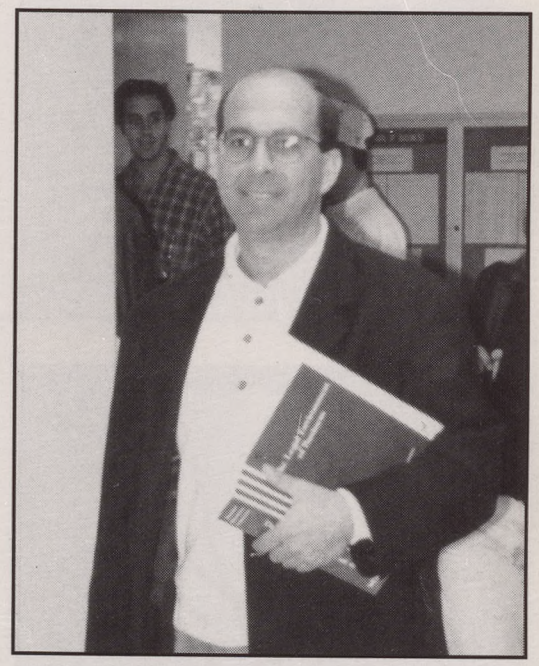

We have completed the two-year review of our undergraduate core curriculum. The resulting modifications are based in large part on the recommendations of our corporate partners. These modifications provide our students with a strong, competancy-based core curriculum, which positions the the Stillman School to lead business education into the next century. Our alliances with the business community have also lead us to offer a new degree, the Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration. This degree will provide our students with the opportunity to complete our core curriculum and a liberal arts concentration.

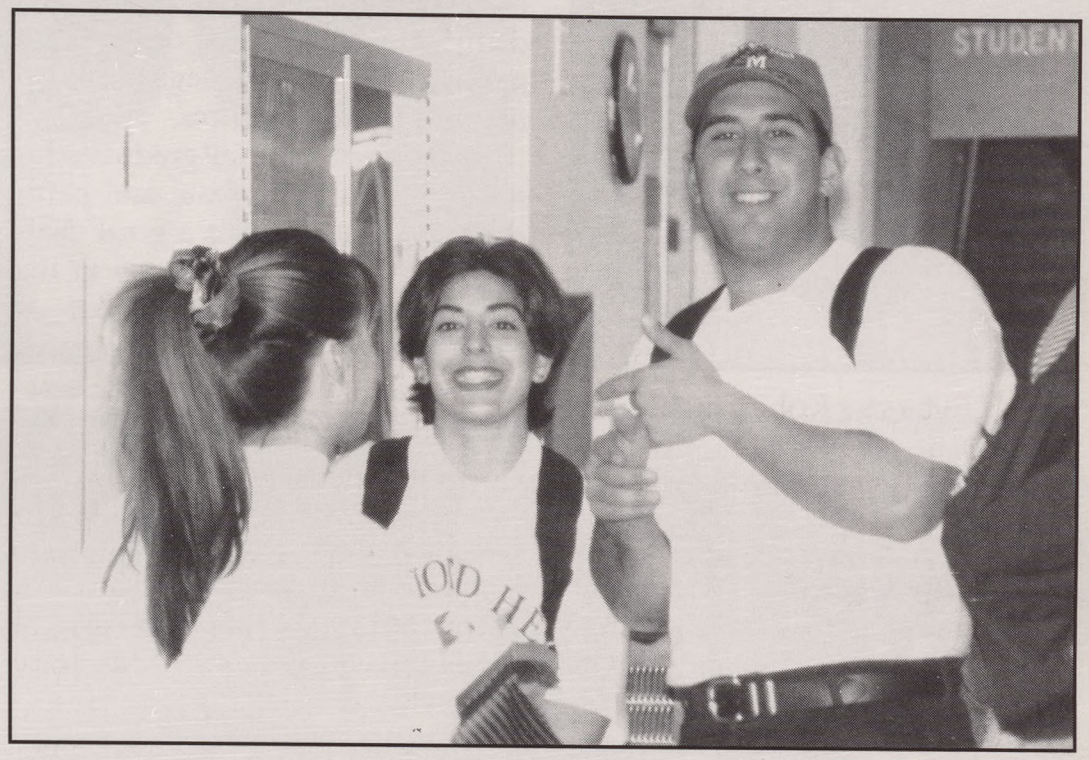

Keep in touch with us so w can share our successes with those who benefit most from them — our alumni. We will continue to request your input concerning ongoing efforts toward enhanced, high quality student and alumni services. Good luck with your future endeavors.

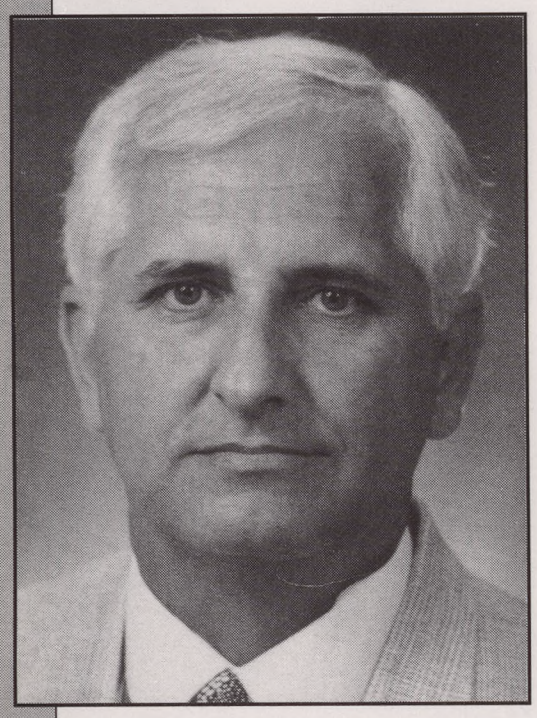

EDUCATION & HUMAN SERVICES

Sylvester Kohut, Jr., PH.D
Dean, College of Education and Human Services

Dear Class of '95:

On the pillars under the archway leading in to the beautiful new Walsh Library are chiseled biblical passages and inspiring spiritual quotations including Mother Teresa's words, "The fruit of love is service." Service is a watchword which best describes both the undergraduate and graduate academic and professional degree programs offered in the college of Education and Human Services.

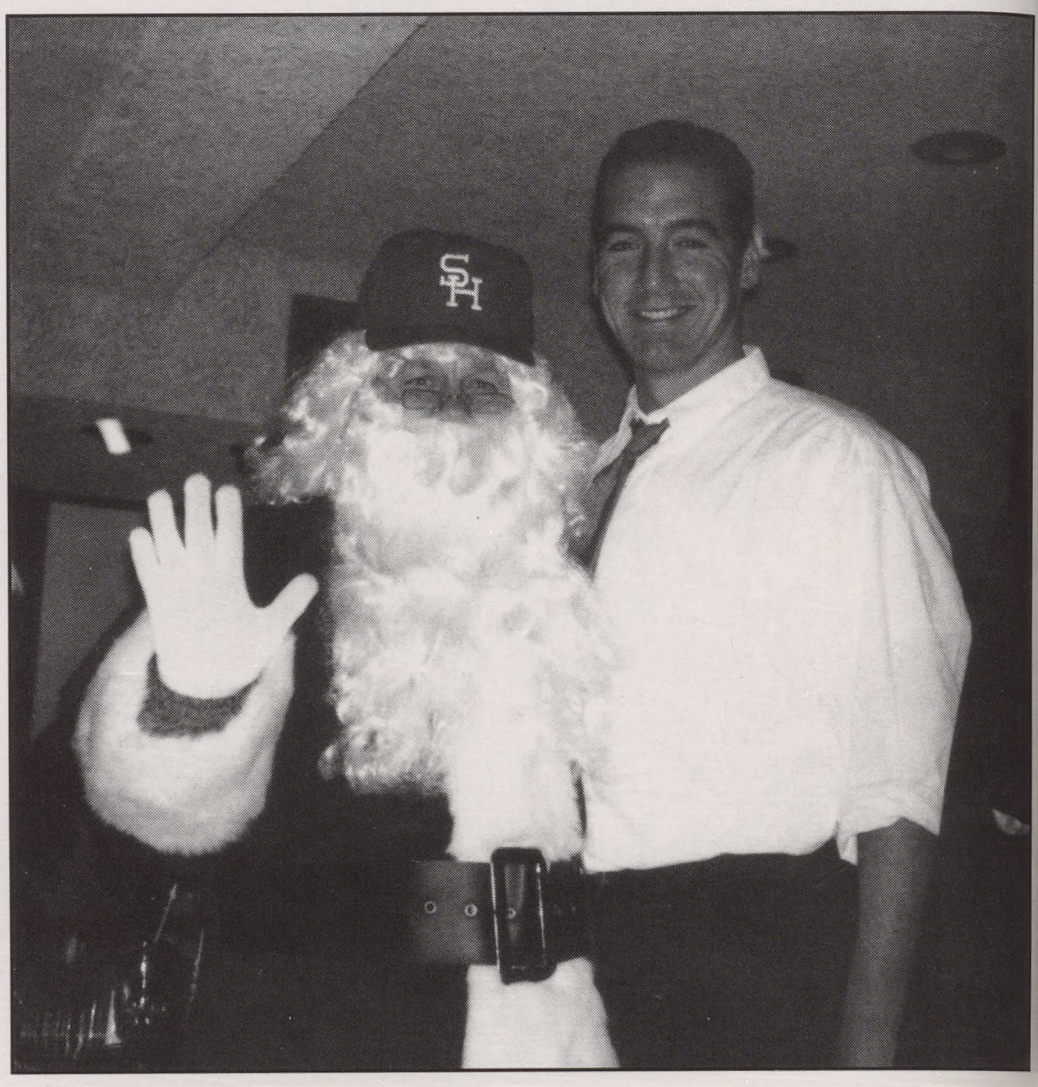

Preparing Seton Hall graduates for service in public, private and parochial school systems is a great challenge, for today's schools ate in the midst of a major transformation or revolution where words and phrases like, systemic reform, authentic assessment, distance learning, school-based decision making, computer technology and multimedia, virtual reality, cultural diversity, critical thinking, productive team membership, and outcome based education make it almost mandatory that today's educators master an everchanging thesaurus of education terminology. This transformation commenced about the same time that you entered Seton Hall University.

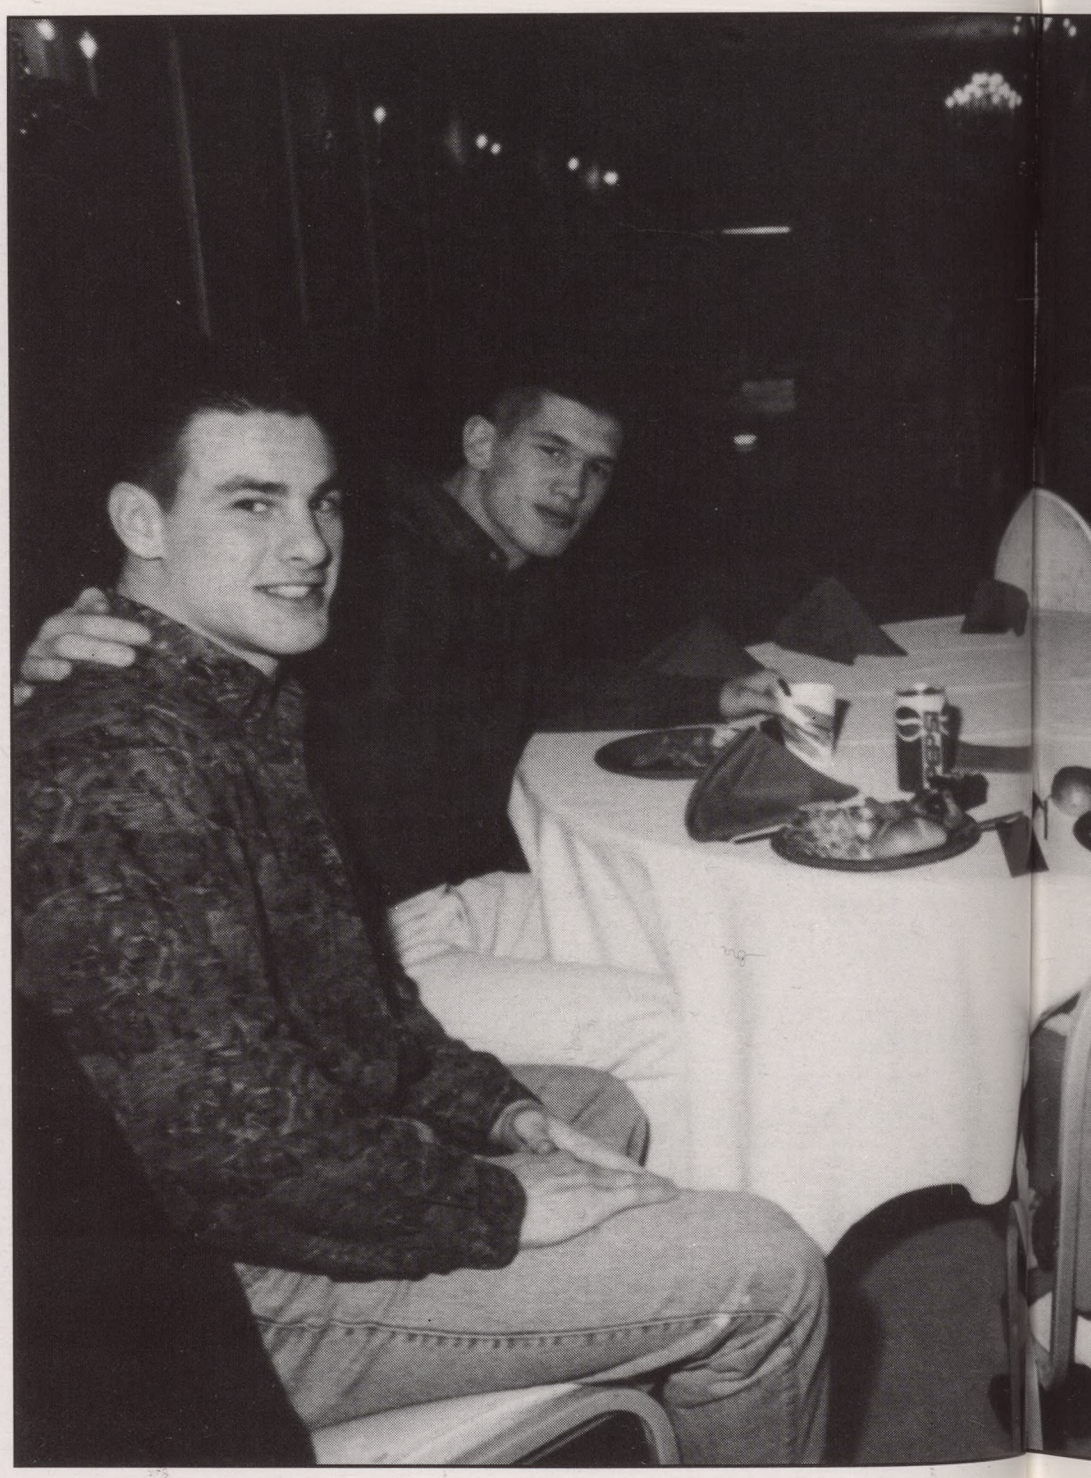

The information super highway of the 1990s demands that Seton Hall graduates in teacher education must possess two very important leadership qualities - "creativity" and "adaptability" - if this teaching and learning revolution is going to progress into the beginning of the 21st century.

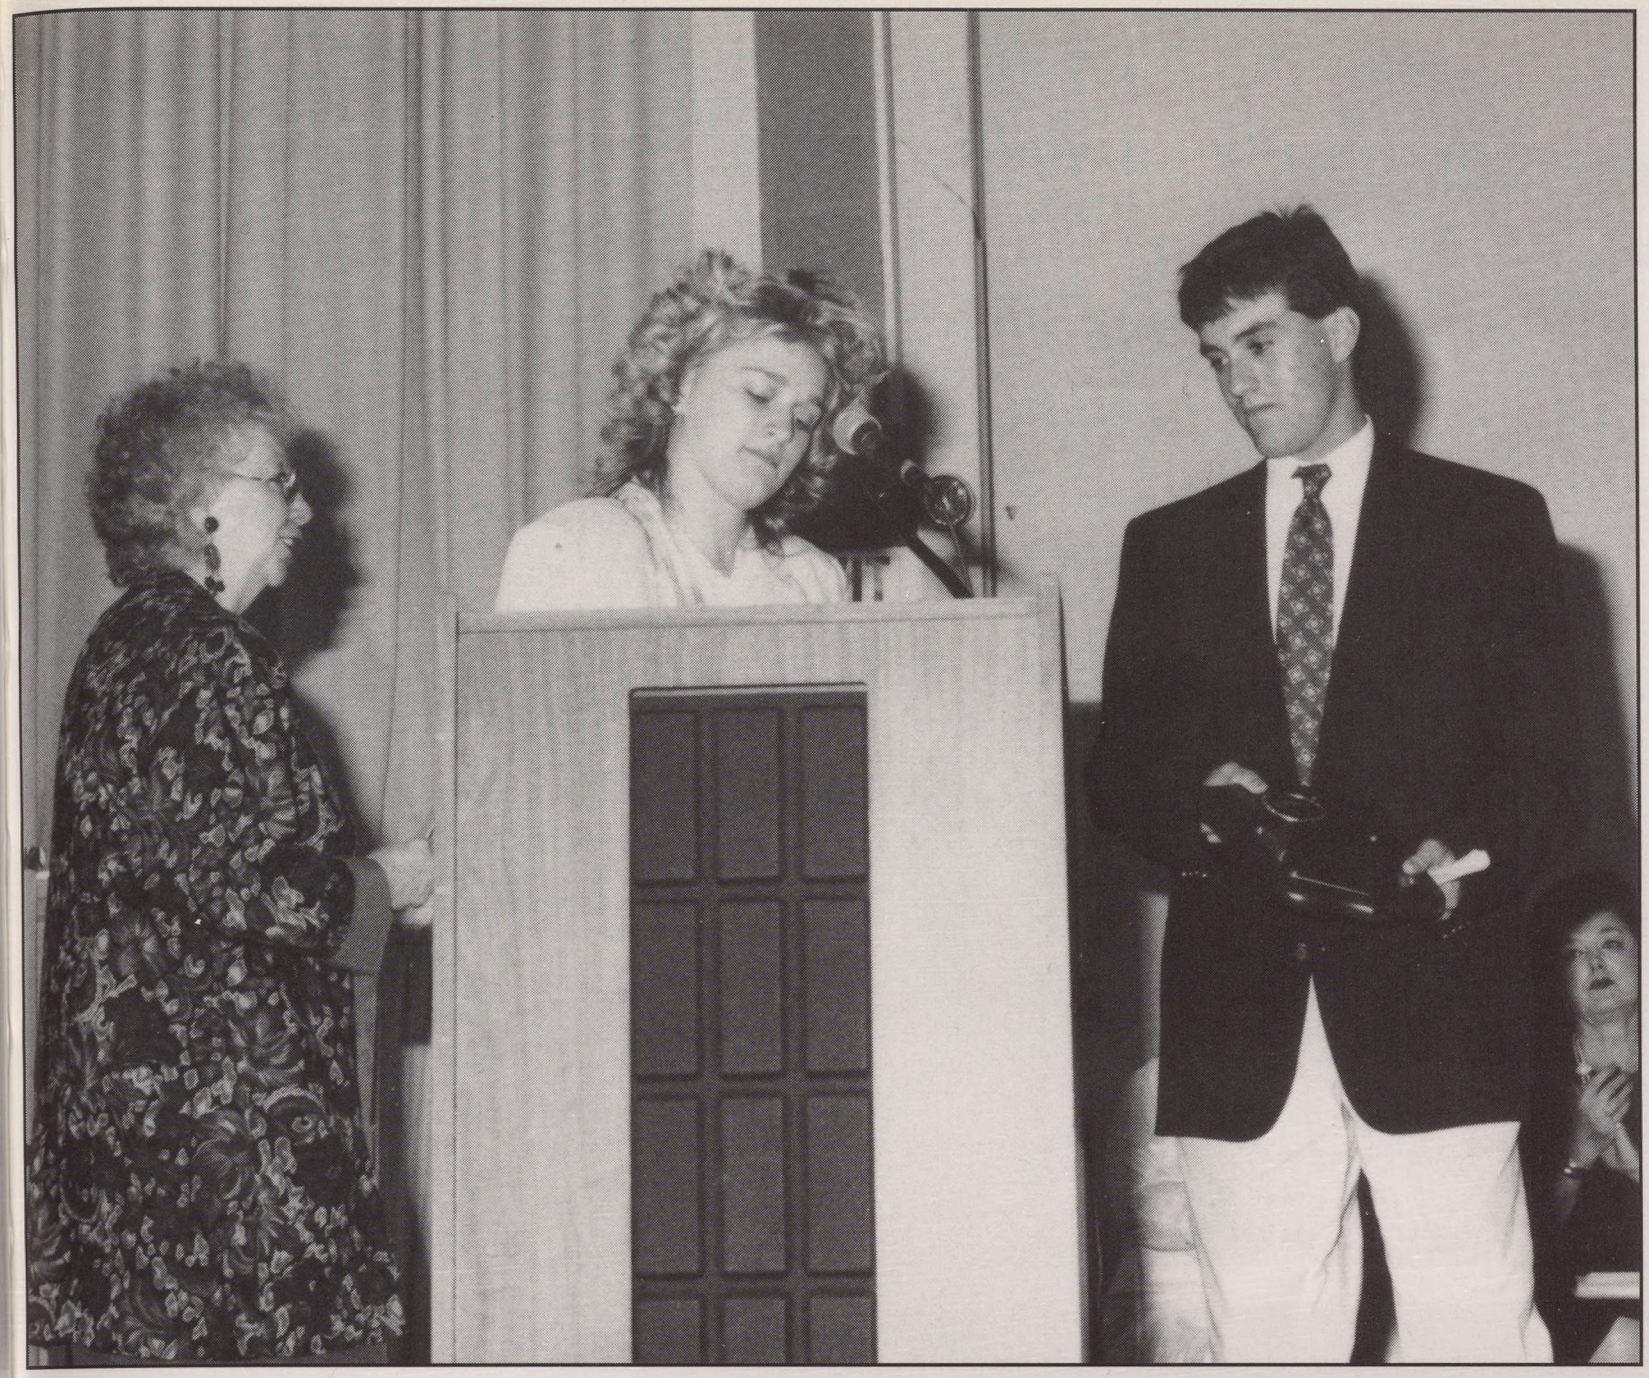

Oliver Wendall Holmes stated in The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table in 1894 that "I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving...We must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it, but we must sail, not drift, nor lie at anchor." We hope that Seton Hall's nationally recognized and accredited teacher education program has provided a firm foundation for future success for its graduates as "risk-takers" and "visionaries".

Our success in creating a different density for our nation's children will rest with your willingness to exert the moral leadership and vision to build a new social order, to face the danger and uncertainty of change, to risk the known for the unknown, and to challenge that which we have come to regard as the dogma of our profession. To do this you will have to take risks, identify the barriers to meaningful change and institutional reform, and sail "sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it." To make this effort successful, perhaps we should all heed the words of Ralph Waldo Emerson who wrote, "What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us." It is this inner-spirit of self reflection and commitment which makes a Seton Hall education unique.

I happen to espouse the Eskimo theory of leadership: "If you're not the lead dog, the scenery never changes," and I am confident that the new "lead dogs" from Seton Hall will continue our great tradition of excellence in education and service.

NURSING

Barbara A. Beeker, Ed.D., RN
Dean, College of Nursing

Dear Class of 1995:

By the time you read this you will have joined the thousands of Seton Hall College of Nursing graduates who have become RNs and are delivering high quality, professional nursing care to the clients they serve. Congratulations on your accomplishments!

The enrollment in the College of Nursing has increased significantly and your class was the largest in several years. In May 1992 the accelerated baccalaureate degree program was added. Both programs prepare students well for nursing practice today and in the future.

Your faculty have received state, national, and international recognition for their professional accomplishments, including research awards from the National Institute for Nursing Research, the American Nurses' Foundation, and Gamma Nu. They have published and made presentations at regional, national, and international conferences. In addition, they have received awards for excellence in practice and education from Gamma Nu and the New Jersey League for Nursing. You should be proud of your faculty's accomplishments for they add a special dimension of quality to the College of Nursing.

Of special significance are your accomplishments while you were students in the College of Nursing. Under your leadership the Student Nurses Association offered a most successful Health Fair, a service to the Seton Hall and South Orange communities. You can be especially proud that the health fair received the New Jersey Student Nurses Association award for Excellence for the Outstanding Community Health Project 199-1995.

You and the academic advisors are to be commended for the initiation of the Student Nurse Advisory Program (S.N.A.P.) whose purpose is to act as a vehicle that enables nursing students to enrich each other's education through formal and informal mentoring processes. Your enthusiasm and active participation have made the program an outstanding success. The program has been shared at national and international conferences and serves as a model for other nursing schools to follow.

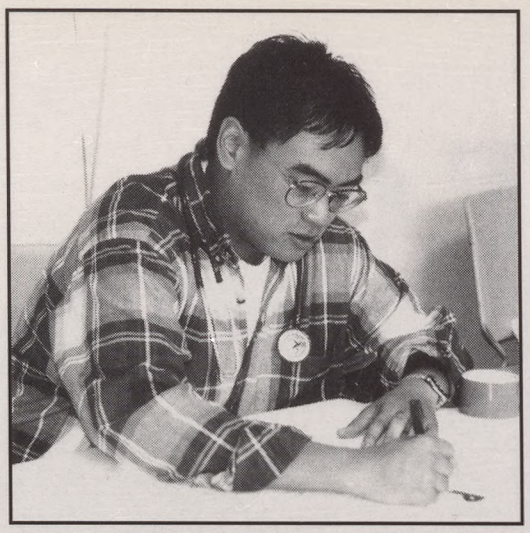

Last, but by no means least, as time went by you worked long and hard to achieve your goal of becoming a professional nurse by acquiring the essential knowledge and the clinical and cognitive skills needed for professional nursing practice. You demonstrated your commitment to the values that guide our nursing practice by exhibiting the attitudes and personal qualities which characterize professional behavior.

Now, as graduates of the College of Nursing, you have become part of a very special group. Since the founding of our program the graduates of Seton Hall have been recognized as caring, competent professionals. We know that you will carry on the fine traditions of those who have graduated before you.

"As Time Goes By"

- We will continue to be proud of you and your accomplishments!
- We look forward to working with you as colleagues!
- We hope you will stay in touch!

SETON HALL UNIVERSIT

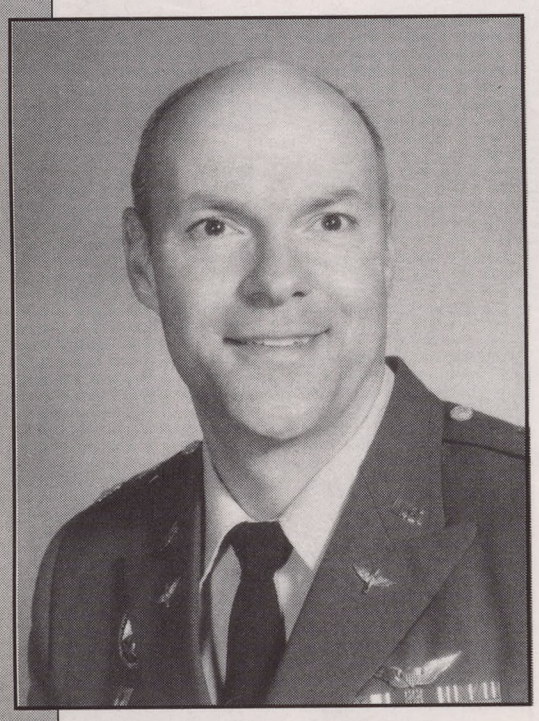

R.O.T.C.

LTC Jack H. Moore
Professor, Military Science

Dear Class of 1995:

In 1991, several students began taking their first classes as freshmen at Seton Hall University. A handful of these students found themselves enrolled in the Army Reserve Officer Training Corp. Uncertain where the next four years would land them, these students proceeded on a program and lifestyle that will impact the rest of their lives.

As young and curious freshmen, they began the transition to being a cadet. This transition was made easy by the smiling faces and 'no-pressure' tactics of the faculty, or cadre. (Then) Battalion Commander, LTC Bighia and his Executive Officer, Major Tad Smith, started the process of indoctrinating young students with the morals, ethics and etiquette appropriate for a cadet. Ideas ranging from getting good grades to being punctual to the respect of authority were instilled. Unconsciously, the cadets began to mature.

Returning for their sophomore year, the cadets were expected to uphold certain responsibilities. They had to respond to the juniors, seniors and cadre appointed over them. In addition, they were used as role models for the incoming freshmen. Under the guidance of the new Battalion Commander, LTC Jack Moore, Major Philip Spies and SFC Gardner had the task to train the sophomores in tactics. No longer newcomers, the sophomores were expected to act and react appropriately.

The junior year would present new challenges. Captain Thomas Webb, the training officer, along with SFC Nelson would prepare them for their most tasking year in ROTC. The juniors were responsible for how the entire battalion was represented. Teamwork was the key. They would lead the underclassmen by example. In addition to their training, the cadets were to participate in military dining events to mark the 100-year celebration of ROTC at Seton Hall. All of this was performed while being required to maintain a respectable academic standing. By this time, those who remained formed a tight bond.

At the end of the year, a select few would be eligible to represent Seton Hall University ROTC at a six-week test of their skills along with the juniors of other schools, in Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Advanced Camp '94 was the proving grounds for the juniors and their rite of passage to becoming cadet officers. A sense of camaraderie that had been building peaked when the cadets came together on the fourth of July.

Returning their senior year, the seniors had a sense of accomplishment and a high level of confidence. Under the guidance of LTC Moore and his new executive officer, MAJ James Guerrieri, their new responsibility was to train the rest of the cadets. It was their turn to impress the uncertain freshmen as they had been impressed only three years ago.

At the end of the 1994-1995 school year, only 15 of the original cadets remained in their class. Each had matured greatly, possessed a high level of confidence and a sense of responsibility. Throughout the course of their college careers, they had become team players; always looking to help one another. They had become leaders; always leading by example. They had become teachers; mentors for those underclassmen who looked up to them. They had become confident; able to handle pressures in any situation. They had become strong; both mentally and physically. They had become officers in the United States Army. But above all else, they had become friends, and shall remain as such, as time goes by...

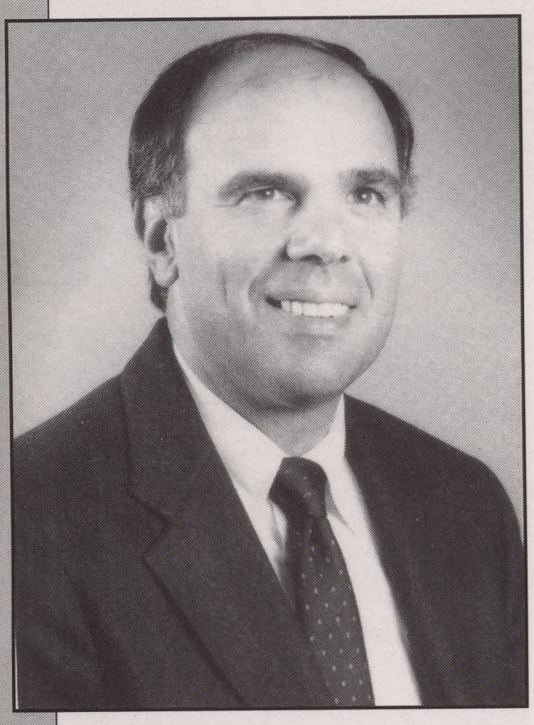

PRESIDENTS

SCHOOL OF LAW

Ronald J. Riccio, Esq., JD
Dean, School of Law

Dear Class of 1995:

Seton Hall University will always have special meaning for me, as I am sure it will for you. It was here that I discovered the intellectual side to myself, which at the time, I was more likely to deny than to admit. When I was a youth growing up in the city, it was through ability in sports and/or aptitude for mischief that peers measured the success of one another. Academic ability was a liability not an asset. An insightful and caring Seton Hall history professor radically changed this mindset for me, and in the process, forever altered the direction of my life.

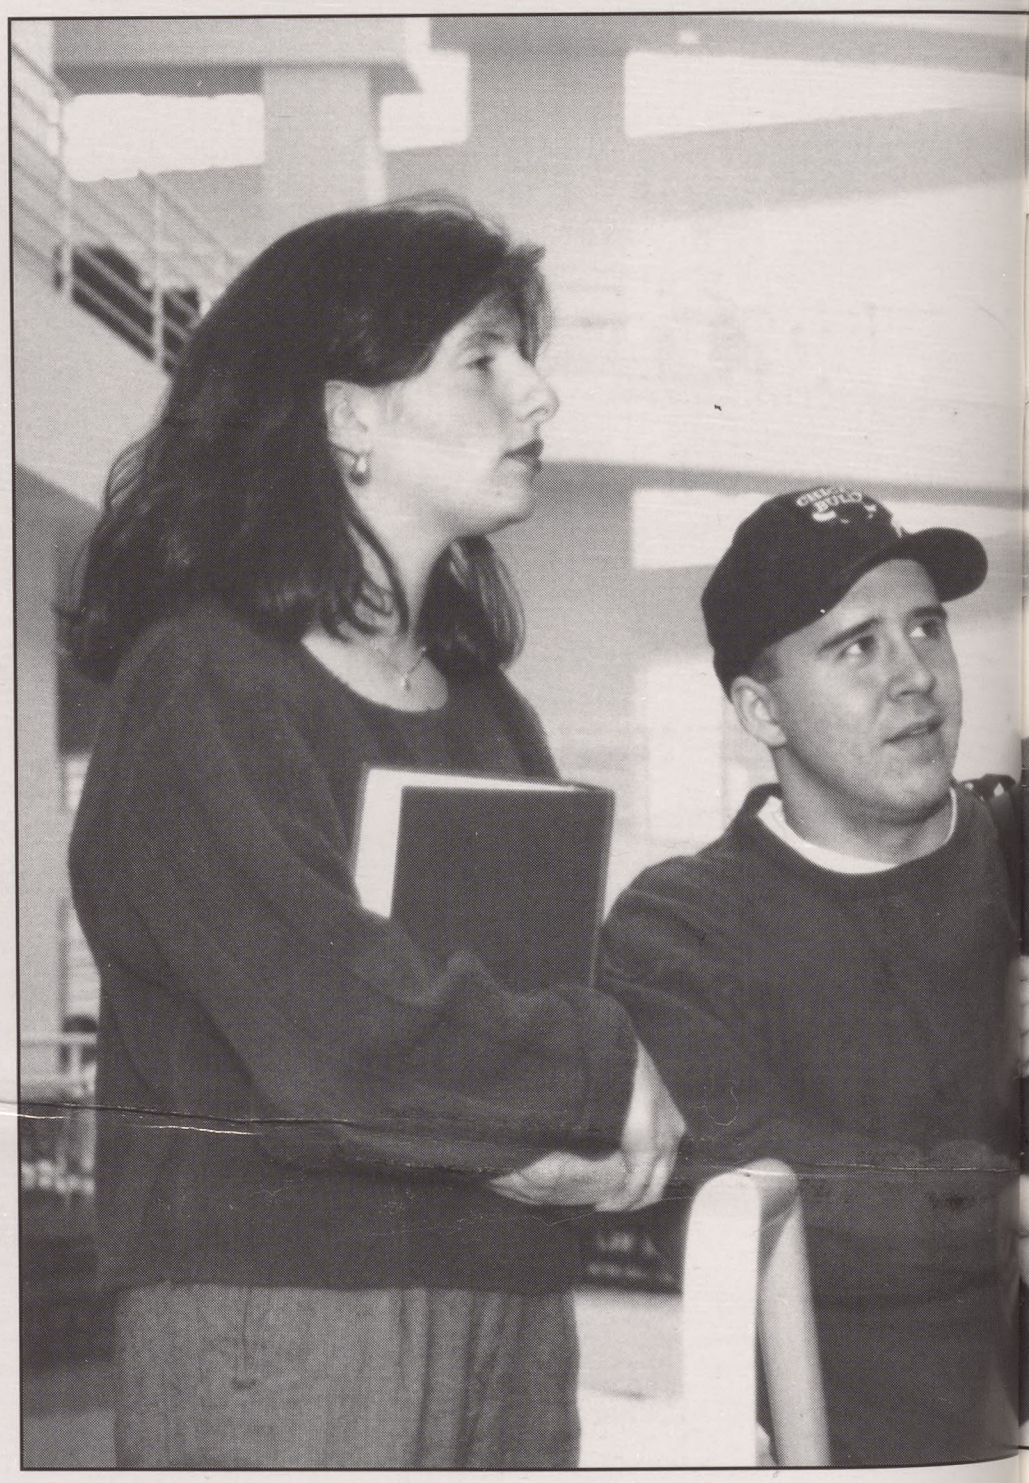

I frequently reflect on my days as an undergraduate and law student at Seton Hall. I realize that but for my Seton Hall education I would not have those things in life that are important to me - family, friends and the ability to make life better for others. These are the precious gifts that you have the opportunity to gain thanks to your own Seton Hall experience.

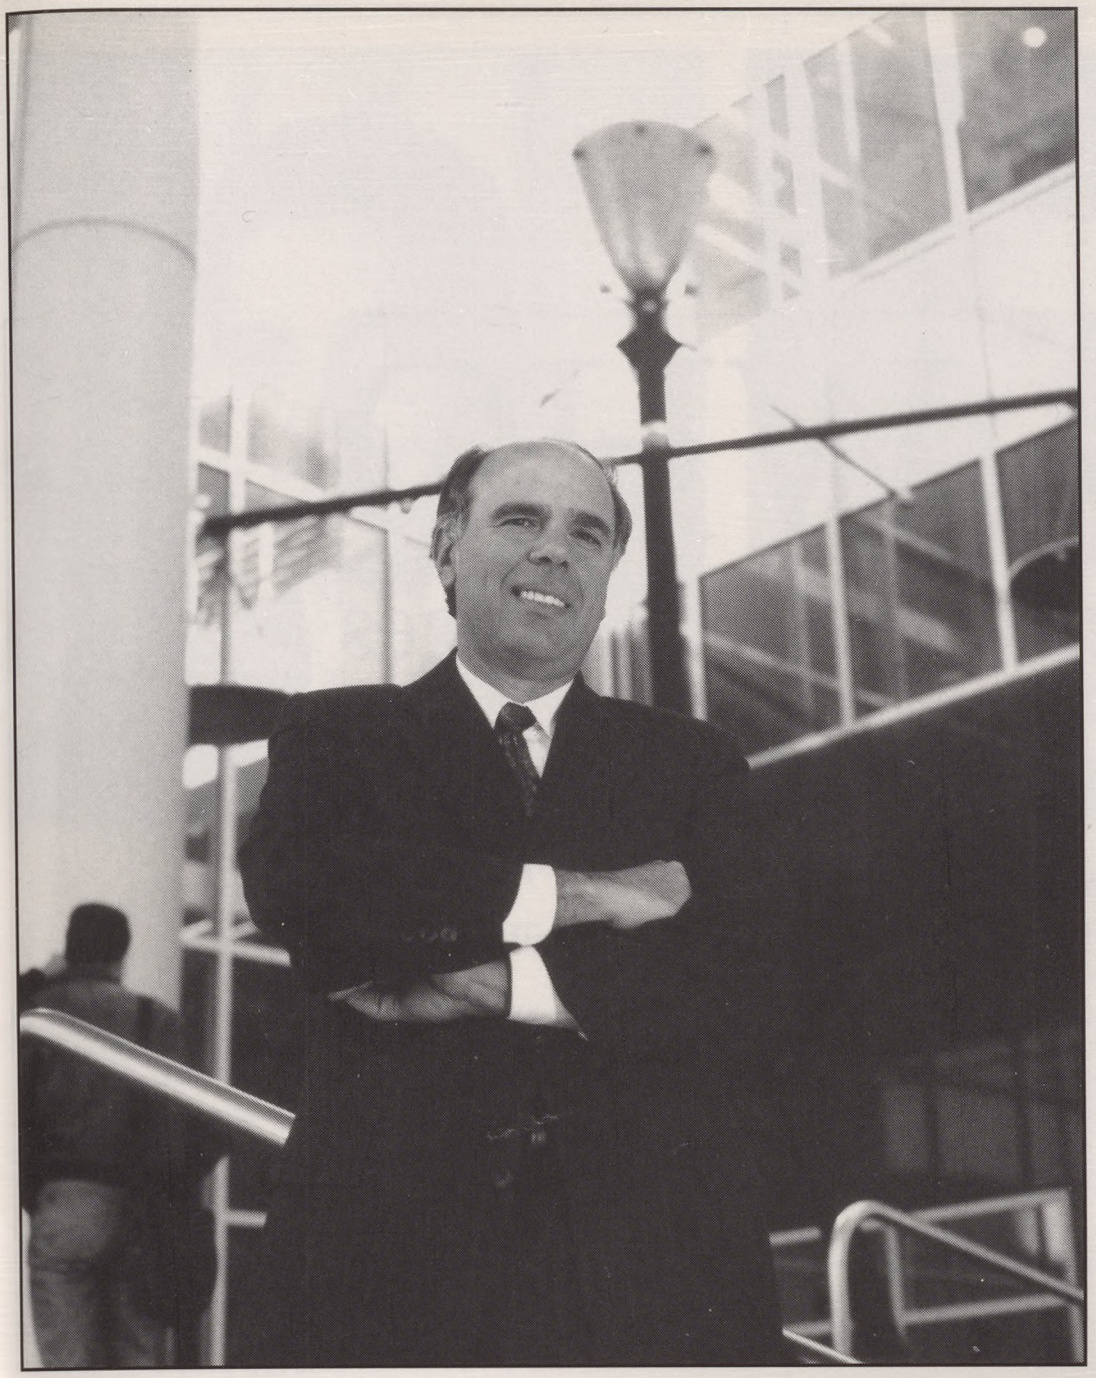

Wherever I go, I am frequently asked, "What makes Seton Hall so special?" My answer is always the same: We successfully combine a rigorous educational program with respect and sensitivity for our students. The result is that our law students and alumni are very happy with our school in all of its many dimensions. This comes as no surprise to me. Seton Hall has long maintained a reputation as an institution which recognizes untapped potential in students, demands that they reach their potential, but extends a helping hand when they stumble. We are rigorous, but we are also collegial and friendly.

The success of our great University is the product of years of effort by thousands of ordinary people doing the extraordinary. In your own life, like that of an institution, you should know that true success is earned not given. There is no substitute for hard work, integrity and honesty. And please remember that while it is gratifying to receive material rewards for a job done well, this is not the criterion of success. so it is that my wish for each of you is success, the same kind of success our University has enjoyed. Not success which is ephemeral, but success which is timeless, the kind of which will, in the words of Emerson, allow you "to laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children..to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to leave the world a little better...to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived."

Congratulations and best wishes for a bright future.

WHO'S WHO
In American Universities and Colleges

The 1995 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of a very selective group of Seton Hall students who have proved themselves to be outstanding student leaders. Recipients of this prestigious award have not only dedicated themselves to serving the University community through extracurricular activities, but have also attained exceptional academic achievement.

The campus nominating committee reviews each applicant's personal profile. In so doing, they select those students who have excelled in the following areas: academic achievement; service to the community; leadership in extra curricular activities; and potential for continued success.

The names and biographical profiles of the students selected from the 70 applications, which were reviewed at Seton Hall, joined an elite group of students from more than 1,800 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations in the annual directory.

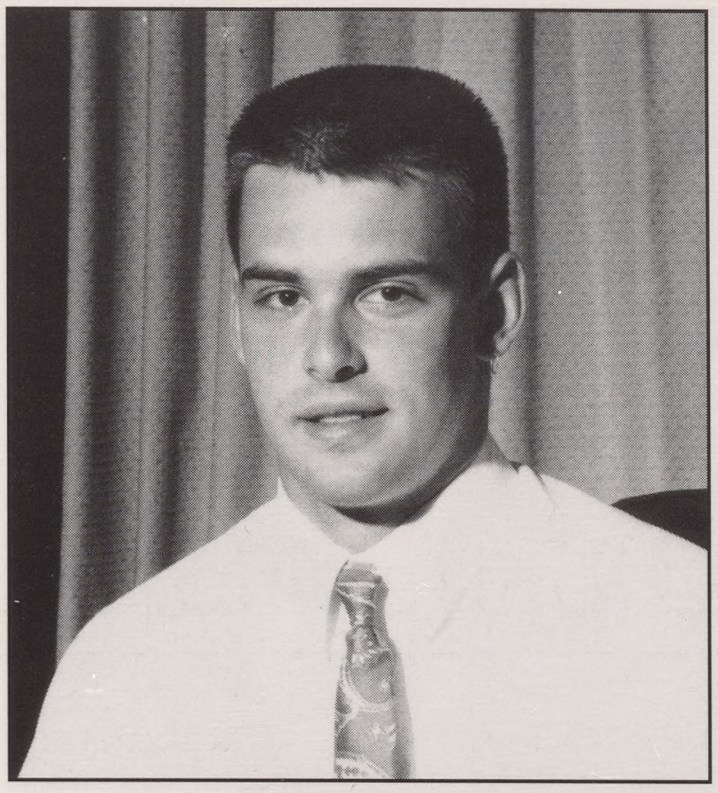

This year, 47 students from Seton Hall University have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders. The 1994 nominating committee which selected these individuals included Cindy Watkins, assistant director of student activities; Ann Marie Rispoli, graduate assistant; Dr. Karen Boroff, Stillman School of Business; Dr. Jim Conway, professor of psychology, and Matthew Geibel, graduate student.

Being Greek in 1995 meant acting as a leader in the SHU community, working for the betterment of that community. The Greek system always has exemplified leadership, brotherhood and sisterhood, scholarship and community service.

In the fall, Greeks welcomed Eileen Stevens to campus to speak on the liabilities of hazing. Fraternities held fundraisers to support their national philanthropies; the brothers of Phi Kappa Theta hosted their annual Pirate Queen, while the brothers of Phi Kappa Sigma sold hot dogs outside The Pub. Sororities held the most successful informal rush ever at SHU, welcoming 70 new women to Greek life. Spring highlights included the Greek Leadership Conference, Order of Omega initiation of 30 new members, Sorority formal Rush, Alpha Phi Delta Epsilon's Annual Pirate King, Pi Kappa Alpha's Clam Bake, and Tau Kappa Epsilon's fundraiser. The semester concluded with Greek Week.

This year, the Greeks raised over $4,000 for victims of the bombing of the federal office building in Oklahama City. Greek life is growing at SHU and has proven itself an integral component of life at The Hall.

Greek Week

The Pikes were the overall winners among the fraternities, while the sisters of Alpha Phi claimed the sorority title.

The annual Student Activities Day, held in early September and sponsored by the Department of Student Activities, was a huge success. With enthusiasm and student interest growing, the day provided an abundance of activities for students to get involved.

With over 100 clubs and organizations to choose from, there was something for everyone to get involved in. Whether listed as "academic," "religious," "service," or "athletic," all clubs offered opportunities to socialize and interact with new people.

The many activities that clubs sponsored were an integral part of the college experience. Hearing oral arguments presented before the United States Supreme Court in Washington D.C. with Phi Alpha Delta, organizing Career Day with Alpha Kappa Psi, or competing on The Brownson Speech and Debate Union were just a few of the many opportunities that occured throughout the year. Joining and getting involved is an encouraged aspect of an education at The Hall. Extra-curricular actvities encourage students to emerge as unique individuals among the many Seton Hall students.

The 1994-1995 athletic season was one of change and of new accomplishments. It was a season filled with challenges, victories, additions and traditons. Both team and individual successes highlighted the season as Pirate athletics continued to entertain and excite the Seton Hall community.

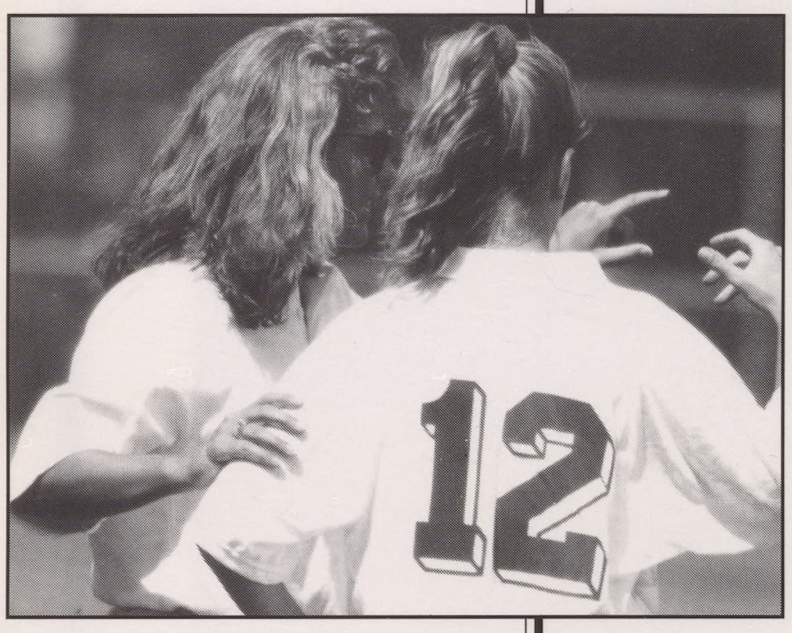

The women's volleyball team continued on their road to success by ending the season with the best record in its 17-year history.

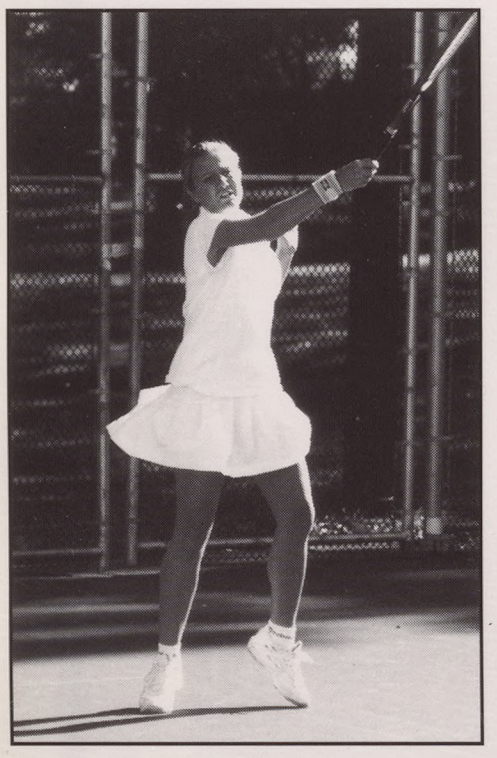

For the second consecutive year, the women's basketball team received a bid to the NCAA Tournament where they advanced to the second round. The men's basketball team marked the 1994-1995 season as the beginning of a "new era" as George Blaney debuted as the Pirate's new head coach.

Coach Blaney was not the only addition to the Pirate roster. The women's soccer team celebrated its inaugural season under head coach Betty Ann Kempf as they became Seton Hall's ninth women's varsity sport.

Once again, Seton Hall athletics demonstrated the timelessness of Pirate spirit and pride.

The Year In SPORTS

MEN'S SOCCER

The men's soccer team finished the season with a 12-6-0 overall record, a 5-3-0 BIG EAST record, and a trip to the BIG EAST Tournament.

Seton Hall clinched the BIG EAST Tournament by winning a pair of conference games. The first was a 2-0 victory over the Villanova Wildcats. Seton Hall jumped to an 1-0 first-half lead when Steve Whelan scored from eight yards out on an assist from Jeremy Cohen. The Pirates dominated the game and secured the win at 70:46 with a goal by Matt Fitzpatrick assisted by Michael Magarinos. Seton Hall outshot Villanova 16 to 6 while Pirate goalkeeper recorded three saves in the victory.

The second of the pair was a 6-2 victory over the UConn Huskies. The Pirates captured a fast 1-0 lead when Skjalg Myk-lebust scored at 1:49. Whelan led the team to a 2-1 halftime lead with a four-yard header off a corner kick. The Huskies knotted the score at two with a goal at 47:24. Less than two minutes later, Whelan responded with a goal after following up on a shot by Tom Houston. Whelan completed his performance by netting a five yard header off of a corner kick by Peter Gonzalez. Todd Jacobs and Steve McKee sealed the victory, adding the fifth and sixth Pirate goals. Shaw recorded four saves.

Seton Hall, the fourth seed, then entered the BIG EAST Tournament against the top seed and BIG EAST Regular Season Champion, Georgetown. The Pirates put up a good fight but eventually succumbed to the Hoyas 2-1.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

The women's soccer team finished its inaugural season with a 4-12-1 overall record and 1-2 mark in the BIG EAST Conference. The season was highlighted by a pair of wins. The first was the season-opener at Owen T. Carroll Field. The Pirates defeated Iona 3-0. In the second, the Pirates captured a 3-1 victory over Georgetown in their first-ever BIG EAST Conference match. Seton Hall was down 1-0 when Andrea Scannapieco spearheaded the Pirate rally by netting an 18-yarder off of an assist by Geminesse Jones. The Pirates jumped into the lead at 59:54 when Scannapieco served a crossing pass to Michele Canning who blasted a shot into the right corner. Janet Hassenplug sealed the victory when her first goal of the season found the near post and the back of the net.

Next year, the Hall will join six other BIG EAST programs (Boston College, UConn, Georgetown, Providence, St. John's and Villanova) in a full round-robin competition.

VOLLEYBALL

The volleyball team began and ended the season with their best record in the history of the program (30-3)(7-1). The Pirates captured two BIG EAST victories to put them in a tie for first place in the conference standings. First, they recorded a 3-0 win over then-conference-leading Connecticut. Then they captured a 3-1 victory over the Villanova Wildcats. To solidify their position in the Conference standings, they defeated St. John's. Seton Hall closed out the conference regular season with a 7-1 mark which tied them with Connecticut and Pittsburgh for the regular season crown.

Entering the BIG EAST Tournament as the No. 1 seed, the Pirates easily defeated Providence in the first round. This advanced the Hall to the second round where they faced nemesis Pittsburgh. In what turned out to be a very close match, the Pirates ultimately fell to the Panthers to conclude the campaign, 31-4.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

The Men's and Women's Cross Country Team started off the season at the Lafayette Invitational, where the men took seventh place and the women took eighth. The team's best finish of the season was at the NJ College Championships. The men finished in third place, while the women placed fifth.

Throughout this season, all team members contributed their fair share. However, two runners, Violet Blake and Bryan Spoonire, consistently came out on top. Blake was the top Pirate finisher for the women's team in every meet. In addition, she led the women's team to an eighth place finish at the BIG EAST Championship, which is the best finish in the history of the program.

Spoonire, a senior, captured the first place title at both the Lafayette Invitational and the Fordham Invitational before going to the New Jersey College Championships, where he picked up his third individual first place title. He then clocked a school record and 1994 course record to capture the Metropolitan Championships. And, at Boston, he captured his first-ever BIG EAST Cross Country title.

The BIG EAST Champion ended the season with a trip to the IC4A Championships and an invitation to the NCAA Championships in Arkansas.

SWIMMING

The Seton Hall swim team concluded the regular season with a 3-10-1 record for the men and a 7-7 record for the women. They opened their respective campaigns at home with wins over St. Peter's and Howard. Their biggest team success was achieved when the Pirates traveled to Iona and swept the Gaels. The men won 58-34, while the women took a 73-40 victory. The men were led by Ryan Murphy, Chris D'Anna, and Walter Bell, who each recorded two first place finishes. Murphy and D'Anna each set new school records in the 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard breaststroke, respectively. J.P. Paradis and Eddie Martinez also posted victories. The women had eight different swimmers take home first place finishes. Jeanine Wolert scored two first place finishes to lead the way. Maria Arias set a new school record with a first place finish in the 100-yard breaststroke. Maureen Moran, Carla Stetter, and Jen Colsant all clocked winning times. In diving, Camie Kornely swept both the one-meter and the three-meter.

At the BIG EAST Conference Swimming and Diving Championships, the men took eighth place and the women took seventh.

WRESTLING

The Wrestling Team took to the mats at the Central Connecticut State Open. Emilio Nardone captured the 134 lb. title and Eric Smith placed second in the 118 lb. class.

The Pirates had one week of particular success. The Pirates first traveled to Rutgers, where they defeated the Scarlet Knights, 26-6. Joe Burke and Alex Kaliakmanis each scored major decisions. Lou Cerchio and Emilio Nardone also scored wins in the match.

Seton Hall then won two out of three matches in the eight-team duel meet at Bloomsburg University. The Pirates defeated East Stroudsburg, 26-12, and Franklin & Marshall, 26-17, before falling to Virginia, 20-13. Burke and Cerchio led the way with a win in each of the three matches. Chuck Haas and Nardone also came out with two wins a piece.

Both Burke and Cerchio got to wrestle in the NCAA Championships. Burke placed third at 158 lbs. while Cerchio took seventh at 165 lbs.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The Women's Basketball team had yet another outstanding year. From the season opener until the NCAA Tournament, the women's team gave the crowd a lot to cheer about.

In an especially exciting game, Seton Hall beat the Villanova Wildcats (60-59) in overtime. Dana Wynne converted two free throws in the final minute and grabbed a key rebound with 2.2 seconds left in the overtime to lead the Pirates to victory.

The Wildcats held a 26-25 advantage at the break, but the teams were even throughout the second half as the score was tied 10 times with neither squad taking more than a two-point lead. In the extra session, Villanova garnered a 59-58 lead before Wynne's two free-throws sealed the Pirates' victory.

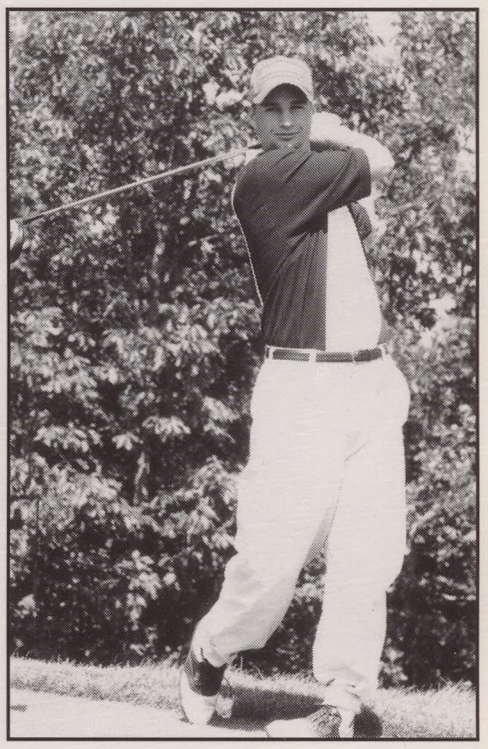

Wins such as this earned the Pirates an invitation to the BIG EAST Championship at Walsh Gymnasium. In their first contest, the Pirates defeated Villanova 66-53. They then faced the UConn Huskies, who defeated Seton Hall 85-49 and won the Championship . Due to their season's record, the Pirates were given a bid to the NCAA Tournament. Their first match-up against Stephen F. Austen was a success (73-63). In the second round, the Pirates faced the North Carolina Tar Heels in North Carolina. After using a 20-5 run to knot the score at 39-39 with 10 minutes remaining, the Pirates were held to six points over the final 10 minutes and lost 59-45.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

The Men's Basketball team tipped off the regular season with a 69-56 victory over Southern Illinois in the opening round of the United Airlines Tournament in Hawaii. The Salukis became the 22nd consecutive victim of the Pirates in season opening games.

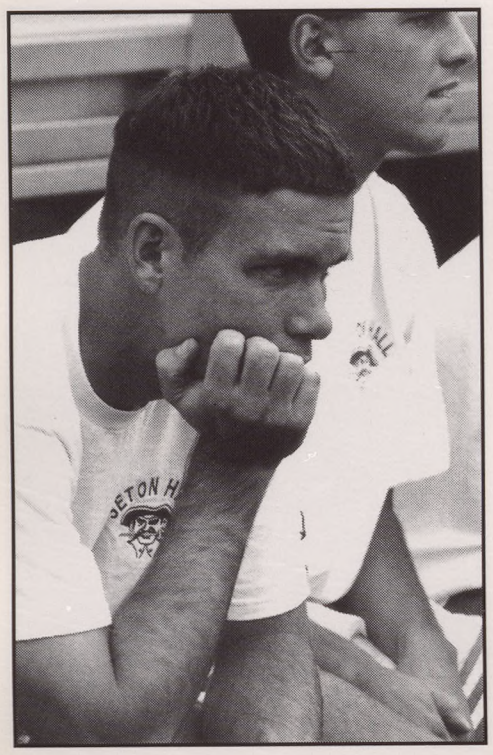

In the home opener and new Head Coach George Blaney's debut at the Meadowlands, the Pirates trounced Long Island University, 110-72. Four of Seton Hall's five starters scored in double figures. In the victory, Seton Hall players set 36 career-high marks and tied 10. The 182 total points scored by both teams set a new Meadowlands record for points in a college game. The 110 points by Seton Hall also broke the Arena's record for the most points in a single game by a college team.

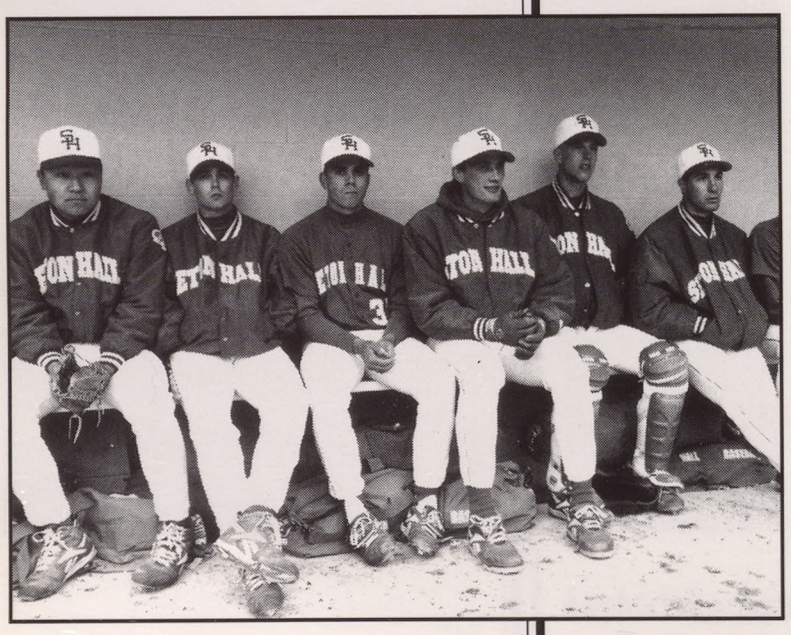

The most dramatic win of the season was against the Pittsburgh Panthers. The Panthers had a 54-45 advantage midway through the second half. Adrian

Griffin answered by scoring eight points during a 12-3 run, which gave the Pirates a 58-57 lead. With Pitt leading by one and less than 30 seconds to play, Danny Hurley drew a foul and sank the second of two free throws to tie the game. Jerwaun Tuck forced a Pitt turnover, which set up the final shot in which Hurley sank a foul-line jump shot with seven seconds to spare. Seton Hall won it 72-70.

In post-season play, the Pirates went to Madison Square Garden, where they took on Boston College. There, they fell to the Eagles, 87-89, despite an incredible performance by John Leahy. The Pirates then went to the NIT, where they lost to Canisius, 71-83. The Pirates concluded the season with a 16-14 overall record and with a 7-11 record in the BIG EAST.

INDOOR TRACK

The Indoor Track and Field season shifted into high gear at the New Jersey USA Track and Field Championships held at Princeton University. The Pirates captured the team titles in both the men's and women's competition.

The men were led by Kevin Lyles and Mike Daniels. Lyles captured the 500 meter title clocking 1:03.06, while Daniels won the New Jersey Division of the 1,500 in 3:57.9. The two then joined teammates Peter Martineau and Albert Royster to win the 4x800 relay in 7:53.52.

Seniors Brandon Gantt and Bryan Spoonire also captured individual honors. Gantt won the 55-meter dash in 6:33 and Spoonire defeated a talented field in the 3,000 crossing the line in 8:20.79.

For the women, freshman sensation Angie Brown lived up to her pre-season billing by winning the long jump with a leap of 19-11 1/2. She also took top honors in the New Jersey Division of the 400-meters with a time of 58.24.

The team was still in high gear for the post season. At the BIG EAST Championships, the men took second place and the women took fourth. Lyles won his fourth consecutive 400-meter race and captured his third straight 200-meter title in 21.15, a record for the meet and the Carrier Dome. Lyles, Kevin Hampson, Mike Dillard and Gantt won the 1,600-meter relay in 3:12.67. Mike Daniels won the 1000 meters in 2:24.27. He then joined Royster, Xavier Brisco and Jason Jackson on the victorious 3,200-meter relay squad. Keisha Caine captured her first-ever 400-meter title by clocking a BIG EAST meet record time of 53.44. She then teamed with Katrina Jarret, Shermaine Ross, and Angie Brown to win the 1,600-meter relay. Ross won her second straight victory in the 500-meter run with a time of 1:11.86. Brown also garnered a second place finish in the long jump (20-3 1/2).

GOLF

This year was a rebuilding year for the men's golf team. With only one returning veteran, senior Dave Kent, more than half of the team's weight had to be carried by his freshman teammates, who are known as the "Fab Four." However, despite the team's youth and lack of experience, it fared quite well and even managed to place in a tie for second at the NCAA District II. Men's Golf Championship held in Maryland.

The Pirates had a two-day total of 619 to tie them with Temple, while both squads finished ten strokes behind first place Penn State (609). Ed Flowerdew paced Seton Hall with a two-round total of 153, which placed him in a five-way tie for ninth place. Shortly behind him was Kent who placed in a three-way tie for 14th by totalling 154. Then came Willie Spicer (155), Jonathan Wolfe (157), and Ed Shannon (166).

BASEBALL

The baseball team finished their first 14 games with a 9-5 record, the strongest start since 1987 when the Pirates earned a trip to the College World Series. Matt Morris paved the way with two victories against Indiana and Western Illinois. In every game except the Manhattan and Ohio State games, the Pirates pounded out more than 10 hits, including 19 versus Bradley and 20 versus Western Illinois. Jim Duffy and Ryan Gorecki were hot at the plate, while Jason Grilli and Jamie Fisher took charge of the mound.

The Pirates kept up the winning ways all season long. When they traveled to Pittsburgh, they used the long ball and great pitching to take two of three games from their long-time rivals. In the first outing, Mike Moriarty broke the game open with a three-run home run to make the score 4-1. Duffy and Alex Andreopoulos added dingers to seal the 11-2 win. Morris put yet another Conference win under his belt as he threw seven innings of four-hit ball and gave up only two runs. In the second game, Grilli pitched eight shutout innings and gave up nine hits, while striking out six in the 13-1 win. Thomas Johnson provided the offense with a two-run homer, while Tim Casey added an RBI triple. In the finale, Pitt turned a 6-5 lead into a 12-5 win with a six-run eighth. However, Casey went four-for-four with a solo homer and Andreopoulos hit a two-run shot.

The Pirates hosted Georgetown in the final regular season BIG EAST series and swept the Hoyas, 17-2, 15-2, and 7-3. They then went to Connecticut for the BIG EAST Championships. They beat Villanova 3-2 in the first round, but lost to Pittsburgh (10-11) and then to Providence (0-6).

SOFTBALL

In one of the first games of the season, the softball team won its first BIG EAST contest in almost two years, with a 5-0 victory over Villanova in the second game of a double-header. Heather Sykes pitched the shutout, while Jen VanderBrink scored the first run in the second as she tripled and then stole home. The Pirates scored three in the third on consecutive singles by Nikki Gwinnett, Carol Sullivan, and VanderBrink and on three Wildcat errors.

Later on, the team swept a doubleheader at Wagner, 3-2 and 6-4. In the first game, Gwinnett led the way by going 1-for-2 with an RBI and a run scored. Melissa Landeck scored the winning run in the top of the fifth on an RBI fielder's choice by Kelly Boyle. Sullivan went 2-4, while Boyle drove in another run with a single in the second. Sykes pitched a complete game, giving up two runs on five hits while striking out three.

In the finale, the Pirates used a three-run eighth inning for a 6-4 come-from-behind win. Seton Hall used three walks and two hits to score the three runs.

MEN'S TENNIS

The men's tennis team fell upon some difficult times this year. But they did raise a racquet when they snapped a 10-match losing streak, beating Lafayette 6-1. The Pirates won five of the six singles matches and all three doubles matches.

Scott Crichlow won at first singles, 6-3,4-6,7-6(4). Perseo Negri was victorious at second singles, 6-3,6-4. Mark Bednarczyk made a comeback to win 0-6,7-5,6-0, at third singles. Mike Rumore took fifth singles 6-3,6-1. And, Geoff Noble won at sixth singles in his final home match, 6-3,6-4.

The Pirates then swept doubles play with Critchlow and Negri winning first doubles, 8-2 in pro-set form. Bednarczyk and Noble won at second doubles, 8-6, while Steve Ogden and Rumore won at third doubles, 8-6.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

In their first match of the fall, the women's tennis team confirmed Coach Kevin McGlynn's notion that the 1994-1995 squad could be one of the best teams in the program's history. They blanked the Villanova Wildcats (9-0), dropping only nine games in singles play.

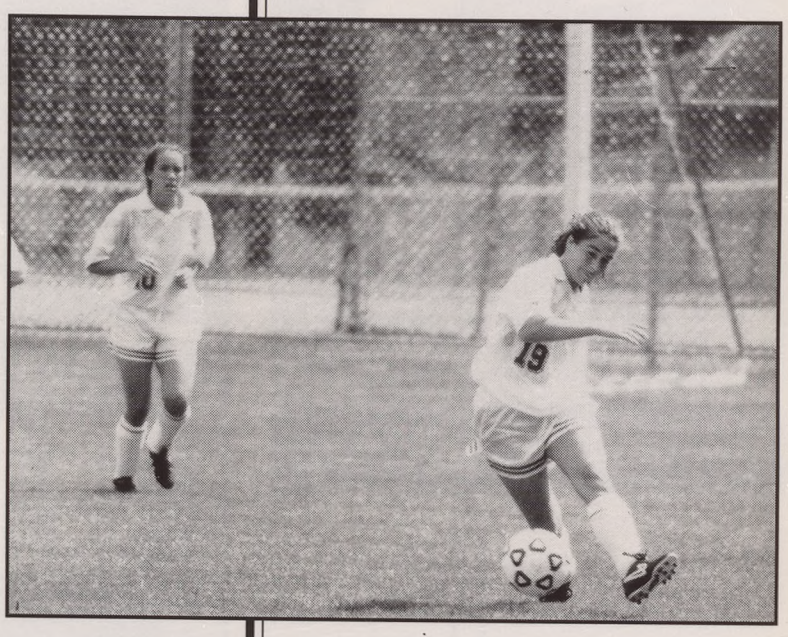

In the Spring, the team finished spring break unbeaten in four straight matches followed by two more huge wins over Georgetown and UMass. Seton Hall won five out of the six singles matches and swept the doubles competition to defeat the Hoyas 8-1. The following week, the team defeated visiting UMass, 8-1. The Hall impressively swept all three doubles matches and took five of six singles contests. They concluded their year with a fourth place finish in the BIG EAST.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S OUTDOOR TRACK

There were many times when members of the Outdoor Track team achieved individual accolades. In addition, on occasions like the Colonial relays the whole team did exceptionally well. Both teams swept the team titles.

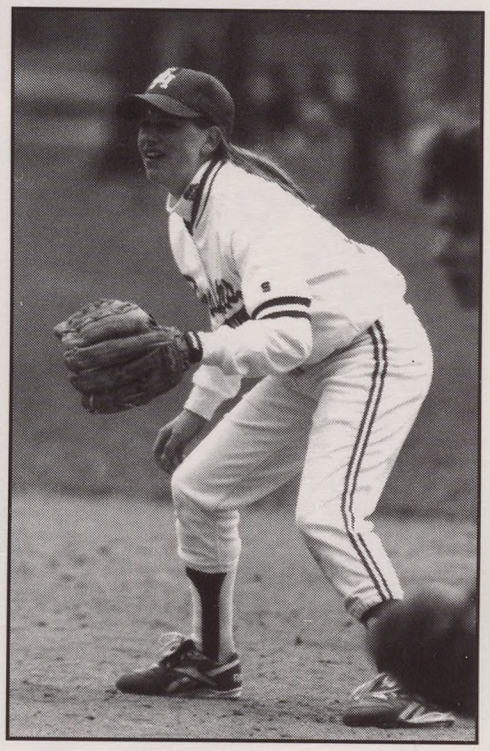

The men's 4 x 100 relay team of Kevin Dyer, Kevin Lyles, Kevin Hampson and Brandon Gantt won with a time of 40.49. Hampson and Lyles teamed with Devon Henry and Mike Dillard to capture the 4 x 400 relay clocking a 3:10.87. Mike Daniels took home a first place in the invitational mile run when he broke the tape in 4:06.34. Gantt finished second and Hampson earned a seventh in the 100 meters with times of 10.6 and 11.05, respectively.

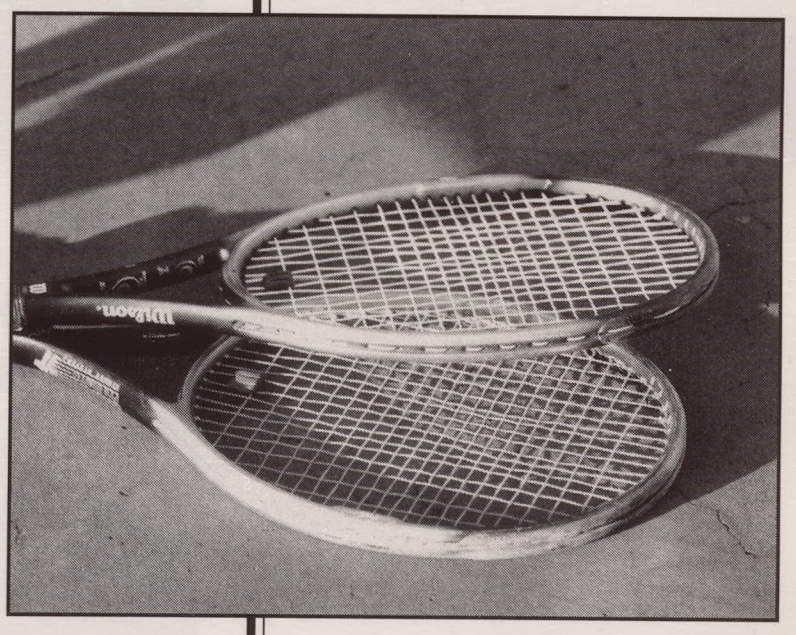

For the women, Angie Brown took first in the long jump with a leap of 20'6 1/2". The 4 x 800 relay team of Tasha Boston, Daisy Bygrave, Julia Sandiford, and Shermaine Ross won the event in 9:02.0, which bettered second place by 16.9 seconds. Boston, Bygrave, and Ross joined with Keisha Caine to claim the 4 x 400 relay in 3:41.11. Tara Watson finished in second place in the 100 hurdles with a time of 46.20. And, Katrina Jarrett collected a third place finish in the 100 meters with a time of 12.30.

At the BIG EAST Outdoor Championships, the men's squad finished fifth and the women took fourth. For the men, Lyles swept the 200 and 400-meter races. Most Seniors will remember Freshmen Orientation as their first Seton Hall experience, as it was here that initial friendships, trusts and even romances developed and were treasured as time went by.

Four years ago, a group of us met in Walsh Gym for the Freshman Convocation. As we nervously sat there wondering if we possibly knew anyone, we were eager to learn what would become of us until we made it to graduation a few years later. After a short while, many of us found ourselves going to class, getting involved in University activities, meeting new friends and surviving Freshman year. As time passed by, we finally became the next graduating class.

No longer could we plan next year's class schedule. Instead we were running to interviews, going to work, and celebrating our last year at the Hall. We were lining up in the Main Lounge to take cap and gown pictures and meeting in Twains Pub for the last few Pub nights. During our time spent at Seton Hall, we not only gained an education in our chosen academic fields, but also learned to accept ourselves and those around us. It is now time for us to take what we have learned, treasure it and allow it to guide us through the future as time goes by.

The Senior Ball

The Senior Ball

the Senior Cruise

Aboard the Spirit of New York, more than 300 seniors partied on an evening cruise around Manhattan that included plenty of food, music and fun.

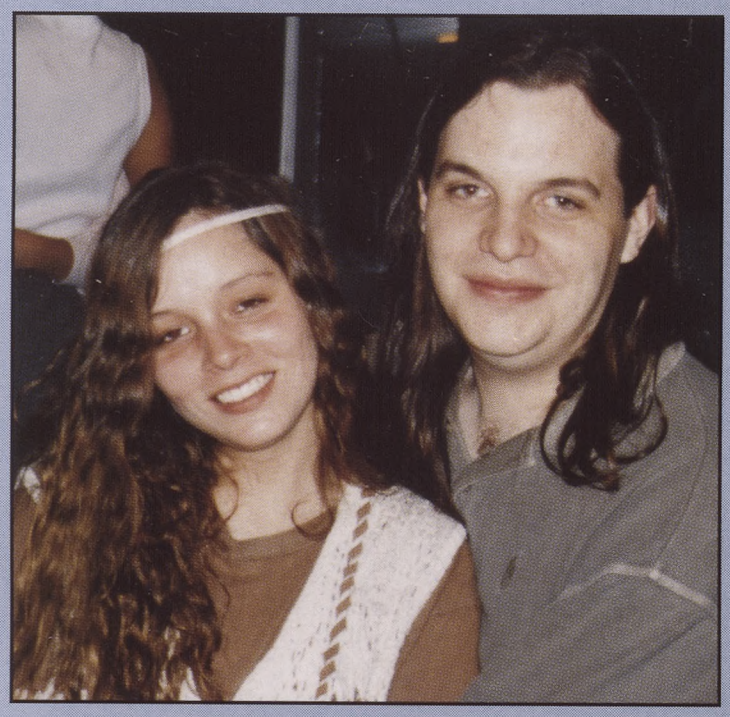

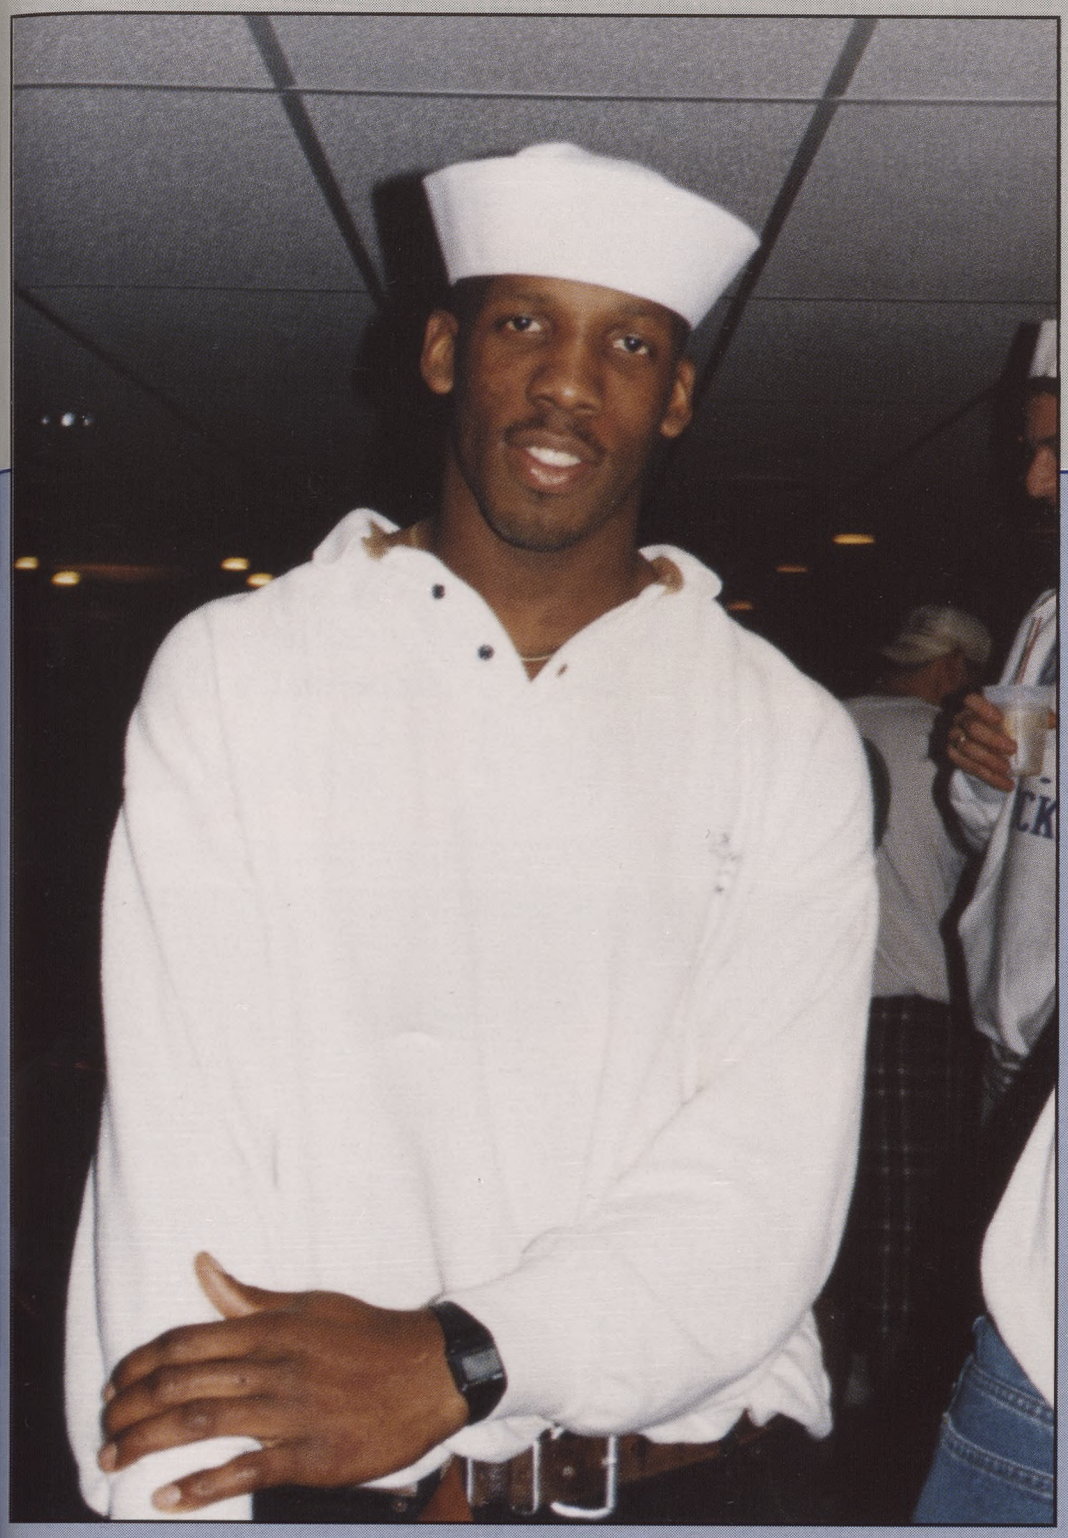

the Senior Cruise

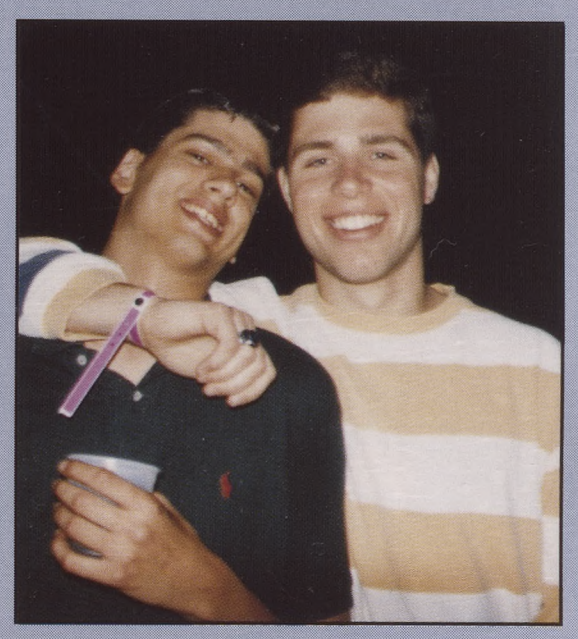

Seton Hall

the Senior Cruise

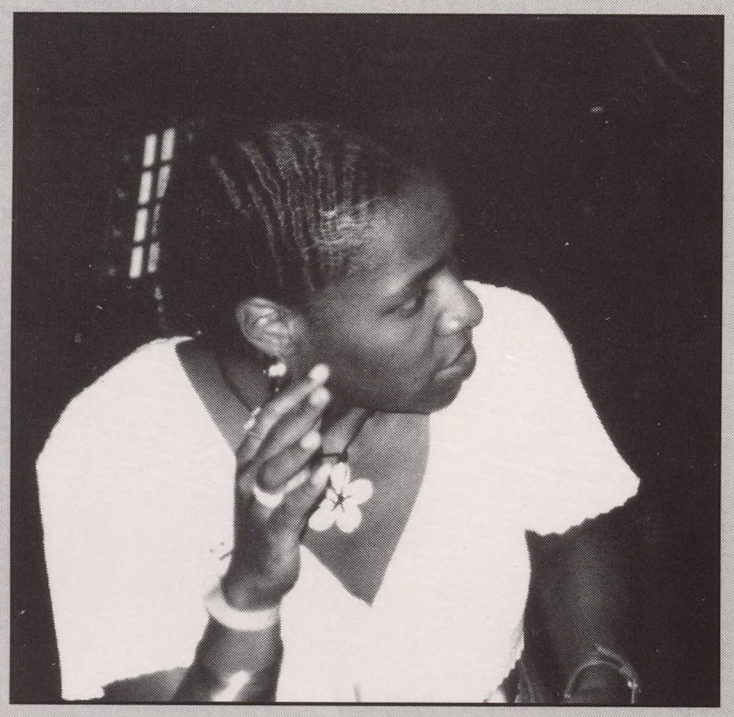

The Senior Celebration Cruise took place on the Spirit of New York on May 18, 1995 with the traditional cruise around Manhattan. The elegant ship helped to create an ambiance that would never be forgotten by the Class of 1995.

The Class of 1995 celebrated in a way which could sum up our four years at Seton Hall—we laughed, we danced and we talked the night away. While some renewed the bonds of friendships with acquaintances, some created new bonds with their fellow graduates.

Although everyone enjoyed themselves, some of us were misty-eyed. There is something to be said about New York City at night. The view is breath-taking, and leaves one nostalgic for things passed, yet full of anticipation for things to come—in our case, Commencement.

All in all, the memory of the Senior Celebration Cruise will forever remain in the hearts of the Class of 1995. For as the saying goes, "Life's truest happiness is in the friends we make along the way," and here at Seton Hall University, we all have made those special friendships that will last forever.

COMMENCEMENT

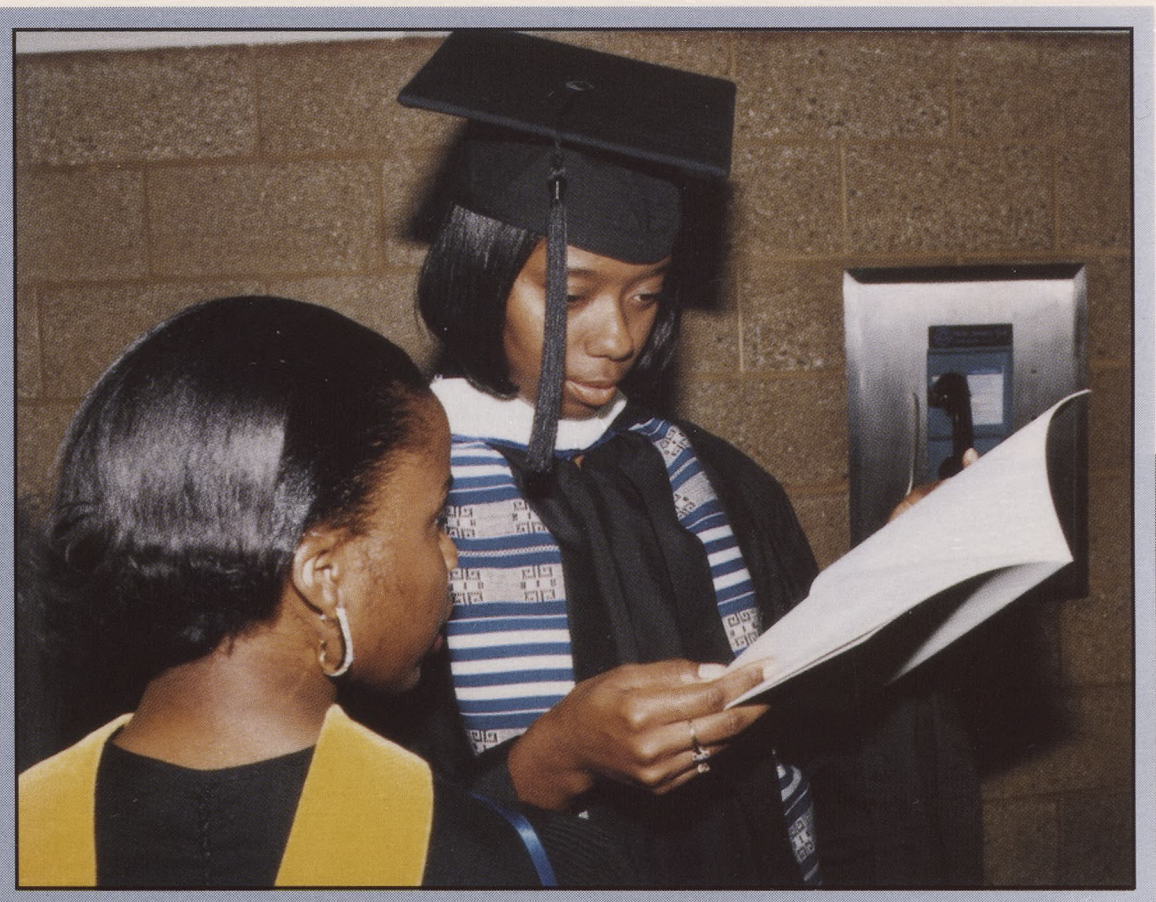

It was truly exciting for the Class of 1995 to assemble as one group. On May 22, we walked with pride as both the sounds of Pomp and Circumstance and the cheers of our family and friends echoed inside the Meadowlands Arena. We were honored for our dedication and unfailing commitment to achieve our personal and educational goals.

Throughout these four years each of us aimed to become the finest student possible. At commencement, the competitiveness we felt during our student days diminished, and now we realized how truly equal we all are. We are talented scholars who will make significant contributions in this complex world. The burden lies on our shoulders to lead this country.

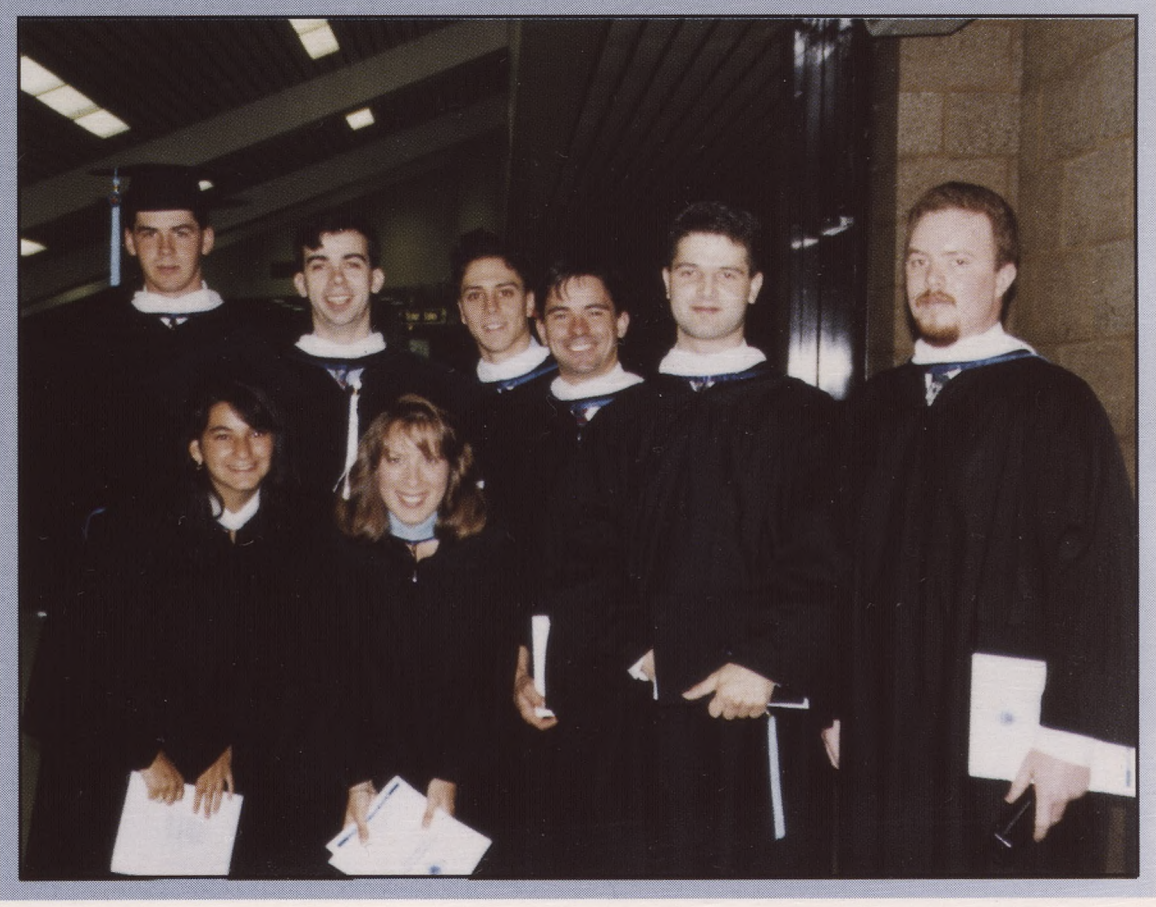

The Governor of Oklahoma, Frank Keating, was honored with a Doctor of Humanitarian Service, honoris causa, for his ability to bring his state and the entire nation together during the Oklahoma City bombing crisis. Mr. Robert E. Brennan, chairman of the Board of Regents, presented on behalf of Seton Hall University a donation of $25,000 toward the city's disaster relief fund. Governor Keating praised Seton Hall University for being the first university to aid those who fell victim to this unwarranted attack.

As the ceremony came to an end, we were officially graduates of Seton Hall University. In the spirit of optimism, graduates wished the best of luck to each other and thanked their parents and professors for all their endless support. Soon the Class of 1995 began to disappear as quickly as it was formed just four years earlier.
